The monks of Westminster priory, Mt. Angel, is recuperating from an operation performed at St. Vincent's hospital for an acute attack of appendicitis, a month ago. Father Bede is well known for his translations into English, from the French, of works by Father Garrigou-Lagrange, O. P. During the past few years he has translated, "God, His Existence and Nature," "Providence" and "Predestination." Father Bede was studying at the Benedictine College of San Anselmo when the World War began. When the college was closed, Father Bede enrolled in the Dominican college, the Angelico, where he was taught by Father Garrigou-Lagrange. He completed his studies there and received the doctorate in theology. Father Bede has been a member of the seminary faculty since his return to Mt. Angel.

All sessions are being held at the assembly camp which was opened seven years ago on a large wooded tract secured by the state Baptist organization under a long term lease.

Following immediately after the close of the women's session which will be Sunday, July 14, the Junior and senior guild girls will convene for a week, July 22 to August 3 the camp will be open to the assembly of young people and the concluding conference will be the two-week Cascadia Bible conference for ministers and adults. Twelve Babies At Hospital

Silverton—A casual business call at the local hospital Thursday forenoon revealed a house full of surprises to one who did not realize just how much responsibility, where human comfort was concerned, could be assumed and carried on by nurses who have had few hours of duty since the first of July. And the young women met all comers with a smile, though a rather tired smile.

Twelve babies have arrived at the hospital since the first day of this month. Every basket, tipped lovingly or having reached the horizontal tilt, had a cunning little youngster in it. Nine of these. The nursery attendant said that they were looking for an empty dresser drawer for cradling the next arrival should another come along before one went home.

Thursday's adult and young people record, aside from the baby capacity stage, was that every bed in the wards and the private rooms was occupied. Miss Barber, superintendent, said that for once she could not see her way through should an emergency arise, but she also conceded that they always had pulled through and could again.

The biggest surprise of all was that the superintendent could arrange for a business conference with one of her patients and the visitor with a capacity house, though this was done and the whole system was clicking in perfect order.

Sunday Games Are Wanted by Albany Firms

Albany—Whether Albany's pool rooms and bowling alleys will be opened on Sundays was not settled Wednesday when the Albany city council met in the council chambers in the city hall. An ordinance providing for the opening of pool halls and bowling alleys was read twice and then referred to the committee on licenses. It was stated by Karl R. Horton, city recorder.

During the past years the front parts of pool halls have been open to the public where tobacco and beverages could be procured, but the rear rooms which contain the pool tables have been closed.

Pool room operators who were interviewed Wednesday claim that many persons who are left to their own devices on Sunday roam the streets with nothing to do, whereas if the pool rooms were opened amusement would be afforded for these persons.

Bowling alley operators contend that clean amusement would be provided for many young persons on Sunday afternoons if the alleys were permitted to run on Sundays.

The ordinance will again be discussed at the next meeting, it was announced.
