Stockholders Are Called Before Federal Jury in Bank Actions

Albany People In Majority, Papers Reveal

Albany—More than 120 stockholders of the Linn Securities company are being served with summons to appear in federal court to answer to a complaint filed Saturday by Oscar Hayter, attorney for C. C. Bryant, as receiver for the First National bank of Albany.

The total amount claimed is $80,700, levied against 807 shares of First National bank stock which the complaint alleges is owned by the now defunct Linn Securities company. The claim is computed at the rate of $100 for each share of the bank stock, pro-rated among approximately 11,630 shares of Linn securities stock.

The defendants are named in 127 items, involving separate claims against individuals, corporations and estate executors and legatees ranging between $6,918, the amount claimed of the Linn Securities company, to more than $26,000.

The complaint is predicted upon the assumption that the Linn Securities company as a stockholder in the First National bank is liable to assessment under national banking act governing defunct national banking institutions, and that inasmuch as the Linn Securities company is itself defunct and unable to meet the assessments that responsibility must be passed on to the securities company stockholders.

Most of the defendants live in Albany and vicinity, but some reside in various parts of the state more distant from Albany and a few are now residents of other states.

Chinese Exchange Student to Speak

Albany—Floyd Milligan, exchange student attending the University of Shanghai, China, and president of the Oregon Youth Council, will speak before the newly organized local Youth Council here Tuesday at the First Presbyterian church, it was announced by members. Betty Britton, past president of the Oregon Older Girls' Conference, will also speak.

Both Milligan and Miss Britton are members of the National Youth administration, and Miss Britton is now president of the Oregon Christian Youth council.

Additional speakers will include Clyde Charter, president of the state organization of Presbyterian young people; Muriel Leslie, secretary to President Clarence W. Greene of Albany college; Tracy Gipson, president of the Oregon Christian Youth Leaders' conference and of the Linfield College Student Christian association, and Dulcina Brown, director of religious education for the Portland Council of Churches.

Coast Artillery Unit Inspected

Albany — Albany's armory and coast artillery battery were inspected by Major W. Beihl, U. S. army, San Francisco, Calif., Friday. Major Beihl is the California coast artillery instructor.

The rating of the Albany battery will not be officially announced until later, Captain Charles J. Olvis, captain of the local battery said, but he also said it was intimated by Beihl that the local equipment and batter were not found wanting.

Participating in the inspection were Col. Clifton Erwin, Salem, 249th coast artillery battery commander; Major Claude Washburn, Junction City, first battalion commander; Captain A. B. Bates, plans and training officer, and Major Kenneth Roundtree, U. S. army instructor for the 249th coast artillery.

Eleven Card Tables Played at Gervais

Aviation Mechanics Project Possible

Albany—Federal participation in an aviation mechanics training school on the Albany college campus is virtually assured if congress grants the $9,800,000 appropriation asked for the Civil Aeronautics authority student training program and, if a privately or publicly operated institution can be first established, was the word brought back to Albany from Portland by Mayor C. R. Ashton and Carl Curlee, secretary of the Albany Chamber of Commerce, who accompanied Grove Webster, C.A.A. private pilots division chief, who made a brief visit to Albany Friday.

Both men said Webster gave them a definite commitment to the Albany proposal, using the deserted Albany college campus and buildings as the site for the school.

Webster was also impressed by the Albany airport and stated he believed the outlay here for the school was the most adaptable in the United States, Mayor Ashton said.

Union Signal Day Program Planned

Woodburn—Mrs. Emma Bidwell entertained the Woodburn W.C.T.U. at her home on Corby street Friday afternoon with Mrs. C. J. Rice presiding. The program planned for the observance of Francis Willard day was postponed until the next meeting on account of weather conditions and will be held in connection with Union Signal day.

Mrs. B. O. Brown led the devotional service. A business meeting was held and letters read, including a letter of thenks from the Children's Farm Home for Christmas donations.

A program was given by pupils from the Washington junior nigh school which included an accordion solo by Joy Randall, songs and a harmonica quartet by Bruce Nelson, Rodney Mills, Jerome Moshberger and Charles Barrett.

Refreshments were served by the hostess and her assistants, Mrs. J. L. Largent and Mrs. B. O. Brown.

Crider Store Robber Held to Jury Action

Dallas—Don Burr, arrested Thursday night by City Marshal Tony Neufeldt, in connection with the recent robbery of the C. L. Crider department store, is reported by authorities to have made a partial confession but states that he did not steal all of the stuff he was reported to have. He appeared before the justice of the peace, Charles Gregory, Friday morning, and was bound over to the grand jury. Bail was set at $500, which was not furnished.

At last week's meeting, S. Parzy Rose, chairman of community service, arranged a talk by Dr. Floyd Utter on the work of the state patrol board.

All Rotarians are urged to save the date of Monday evening, February 27, as the club will entertain wives and women friends of the members with the Woodburn Rotarians and their ladies as special guests. The affair is announced a strictly informal.

Winter Leaves Resort Early

Lebanon — That the touch of winter experienced in this area last week is now definitely over is reflected in a report from Cascadia in the elevations of Santiam pass Saturday that it was raining and temperatures were high, and only a trace of snow in spots remained. No reports were available Saturday from Upper Soda, a higher point on the pass, but on Friday there were two feet of snow and the snow still falling, it was said.

Stayton Police Man Uniformed

Stayton—At the regular session of the city council Officer Alfred Stanley appeared in his new uniform which was purchased by the city council since the last meeting.

Two WPA projects were discussed. One will be a street sign and house numbering item which is being sponsored by the Lions club and also will be to grade the streets in preparation of oiling. The other project will be to convert the city's property across the river into a picnicking ground, and for further improvement of the city park.

As soon as new materials can be obtained a new bridge across the Salem ditch on Fourth street will be constructed. This project was authorized by the city council and will be directed by the street committee.

The recorder has been instructed to write letters to property owners about cleaning up lots.

An invitation from the Buena Vista local to the Sidney-Talbot local to attend a box social and program on the evening of February 17 was read and accepted.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Turnbull and Mr. and Mrs. Norman Alexander, members of the Red Hill local, were guests and gave brief talks.

Following the business meeting a short program in charge of Mrs. E. B. Henningsen was given. Piano selections were given by Mrs. Frank Holoubek. Mrs. G. W. Potts, Sr., read an interesting little story from a fifth reader she studied when a little girl. G. W. Potts, state president of the Farmers' Union, was presented with a birthday gift from the Sidney-Talbot local by the vice-president, E. B. Henningsen.

During the social hour refreshments were served by the committee in charge.
