Talbot—Mr. and Mrs. E. B. It was so far advanced when discovered that nothing could be saved.

Miss Nellie Johnson discovered the fire when she stepped out of bed and burned her feet on the hot floor. She called to her mother in an adjoining room and both climbed out of a window to the porch roof and were assisted down by Johnson. He carried the grand-mother out of the downstairs bedroom. All escaped with about three minutes to spare before the floors caught in. The Henningsons were visiting a sister in Seaside at the night the house burned, but lost some of their clothing and Christmas gifts. Miss Johnson, a teacher at Oakridge, who discovered the fire, was also spending her vacation with her parents. She lost all of her clothing in the fire.
