Burgoyne-Powers Vows Are Read

Monmouth — Miss Barbara Jane Powers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Powers, became the bride of John David Burgoyne, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Burgoyne of Portland, Thursday night.

The ceremony, attended by relatives and close friends was read by the Rev. Willard A. Elkins, pastor of the First Christian church of Monmouth, at the home of the bride's parents, 302 South Monmouth avenue, before an improvised altar, with decorations of white gladioli and tall white tapers.

The bride, lovely in a floor-length gown of white marganza and fingertip veil, edged with point lace, was given in marriage by her father. Her bouquet was of water lilies and bouvardia. Mrs. Arthur Nye was her sister's matron of honor. She wore powder blue embroidered net and carried peach gladioli, white asters and blue delphinium.

Little Janet Nye was the junior attendant. The bridegroom's father, Oscar Burgoyne, served as best man.

Preceding the ceremony, Mrs. Raymond Sunderman of Eugene, an aunt of the bride, sang "Out of the Dusk to You," with Miss Ola Mae Hough of Portland at the piano. Miss Hough also played "Clair DeLune" and Lohengrin's wedding march.

Mrs. Sunderman and Miss Loisel Strayer, also of Eugene, cut the cakes and presided in the dining room.

Mrs. Burgoyne, who is a talented violinist, attended the schools of Monmouth. She was graduated from the Oregon College of Education and later studied at the University of Oregon. During the past year she has taught music in the schools of Klamath Falls.

Mr. and Mrs. Burgoyne left Thursday evening for a short wedding trip after which they will be at home in Klamath Falls.
