

Shingle Drive Under Way in Washington

Washington, March 21 (AP)—A determined drive to revise provisions of the Canadian trade agreement to protect the Pacific northwest shingle industry and to re-enact other benefits expiring in June is under way in Washington.

Latest developments came last Thursday when Senator Bone of Washington introduced in behalf of himself and Senator McNary of Oregon bills to restore former import quotas on Canadian shingle imports and to require the marking of foreign lumber with the point of origin.

Bone also took occasion during a lengthy speech on the floor to call for the re-enactment of an excise tax of $2 per thousand board feet on general lumber imports, which will expire June 30.

The shingle measure by Bone and McNary would limit Canadian shingle imports to 25 per cent of the annual consumption of the United States market. This quota existed prior to negotiation of the Canadian agreement, which permitted imports of 30 per cent, duty free, and fixed no limit on amounts above that level provided Canada paid duty at the rate of 25 cents per square.

Bone told the senate the trade treaty provisions "indicated a seeming determination to favor foreign producers and foreign labor over our own producer and our own labor."

The United States wage, he said, was 60 per cent greater than the Canadian average.

"The shingle industry was getting along fairly well under the 25 per cent quota," he said, "but the new treaty provisions deal a severe blow to the shingle industry. It is a serious question whether the American shingle industry can survive at all under the impact of the Canadian competition, and in that event Canadian mills will serve virtually 100 per cent of our market within a few years. So far as shingles are concerned, the agreement of 1938 is not reciprocal at all."

Play Shed Rushed

Brush College—The WPA project, a $2 by 32 feet play shed at the Brush College school, is reported about half finished. The school grounds have been cleared of brush which was obliterating the small trees and shrubs which were planted there. The playground is also to be drained.

Might Change Name Of Old High Street

Recommendations came to the city council from the planning and zoning commission relative to street names to remove the confusion caused to mail carriers. It was recommended that A street, sometimes called a part of North Commercial, be called North Liberty instead. Also it was recommended that one of two Grant streets in northeast Salem be called Roosevelt street as originally intended.

More important was a recommendation that the High street be eliminated entirely and that the street be known throughout its length as Broadway. Instead of only that portion north of the Liberty confluence. To this Alderman O'Hara objected, suggesting it would be better to re-name Liberty street and call it Broadway, if the city is determined to have a Broadway. The entire matter of name changes

Davis Offers Plan for Park

An extensive plan for improvement of the old auto camp ground was presented to the city council last night by City Engineer J. H. Davis, and a special committee will look into its feasibility.

Davis' remarks were supplemented by Chester Nelson, national youth administration officer, now using the administration building on the grounds, and by G. R. Bosworth, resident engineer for the WPA.

Davis suggested that, with WPA funds already available, together with an unused $2,500 in the bandstand fund, the park be filled in to normal flood level and be surrounded with a stone wall which could be made part of the Shelton ditch improvement.

Alderman David O'Hara objected to use of the bandstand fund unless it would be arranged by conference with the Cherrian band officials, inasmuch as the bandstand, removed by inroads of the new statehouse, had been a donation from the late Joseph H. Albert. O'Hara suggested the money might be taken from the fire department fund, but to this Fire Chief Harry Hutton objected, explaining that plans have been drawn for a new fire station in South Salem.

Mayor Chadwick appointed as a special committee to look into the matter the chairman of the street, sewer, park and ways and means committees and the chairman of the city park board.

Noted Speaker Dated for Two Addresses Here

A noted speaker, John Nevin Sayre, a Protestant Episcopal minister, who is chairman of the International Fellowship of Reconciliation, will be in Salem for two addresses Wednesday. At 11:30 a. m. he will speak at Willamette chapel on the subject "Youth in Other Lands Facing the Future." At 7:30 p. m. he will speak at the First Methodist church on a subject yet to be announced.

Mr. Sayre is a brother of Francis B. Sayre, whose wife, not now living, was a daughter of President Woodrow Wilson. The speaker will come to Salem by automobile, accompanied by Harold Stone Hull, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. J. Hull of Salem, who also is with the peace movement with which Mr. Sayre is connected.

For the past three years Mr. Sayre has been president of the National Peace conference which includes in its membership 42 American national organizations interested in world service.

