Seek Cause of Fatal Crash of Stratoliner

Seattle, March 21 (AP)—Federal and company investigators questioned every available eye witness and started a microscopic study of broken plane parts today in a search for cause of wreck of Boeing Aircraft company's stratoliner last Saturday with loss of 10 lives.

Frederick Glass, chief examiner for the air safety board of the civil aeronautics authority, heard stories of a dozen witnesses yesterday at Alder, 70 miles south of here where the 33-passenger plane crashed. He planned to question others today to lay groundwork for a formal hearing at a still unannounced date.

"Apparently there was an unusual number of witnesses," Glass said. "More than a dozen actually saw the plane fall. I think we'll get something of material benefit from their accounts."

Meantime broken parts of both plane wings, the altimeter, oil pressure gauge and some other pieces were trucked to the Boeing plant here for examination.

Investigators withheld observations on possible cause of the wreck, but Thomas Hardin, vice-chairman of the safety board, expressed belief pilot-failure was not a factor. "There were enough pilots aboard to get them out of any pilot difficulty," he said.

Sackett Praises New Legislation As Constructive

Despite the complexity of problems faced, the 40th session of the legislature which closed last week was conservative, careful and in the main constructive, Sheldon Sackett, editor and manager of the Statesman, told the Kiwanis club today noon in analyzing the session.

The legislature worked out an unique formula in connection with the PUD problem, one of the most controversial of the session, provided for a reasonable consolidation plan for school districts and balanced the budget through potential incomes not probably over-estimated by the ways and means committee, he said. Other constructive matters were the forest conservation and land use plan and the new state parole system. No new major taxes were enacted, old age pensions were not increased, regulation of professional classes left alone and labor not disturbed.

Suggested improvements to speed up action were for the governor to assume responsibility for legislation. In this regard, Governor Charles A. Sprague leaned backward to avoid "must" legislation, Sackett said. State departments should be compelled to have their amendments ready on the opening day with interim committee reports in the hands of legislators 30 days prior to opening of the session. He also suggested a breathing spell for the governor between inauguration and the opening of the session and better pay for legislators, pointing out that the cost of the session, $180,000 estimated in this case, is 90 per cent overhead and only 10 per cent payroll for the 90 members.

Improvement Of Silverton Road Sought

Dr. P. A. Loar and John H. Porter of Silverton today discussed with members of the county court and Oscar Cutler, market road engineer, the situation existing on the Salem-Silverton road which the county desires to see improved this year under federal farm to market road funds, provided the road is approved by the federal bureau of roads for allocation of such funds and such improvement.

The men stated that the right-of-way for the improvement had been pledged except by two property owners and the price asked by them is considered such as to bring the matter to a stalemate unless some plans can be worked out for meeting the situation.

Commissioner Melson said that government funds for the road would probably run around $39,000 provided the government approves the project; in addition there would be additional WPA funds for roadside improvement amounting 300 men's work for 30 days at around $25,000 and that the county expenditures for equipment and other details might reach $10,000 and he would regret to see the road held up by right-of-way difficulties caused by two men.

As it now stands, the improvement must have the approval of the federal engineer, who is expected soon to examine it. His assistant was over the road with court members and other officials a few weeks ago, but made no comment as to whether the government would accept the project or not. If it does accept and the right-of-way difficulties be met, the road will be widened and improved in the same manner as a part of the south river road was improved last year.

Gardner Trial Postponed

Portland, Ore., March 21 (AP)—Federal District Judge James Alger Fee today postponed arraignment of Roy Gardner, train robber and escape artist, on charges of sending obscenity through the mails, pending action on a bill of particulars which Gardner demanded.

Gardner and his attorney, Edwin D. Hicks, appeared in court this morning and Hicks requested the bill of particulars. In it, Gardner demanded that he be allowed to see the letter he is accused of writing Mrs. Ardith Homan, Lodi, Calif., newspaperwoman and a list of the witnesses appearing before the Portland federal grand jury which indicted him.

District Attorney James R. Bain already had furnished Gardner a copy of the letter but was undecided whether to submit voluntarily the list of witnesses.

If he refuses the latter, Judge Fee will rule on the point, setting the arraignment later. A hearing on the bill may be held Wednesday.

Czarist Flag Hoisted Over Ruthenia

Ungvar, Hungary, March 21 (AP)—Leaders of the Carpatho-Ukraine hope to become the guiding influence of all the 43,000,000 Ukrainians—including those in Soviet Russia, Poland and Rumania.

They hope to do this, Ukrainian chiefs said today, with German support and through the autonomous administration promised by Hungary.

Hungary annexed Carpatho-Ukraine last week. The former Czechoslovak district also is known as Ruthenia and as sub-Carpathian Russia.

Groups of White Russian officers in Czarist Russian uniforms hoisted the flag of Czarist Russia, with its double-headed eagle on a yellow ground, over Ungvar yesterday.

Officials said the flag had not been made the official emblem for the newly annexed district, but posters in Russian and Hungarian declared "Sub-Carpathian Russia can be expected actively to fight bolshevism. They hope they may have a chance to help free their oppressed brothers in Ukraine proper."

