Summer Project Of Recreation Given Approval

Monmouth—As a result of the discussion at former luncheons and further enlightenment on the subject by Earl Litwiller, the Monmouth Luncheon club resolved to sponsor the summer recreation program of the WPA for children.

Litwiller, who is at present living in Monmouth, is superintendent of this federal activity for Polk and Marion counties. He gave a summary of the results of the activities in this line in communities of the district. The work, he said, is usually conducted along two lines, recreation and arts and crafts. Recreation consists of the regulation line of child and youth sports and the arts and crafts consist of rudimentary manual training, making articles of paper and plywood or with raffia, etc. He explained when school is in session they would plan to take three hours in the afternoon, when school is out there would be a forenoon session. As Polk county does not have enough available talent for this class of work, workers would probably have to come from Marion county. The attractiveness of the program must sell itself to the children, thus making them desire to attend voluntarily.

The sum of about $30 would sufficiently purchase material used in the arts and crafts and buy equipment for the games. He said that the money spent to send several boys to the Beaver state would easily cover the expense of this project, which would reach all children.

The Luncheon committee in charge of the project hopes to enlist the cooperation of other organizations in Monmouth. On the committee are E. A. Stebbins, Dr. D. H. Searing and J. Alfred Cox.

Memorials Linked With Aurora Colony

Aurora—Plans for establishment of two monuments, both linked with Oregon's widely known Aurora colony of early days here, drew wide attention at sessions of the Aurora Community club this week. Receiving widest discussion were the plans for a memorial to Henry T. Fink, who was reared here, was Oregon's first graduate of Harvard university and later become a nationally known figure in the music world, both as founder of the American School of Music Criticism and as music critic for the New York World for 43 years.

With a library favored over a monument to his memory, the memorial plans here to Mr. Fink, whose father, Edward, was employed as music teacher for the Aurora colony, were first called to the attention of the Aurora Woman's club by a committee from the Pacific Coast Music Teachers' association, Mrs. B. W. Stoner, Woman's club president, said.

Since then, committees from the American Legion Post, Community club and Woman's club, have been studying plans for the commemoration.

Decision on the memorial, which is reportedly also being sought by Salem, will be made by the Music Teachers' association in June, Mrs. Stoner said.

Considered also by the Community club were plans for placing hand-made mill stones from the Aurora colony's old mill, once situated on Mill creek, into a city park triangle along the Pacific highway, it was disclosed by M. W. Neal, club secretary. The stones are now lying beneath the city's water tower, he added.

The club also decide to present its annual free weekly motion picture shows, beginning June 3 and continuing Saturday nights for 13 weeks, Neal said.