Fifteen countries were visited by Mr. Sayre in a four months' journey to Europe last summer. He conferred with diplomats, government officials and peace leaders and presided at the international fellowship of reconciliation conference in Holland which was attended by delegates from 18 nations. It was Mr. Sayre's 12th journey to Europe in the interests of peace since the war. In 1928 he headed a mission of the Fellowship of Reconciliation to Central America. He was formerly editor and then president of the "World Tomorrow."

After graduation from Princeton university he was secretary of the Christian association there. He is a vice chairman of the committee on militarism in education. He has preached in leading churches in this country and abroad, lectured in universities, at summer conferences, luncheon clubs and forums and is a contributor to various magazines.

Farmer Union Meets

Zena—At the March meeting of the Spring Valley Farmers' Union, local No. 242, George W. Potts, state president of the Farmers' Union, talked on measures of interest to the organization which were brought up at the legislature and on the cooperative in general. R. C. Shepard, president of the local, presided over the meeting. Mrs. J. A. French and Mrs. Chris Youngen were in charge of refreshments.

Betty Williams, who has returned to take charge of the hosiery department at Block's Shoe store after an absence of six months.

Spring Term Begins Tuesday

With the first class in "Main Tendencies in Contemporary Literature," the Salem branch of the Oregon state system of higher education will reopen for spring term Tuesday evening at the old Salem high school, it was announced Monday.

The literature course will take up American authors this term and will be taught by Dr. Rudolph Ernst, professor of English at the University of Oregon. Books and authors to be studied include "Look Homeward Angel" by Thomas Wolfe, "Arrowsmith" by Sinclair Lewis, "Ethan Frome" by Edith Wharton, "My Antonia" by Willa Cather, "Winesburg, Ohio" by Sherwood Anderson, "North of Boston" by Robert Frost, "Emperor Jones" by Eugene O'Neill, "Elizabeth the Queen" by Maxwell Anderson, and works of Stephen Vincent Benet.

Dr. Ernst, an outstanding authority on contemporary literature, will explain motives and ideas behind the books as well as vividly describing them and their technique.

Two courses in accounting will also be offered Tuesday afternoon and evening by O. K. Burrell, professor of business administration at the university; history of painting, Wednesday, by N. B. Zane, professor of space arts at the university; "Immigration and Race Relations," Wednesday, by Dr. S. H. Jameson, professor of sociology, and curriculum building, by Dr. F. O. Macomber, professor of education.

The curriculum building course will be changed from Thursday to Tuesday, it was announced. It will continue to meet in the Garfield school from 4 to 6 p. m. Students may register for any of

Oregon Has Little Need of School Aid

Oregon, because its school system is well-fixed financially compared with other states, will not gain much under the proposed $875,000,000 federal five-year education program designed to help poorer states.

If congress passes the federal-aid education bill, Oregon would receive $127,654 for the fiscal year beginning next July 1, $219,458 for the following year, and $300,662 for each of the three following years.

During each of the last three years of the program, $120,000 would be spent for general aid, $125,637 for adult education, $50,475 for rural library service, $30,900 for buildings, $6750 for the state department of public instruction, $6000 for teacher aid, and $21,800 for cooperative educational research and planning.

The legislature passed a bill to enable Oregon to take advantage of the federal money.

But the federal government says that only the District of Columbia and eight other states need federal courses, all of which carry college and university credit, at the first meetings of classes.

52 CCC Boys Leave for Dixie

Fifty-two Dixie boys left Camp Mill City, near Silver Creek Falls, this morning for their homes in the sunny south.

In the group were three boys, Rube Dossey, Gerald Yarborough and Hugh Collins, who took with them citations for meritorious service in the CCC's from Brigadier General George Grunert of Vancouver Barracks.

Six Robert Griner, Maurice Wiley, Jess Sharpe, Hugh Collins, Gerald Yarborough and Rube Dossey, were recommended to the Federal Employment agencies for employment.

Six boys, William Urquhart, Charles Hardegreer, James Clackum, Jesse Bandy, Harvey T. Jackson and Hubert Biffle, were awarded certificates in carpentry work at the camp graduation exercises held Monday night.

Nineteen boys were awarded eighth grade diplomas for work completed in the Oregon public schools. Forty-four boys were awarded etiquette certificates by the Marion county adult educational authorities. A new school building of 2200 square feet is now being occupied. This building houses one of the best CCC libraries in the Vancouver Barracks district.

Grange Social Host

West Salem — The West Salem Grange was host for the visitation night of the Polk county granges. A mock wedding was put on by the men of the West Salem grange. There were several other numbers from other granges. Refreshments were served after the program, followed with a dance.
