Those Emergency Powers

Senator Glass of Virginia, founder of the federal reserve system, is leading the attack on proposals to extend the president's emergency powers to devalue the dollar for another two years, which is sought by the administration. Waving a bunch of German marks, now utterly worthless, he declared "I am unalterably opposed to giving anyone the right to take us on this course by devaluing our currency further." Yet if the reckless borrowing and spending policy continues, infla-tion that will make the dollar worthless is certain to follow.

The emergency that existed six years ago that was re-possible for granting extraordinary powers to the president, no longer exists and to center such great power in the execu-tive in peace time is contrary to the spirit of the constitution and is not democracy. It is high time congress took back the powers delegated to it.

The president in the seventh year of his administration still insists on extending these powers, which expire June 30, but a few have already been extended. They enable the executive to impose a managed economy, with almost as great powers as any European dictator.

This list of extraordinary powers for which extension is

The power to revalue the gold dollar,
Control of the foreign exchange stabilization fund—a matter of 0,000,000 whose operations are secret.

The power to have $3,000,000,000 worth of paper money.

The power to put the currency on a bi-metallic stands the free and unlimited coinage of silver.

The power to apportion relief appropriations.

Control over PHA home modernization loans.

Control over the rules under which gold may be imported, exported

Control over the use of government bonds secured by Federal Reser

The power to raise or lower any tariff duty by 50 per cent.

Extensions have already been granted for powers over The Import-Export bank, the Electric Farm and Home author ity, the Commodity Credit corporation, the RFC mortgage corporation and the lending powers of the RFC.

Economy in Reverse

While the ways and means committee struggles with the problem of keeping state expenditures at a minimum and the tax committees strive diligently to raise the money to finance necessary state activities without adding to the tax burden, the legislature as a whole goes merrily on its way in proposing new and enlarged expenditures.

The inconsistency is perhaps most sharply illustrated in the several proposals to increase salaries, principally those of officials whose compensation is already adequate to insure them against want. Not that any of them are being over-paid for the responsibilities imposed upon them, or for the services they are supposed to render. But the inequalities and need for adjustments are far more glaring among employes in the lower salaried brackets, some of whom receive as little as $75 month; some even less.

Salary increases have been proposed, and some of them approved, in amounts varying from $600 to $1200 a year for no less than half a dozen officials already drawing $300 a

Not a single bill has been introduced specifically providing more money for employes now receiving $100 a month or

Undoubtedly there are many state employes in high or low jobs who are earning and entitled to more pay, and the aggregate cost of adequately compensating them would only one or that one of political prominence and influence for preferment is the wrong way to go about it.

Justice can only be done by a thorough, scientific process of standardization applying to all offices, boards, commissions, institutions and departments.

A College Diaper Course

Our higher educational institutions are hard put to deold-fashioned citizen, the educators go on the theory that their students are morons and must receive state instructions on trivialities or be helpless in this paternalistic world in the seems no room for initiative or pigneering.

On the theory fathers ignerant of the principles of child rearing were almost as great a menace to the future generation as untrained mothers, the school of home economics at Oregon State college announces that it has prepared a spring term course in child care for men as well as women.

It is strange how humanity managed to survive through the centuries and the race progressed, without having the simplist things about the home taught in colleges. Shades of our ancestors would certainly marvel at the helplessness of their pampered descendants and wonder if the world is not becoming a feeble reinded and wonder if the world is not at the webfoots thought the since 1915. becoming a feeble-minded asylum with the state in charge of minutest daily activities.

Pat Hurley, the big oil lawyer, has been called back from the oil seizure negotiations at Mexico City, Donald Richberg will handle the whole case. He is working for five demands: a long term contract for Americans to operate their oil properties, a fixed schedule of taxes, a guarantee of labor conditions by both parties, reimbursement for losses caused when the government seized the properties, all the properties to be returned to the Mexican government at the end of the contract. The Mexican government will probably not accept all these, and chances of an agreement are not generally regarded as bright,
