"Clubwoman" To Feature Directory

A "who's who" of the Oregon Federation of Women's clubs will feature the directory issue of its own magazine, the Oregon Clubwoman, which will be off the press this week and distributed to clubwomen in every part of the state.

For the first time in several years, the federation is publishing a complete list of its member clubs, the names and addresses of their presidents and secretaries, the time and place of their meetings and the approximate size of their membership. A total of 124 organizations is included in the directory, representing 63 Oregon cities and towns.

Salem clubs included are the Salem Woman's club, the Salem Junior Woman's club and the Liberty Woman's club.

In the listing, too, are the names of some of the state's best-known women leaders, who appear either as officers of their own clubs or as officers or chairmen of the state federation.

As an additional feature, this first Fall issue of the federation magazine will contain a list of all its own new officers, its chairmen of departments and divisions and the heads of its special committees.

The Oregon Clubwoman will be published bi-monthly this year, according to Mrs. O. C. Sanford of Coquille, chairman of the federation's magazine committee. The next number will appear in December.

Miss Elisabeth Carey will tell the story of "Kasper's Adventures" in the children's room at the public library Saturday morning at 10 o'clock.
