Campus Chatter
by Eleanor Swift

University of Oregon—Although still several weeks away, homecoming week-end is already the major topic of conversation among students on the campus. Gus Arnheim's band has been selected to play for the homecoming dance on November 5. Dan E. Clark, Jr. of Salem cooperated with the orchestra committee in signing the band, according to the Emerald.

Following the pinning of Betty Buchanan by Jim Pickett at the Alpha Tau Omega house dance Saturday, the orchestra played the ATO sweetheart song. The motif was a trapper's dance. Betty wore her hair in braids and had freckles painted across her nose. Mildred Meany was in town for the dance with Pete Buren. Norm Weiner brought as his date an attractive brunette from Camas, Wash.

Also there in costume were Betty Hamilton, Barbara Pierce and Jean Frink of Newkum, who has often visited in Salem. Jean Kneass came in "high water" jeans with a bright red plaid shirt. Seen entering the MacDonald theatre Sunday were Geneva Selander and Hillia Davidson. Hillis is another Oregon student who transferred from Willamette.

Phil Barrett, pledge trainer and "slave driver" for the Theta Chi freshmen, was seized and kidnapped by said pledges and carried with them on their annual walk-out. This time they traveled to their chapter house in Corvallis. It is rumored that many a sigh of relief was heard in the northern village when the pranksters ceased setting off fireworks and turned homeward. Later Phil joined with fellow upperclassmen in directing the usual work party.

Bob Picketts was again in Eugene for the week-end seeing Mary Yeager. "The Bowery" was the theme for the Kappa Kappa Gamma house dance Saturday night. Pledge, Barbara Miller, and "her Kappas, dressed in costumes dating from the '90s. Since her return to the campus Betty Hamilton is again a feature writer on the Emerald staff.

Resulting from his publicity work for the junior-senior dance, Verdie Sederstrom was tossed in the mill-race by Sigma Chi brothers at a late hour Wednesday. Art Clemens was named to head the stage and properties committee for the annual Engineers' Bust, the high-light of the year for engineering students. Approximately 600 bust fans attended last year's party and a thousand are expected this year. A novel program of skills as well as the dance is planned.

Alice Unruh and Bobbe Shinn were representatives of the Alpha Chi Omega and Kappa Alpha Thetas houses at the finance meeting of the sophomore class held last Tuesday evening. To obtain 75 cents from every sophomore member of their houses are the duties of the girls for the coming week. In charge of the meeting was Doug Chambers, sophomore treasurer. His spirit and earnestness in putting over the sale of dues is credited with the large percentage collected.

Reverting back to farm days was the theme of the Delta house dance. Donald Wooden, along with his fraternity brothers, picked up his girl on an old horse drawn hay rack with a lantern for the light. Guests, dressed in overalls and print dresses, entered the dance by crawling through a hay stack covering the door. With gunny sacks covering the ceiling, a ballet of hay for furniture and cornstalks and hay for decorations the dance carried out the rural theme.

Reports of committees heard included ways and means, Mrs. Harold Elkins; membership, Mrs. Ralph Dodson; sunshine, Mrs. J. L. Nelson; lunch room for the Monmouth Training school, Mrs. Dell Tedrow. Announcement was made of the purchase of a number of chairs for the club rooms and some equipment for the kitchen.

Plans were completed for the entertaining of the institute of the Polk county Federation of Rural Women's clubs Wednesday, October 26, and the annual benefit pie social on the evening of October 28. A dinner jostling the club in the preparation of the pie social, which is a benefit for the lunch fund of the Monmouth training school, are other local civic groups. The candy sale will be looked after by the Legion auxiliary. The teachers of the training school are supplying the program and furnishing the table decorations and J. L. Norris has been assigned the task of providing for an orchestra.

for the dance which concludes the affair. The next regular meeting of the club in a fortnight will be held Thursday, October 27, at the home of Mrs. Charity Scott with Ruth

by Betty-Sue McCreedy

Oregon State College Campus — Oregon State's social calendar during the past week-end and for the weeks to come is crammed with dances, firesides, teas, parties, football games, in short everything that makes life at college so exciting and Salem boys and girls are right in the midst of the merriment.

One of the most unique of the pledge dances held last week was given by Jean Gilbertson's sorority, Pi Beta Phi. Palms, balloons and silhouettes of hula dancers carried out the Hawaiian theme. Refreshments consisted of fresh pineapples punch served in real coconut halves.

Richard Batdorf and Gordon Krueger helped with the Theta Kappa Nu "Jitterbug" dance. Palms and colored lights helped to carry out the modern theme of the informal. The Oregon State lyceum season will open Monday night in the men's gymnasium with the appearance of Elizabeth Reiberg, soprano, and Elio Pina, basso, two Metropolitan Opera star favorites. These concerts are sponsored by the college for Oregon States, and the enjoyment of the students is evidenced by the large turnouts for the programs. The lyceum season this year consists of concerts by the Welch Imperial Singers, Vienna Choir Boys, Richard Crooks, Ted Shawn, and Gladys Swarthout.

A master in military lines as well as on the football field is Don Coons. He was recently promoted to the post of lieutenant-colonel to head the student field artillery department at the college. Another Salem boy, Percy Blundell, was commissioned as a sergeant in the infantry division recently. In the noon rush Ann Van Scoy in a smart tan topper coat was seen hurrying from classes in the Home Ec building to the Theta house for lunch.

The sleep of walkouts is still in full swing on the campus. The Chi Omega pledges locked the doors in all the rooms and Gladys Lipscomb as well as all other members were in despair the other morning until one resourceful Greek produced a pass key. An inspection of the closets revealed all shoes missing. To top the list of indignities the pledges sent a package addressed to the Chi O. pledge trainer to be unwrapped at dinner. The wrapping was off revealed a huge fish—a codfish frozen hard and full of fumes. Everyone promptly left the room following the unveiling.

Greek members were not slow to wreak vengeance on the pledges. Donald Wooden was one of the Delta to be given an old fashioned mud bath on his return from a night's prowling. Barbara Forest and Dorothy Klobe were two Alpha Chis to receive a good tubbing and to be brought up before the president of the house to drink a "mystrerious" potion. Greek members, however, relented the next day and gave the pledges a special dinner with artificial flower corsages as special favors.

In a clever blue outfit Shirley Cronmiller made a striking picture at the Sunday tea dance held at the Hotel Benton. These dances are held from 6 to 9 o'clock every Sunday evening. Art Clemens was named to head the stage and properties committee for the annual Engineers' Bust, the high-light of the year for engineering students. Approximately 600 bust fans attended last year's party and a thousand are expected this year. A novel program of skills as well as the dance is planned.