(London newspapers last December reported the Grand Duke Vladimir, pretender to the old Russian throne, figured in German plans for domination of the Ukraine. The grand duke visited Berlin December 19 but said he did not see Adolf Hitler. His friends ridiculed the idea of an attempted Russian restoration with Nazi aid.)

Ukrainian leaders said Hungary would receive economic benefits from the Sub-Carpathian Russians. She will get Ruthenian salt and timber, which she needs, and can sell her agricultural and manufactured products.

Jerome Frank To Head SEC

Washington, March 21 (AP)—Securities and exchange Commissioner Jerome Frank probably will succeed William O. Douglas as SEC chairman, informed sources said today.

They indicated the former "brain trust" has the unqualified backing of several administration officials who believe Frank best qualified to continue the policies established by Douglas, who has been nominated to the supreme court. Friends say that Douglas would be pleased by the elevation of Frank to the chairmanship.

Members of the commission elect one of their own number as chairman but usually there is an informal indication from the White House as to the administration's favorite candidate. The White House choice has invariably been accepted.

Informed quarters also indicated that Hanson Purcell, head of the SEC's trading and exchange division, was the most likely candidate for appointment as a member of the commission to fill the vacancy created by Douglas' elevation.

Bigelow Makes German Forecast

New York, March 21 (AP)—Poultney Bigelow predicts Adolf Hitler will conquer Poland next and then "dictate the peace of Europe."

The 84-year-old historian, who returned yesterday from an annual visit to his friend, the former Kaiser Wilhelm, said "England and France have been bluffing" and the German fuhrer was the only man in Europe strong enough to enforce peace.

"Hitler will get away with it as long as he lives," Bigelow said, "even though he is trading on the toes of the old roosters in Germany. Chamberlain's Munich visit did Hitler a world of good."

Scorning the possibility of an Anglo-French-Balkan bloc stopping Hitler, even with the aid of Soviet Russia, Bigelow forecast the return of monarchy to the reich with the infant son of Prince Louis Ferdinand, grandson of the former kaiser, on the throne.

Mr. Peabody outlived all but one of the kittens that came so near feasting on him. Sockey, now a fat lazy cat, will attend Mr. Peabody's last rites.

Counties Don't Have to Pay Half of Relief

The state supreme court ruled today that counties do not have to pay half the cost of administering the direct relief program.

Upholding Judges John P. Winter and James P. Stapleton of Multnomah county, the high court ruled in favor of Multnomah county and against the state relief committee.

The opinion, however, has little weight inasmuch as since January 1 the state has been paying all administrative costs under a 1939 law. Before that time, counties and the state shared the direct relief costs equally, but since then the state pays 60 per cent and the counties 40.

The state relief committee had contended that counties, which paid half of the direct relief costs, also should pay half of the administration charges.

But the high court, in its opinion by Justice Bean, ruled that "it is not appropriate to require counties to pay their expenses. It would be just as appropriate to require counties to pay a portion of the governor's salary or expenses."

The supreme court also denied Unatilla county's petition for rehearing of the case in which the county sought unsuccessfully to build a new courthouse with delinquent taxes.

Other decisions today were: First National bank of Portland, appellant, vs. Blanche M. Wall, Appellee, from Multnomah county. Suit involving administration of an estate. Opinion by Justice Beit. Judge James W. Crawford affirmed.

State Land board, appellant, vs. Peter Schreiffel and others. Appeal from Clackamas county. Suit to foreclose mortgage. Opinion by Chief Justice Rand. Judge Earl C. Latourette reversed.

W. C. Tremblay vs. Frederick G. Foulke, Jr., defendant, and Floyd F. Eberly, appellant. Appeal from Yamhill county. Suit to recover price of logs. Opinion by Justice Kelly. Judge Arlie G. Walker affirmed.

Tribute Paid Bayne, Albert By Marion Bar

Members of the Marion county bar association meeting in the courtroom of Judge L. G. Lewelling this morning paid tribute by written resolutions and spoken words to the memories of John Bayne and Joseph H. Albert, both late members of the bar.

Rollin K. Page, president of the bar association, presided. Carey P. Martin presented the resolutions in behalf of John Bayne who had been his neighbor for 30 years. Mr. Bayne practiced law in Salem from 1893 until his death and the resolutions paid him high tribute for his legal, civic and educational work in the city. "His life is an illustration of the value of right living and a high standard of citizenship," said the resolutions.

Custer E. Ross presented the resolutions for Joseph H. Albert, whose grandfather, said Mr. Ross, was one of the members of the provisional government meeting in Champeau in 1843, whose mother was a native daughter, and Mr. Albert himself a native son of Oregon. While not an active member of the bar, Mr. Albert worked closely with the profession, maintained its standards and "throughout his life," said the resolutions, "stood steadfastly for the ideals of professional conduct."

"Unnumbered people of all ages were inspired by his ideals and helped financially by him," the resolutions stated.

Judge Lewelling personally said a few words of highest respect and tribute for both the deceased members. He especially praised the life of John Bayne, whom he not only knew very closely and personally, but who was one of his instructors when he went to Willamette law school.

He also will pay off $500,000 principal and $452,503 interest on Oregon veterans' state aid bonds, reducing this indebtedness to $20,375,000.

The payments reduce the state's total debt to $40,418,980, compared with $66,000,000 11 years ago.
