The first program will be on Tuesday, November 22, from 3 to 4 o'clock in the afternoon and repeated during the noon hour Friday, November 25.

Other recordings will be "Fingal's Cave Overture" by Mendelssohn; "Soaring" by Schumann, piano solo; "Lo, Hear the Gentle Lark" by Elshop, soprano solo; "Liebestraum" by Liszt, tenor solo; "Afternoon of a Faun" by Debussy; "Rondo Capriccioso—Presto" by Mendelssohn, piano solo; "I Have Lost My Eurydice," contralto solo, and "Dance of the Spirits—Ballet" from "Orpheus and Eurydice," closing with "Prayer of Thanksgiving," sung by a chorus of 1000 voices.

International Relations section, sponsored by the A.A.U.W., will meet this evening at 8 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Frank H. Spears, 1309 Chemeketa street.

Sundown Stories

By Mary Graham Bonner

Peace and Quiet

The Puddle Muddlers had eaten and they had had naps, but still Christopher Columbus Crow had not thought of the prank he wanted to play.

"We're certainly having peace and quiet around here while waiting," Willy Nilly whispered to the others. Christopher had said he couldn't think up a good prank when they were all asking him questions, as they had done at first.

"We'll be here until the crack of dawn," quacked Mrs. Quacko softly, "if he doesn't hurry."

"What's the crack of dawn?" asked little Yellow Beak.

"The beginning of day," quacked Mrs. Quacko. "You know, when the night lets day peep through a crack in the darkness. Then day makes the crack bigger and bigger until it's daylight."

"I—I—" began Christopher.

"Yes?" replied Willy Nilly. "We're ready and waiting."

"Perhaps you'd better all attend to everything you have to do and I won't keep you waiting now," quacked Christopher.

"No, no," said Willy Nilly. "Now is the time for you to play your prank. You agreed to that. We're ready—in fact we're even eager to see what wonderful mischief you can think of doing—for that is the way you feel about mischief. It is most attractive to you."

Christopher did not answer.

"I—I—" he began again, after a few minutes.

"Why, what's the trouble, Christopher?" asked Willy Nilly. "Is anything bothering you all of a sudden?" But Willy Nilly was still smiling.

Tomorrow: "Christopher Breaks Down."

H-O OATS
