Slayer Suspect Known in State

Medford, July 21 (AP)—Everett Gilbert Parman, 27, sought by Oesville, Calif., as the alleged slayer of George McElroy, 29, collegian, on the streets of Roseville last Saturday, served a 60 day sentence in the Jackson county jail last year on a charge of carrying concealed weapons, the records of the sheriff's office show. Parman was received September 7 and discharged November 1 last.

Parman was arrested in Ashland as a "suspicious character," and the gun-toting charge was filed when the weapon was found. Sheriff Syd L. Brown said.

The state police, Ashland city authorities, and the sheriff, have been requested by California authorities to keep a watch for Parman in this section.

Irate Citizen Arrests Fraud

Medford, Ore., July 21 (AP)—Fred Markham, 43 year old, native of New York, is on the road again, muttering to himself about his need of glasses while a prominent local citizen is rather skeptical about the "golden rule."

Markham approached the citizen today and dolefully requested 30 cents for a loaf of bread and sack of spuds. The citizen, feeling sorry for the fellow, complied. Markham, however, made a dash for the nearest wine store and purchased a quart of wine.

In the meantime, the citizen, feeling pleased for having done a good deed, continued down the street and passed the wine store just as Markham emerged.

"Beg pardon, sir," the latter asked again. "Could you spare 30 cents for a loaf of bread and sack of spuds?"

The citizen, after the shock had passed, lost little time in exchanging the bottle of wine for his 30 cents and then hustled Markham to the police station where he was told to hit the road.

75	8:35	79
79	9:35	86
84	10:35	92

Yesterday's boiling temperature came almost without warning after the 12:35 reading of 92 degrees. At the next reading, 1:35, it stood at 95 and at 2:35 shot up to 100 degrees. Inside of another hour it pushed up to 102 degrees and reached the maximum of 104 degrees at 4:35.

Coming late, the heat lingered on through the evening. At 5:35 it was 102 degrees, and at 6:35 the thermometer showed 98. The midnight reading showed a temperature of 70 degrees.

Klamath Falls, July 21 (AP)—A scorching sun, its rays burning a path through still air, did things to the temperature record here yesterday. The day's official maximum—98 degrees—was six degrees higher than any other day this year and equaled last year's record, set July 29.

Corvallis, July 21 (AP)—A temperature of 103 degrees here yesterday resulted in a fatal heat prostration. J. W. Lora, 50, brickmason, collapsed at work and died two hours later.

Lane County Torrid

Eugene, July 21 (AP)—Old Sol pushed Lane county thermometers to several all-time highs Wednesday afternoon and the prospects were for even higher marks today. Little Blue River, community 40 miles east of Eugene on the McKenzie river, reported the highest temperature, a sweltering 110 shortly after 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon.

McKenzie bridge, another community up the river, recorded an official 108. Other Lane towns reporting high readings included Oakridge, 106 (official and new all-time high); Eugene 100 (although the airport thermometer read 104); and Goshen, 102.

Accident Indicated in Burrill Tragedy

Portland, July 21 (AP)—Coroner E. H. Rider, Vancouver, Wash., said circumstances indicated Forrest Collier (Fritz) Burrill, 39, Portland lumberman whose body was recovered from the Columbia river off a Vancouver dock yesterday, either committed suicide or drove his automobile off accidentally.

Burrill's disappearance last June 8 provided the most puzzling case in recent years. He left a lumberman's meeting at the Portland golf club at 2 a. m., never to be seen alive again. A stopped watch on his wrist showed his automobile plunged off the Vancouver dock at 2:40 a. m.

Rider said it was not clear why Burrill drove to Vancouver, since he had started for his Portland home. Skid marks at the edge of the dock and a battered car window indicated Burrill attempted to free himself.

Too Exciting For Hogger

New York, July 21 (AP)—Ethel Merman, Broadway torch singer "swung it" on the steps of the Twentieth Century limited today and almost swung the train right out of Grand Central station.

An enterprising photographer handed her a signal lantern as she stepped off the train from Hollywood.

"Swing it," he directed. Miss Merman did, and the lantern, and also the strains of "She Started a Heat Wave."

The engineer of the switching locomotive waiting for the signal to pull the train to the yards, caught the swinging and singing and opened the throttle.

The train started up with a lurch. It was stopped finally by a frantic trainman who swung it, but he swung a "stop" instead of a "go" signal and there was no song in his voice.

Ontario, July 21 (AP)—A report some Malheur county farm produce would be prepared for market at Idaho packing plants because of the minimum wage law for women in Oregon received the attention today of Mrs. Mary K. Brown, assistant to C. H. Gram, state labor commissioner.

One company announced it would not operate its Nyssa plant except where it was practical to assign men to the work usually performed by women.

The Oregon regulations provide 35 cents an hour for an eight hour day and time and a half for overtime. The going rate in Idaho, where there is no minimum, is 25 cents an hour with no increase for overtime.

Port Orford Permit Quashed

Washington, July 21 (AP)—The interstate commerce commission cancelled today a certificate authorizing the Gold Coast railroad to construct a line of railroad from Port Orford on the Pacific coast, to a connection with the main line of the Southern Pacific at Leland, about 90 miles away, in Curry and Josephine counties, Oregon.

The commission also dismissed an application by the city of Grants Pass and the Crescent city harbor district for authority to acquire the California & Oregon Coast railroad, extending from Grants Pass to Waters Creek, 146 miles.

They wanted to extend this line from Waters Creek to the Oregon-California boundary, 304 miles, and from the state line to Crescent City, 51.2 miles in Del Norte county, California.

The municipal applicants asked dismissal of their petition, saying economic conditions had changed so that they do not regard it as desirable to undertake the construction program.

Bennett Spoils Carnival Plans

Portland, July 21 (AP)—Commissioner J. E. Bennett, Portland's gambling crusader, promptly squelched ideas for a fleet week committee for a carnival yesterday.

He refused to give unanimous approval to a request for an emergency ordinance necessary to give the carnival a license.

"They'll take nickels and dimes away from people who need them and I'm against it," said Bennett.

A carnival agent, seeking permission for his company to operate on the waterfront during fleet week, offered to pay the committee $1500 in addition to putting up $25 for a license.

During the argument, C. T. Haas, general chairman of the fleet week, remarked heatedly that so far as he was concerned this would be the last fleet week because he was tired of meeting obstacles on every hand in trying to raise money.

"Why shouldn't the navy come to Portland? Don't we pay taxes to keep it running?" Bennett countered.

Man Who Killed Woman Sought

Portland, July 21 (AP)—Police searched today for a 30 year old man dressed in the uniform of a United States marine following the fatal shooting of an unidentified woman in a hotel yesterday.

The woman, about 45, registered at the hotel with the man as Mr. and Mrs. James Carroll, Detective Sergeant John Schum said. The woman's body, shot with a small calibre rifle, was found beneath a bed. The rifle lay on the bed.

A crudely written note on a table said: "I am from California. So no one knows me here. Please don't think the boy friend did it."

Schum said no one saw the uniformed man leave after he checked in at the hotel Tuesday night.

Police believed at least one of the couple had recently been in Washington. Three packages of cigarettes, with Washington tax stickers, and several Washington tax tokens were found in the room.
