

Market Firm For Seventh Consecutive Day

New York, Sept. 21 (AP)—The stock market was firm today for the seventh consecutive session, heavy industry shares meeting bulk of the demand.

Preferred stocks set up wide gains, some reaching new 1940 peaks. The main stock list was up fractions to a point. Trading was quiet.

Sentiment was favorable toward stocks with both the war and domestic business news considered encouraging.

Reports of new royal air force successes lessened fears of a German invasion of Britain over the week-end. The automobile, steel, and retail trade industries highlighted the business news.

Most stock market activity centered in heavy industry issues.

Steel, motor, aircraft, electrical equipment, merchandising shares and coppers were firm. Most rails had small gains and utilities were steady.

Dow Jones preliminary closing stock averages: Industrial, 132.45, up 0.84; rail, 26.46, up 0.19; utility, 21.95, off 0.03; 65 stocks, 44.59 up 0.25.

Stock sales rose to 260,000 shares from 170,000 last Saturday while curb stock volume was 46,000 shares against 26,000 in the short season a week ago.

Wheat Firmness Reacts Today

Chicago, Sept. 21 (AP)—Liquidation in the September delivery brought a reaction from wheat firmness today.

Wheat closed unchanged to 1/4 cent lower with September taking the loss and closing out at 77.00. Corn was off 1/4 to 1/2 cents; oats 1/4 cent higher, and rye off 1/4 to 1/2 cent. Soy beans were offered 1/4 to 1/2 cent lower.

In the early trading, wheat was led fractions higher by the current month for which today was the last day of dealing. For a time September held a premium over December and was within 1/2 cent of the May delivery. Fair commission house and local buying was encouraged by the tone of the stock market.

September corn encountered fair demand in small lots most of the session but the new crop months held mostly around steady. Receipts were around 150 cars.

Cooperative Plant Opens on Filberts

The Salem Nut Growers Cooperative plant went into operation yesterday on the filbert crop and while it will not be in full swing until some time next week deliveries are fair and have been for the first few days leading up to actual starting of operations.

Manager M. P. Adams reports that the plant is in complete readiness for the handling of any deliveries that may be made. A considerable time elapses in many cases between the time the grower starts picking and the time he makes delivery at the plant, this being especially in the instance where the grower dries his own filberts.

Walnut deliveries for some seedlings may start to a certain extent next week but it will probably be around October 10 before the Franquettes get to rolling in.

Willkie Refuses To Pussyfoot In Campaign

night with a speech on foreign affairs.

San Francisco, Sept. 21 (AP)—Wendell L. Willkie, who "rode the road" into this city 30 years ago as a youthful harvest hand, returned today to climax his campaign for the state's electoral votes with a speech on foreign affairs.

Before his address tonight in the Civic auditorium, however he had a heavy day of speech-making through the bay area. More than a dozen impromptu talks were on his schedule.

The republican presidential nominee, a white carnation in his buttonhole, arrived last night after receiving cheers and some heckling in talks through the Sacramento and San Joaquin valleys. It was in the latter's sunny fields that he worked at the age of 18.

Willkie's final speech Friday, before a trainee audience at Sacramento, brought a declaration that friends had been saying, "Wendell, you should pull your punches."

"I don't know how to fight that way," Willkie added. "If this administration thinks it can get away with the record of the road to bankruptcy, with the road of unemployment, with the centralization of power in Washington that it has attempted to accomplish and not have me tell the American people about it, it is mistaken."

"And if any of the timid pussy-footers who are afraid to strike want to pursue that policy, I don't want them to talk to me."

A Spade is a Spade
"A spade is a spade in Sacramento and also a spade in Washington. I say it to you with all calmness and with all deliberation, that in my solemn judgment, if this administration is not removed from power, then the country is on the road to bankruptcy, and that road leads to the loss of liberty."

Willkie's campaign took him into territory that has been democratic in the last few years. Noting that fact, the candidate said at Fresno that the November election is not a fight between democrats and republicans, but "a conflict between those who believe in the philosophy of the new deal and those who do not."

At Fresno and at other towns a few boos and a few cries of "Roosevelt!" were heard in the audiences. Willkie said that most of the latter came from children, adding: "I may say in response to these occasional interruptions . . . they are the only kind of arguments I have heard in opposition up until now."

Wool Market Booms War

New York, Sept. 21 (AP)—Fast breaking events in the war situation and brisker demand for civilian uses this week gave the wool market one of its most active periods in several months.

Most important development for the future was news the defense commission at Washington had proposed to the British government that 250,000,000 pounds of surplus Australian wool be shipped to this country for emergency use. The wool would be stored in bond, to be drawn on only if shortage threatened.

While wool on hand in this country now is estimated by the department of agriculture at about 40,000,000 pounds more than a year ago, the department described the supply as small in relation to probable demand over the next few months.

This general view of probable movement of the fibre into use in the near future was reflected in the trend of prices for raw and top wool.

Graded staple raw now brings about 95 cent a pound against 90 cents early this month, and good average Texas clips run 88-89 cents against 85 two weeks ago.

Most of the demand has been for the fine territory wool of Texas and far western states, because government specification in recent purchases has been for superior grades.

Demand Created For Labish Onions

Labish Center—Shortage of onions in other localities has created quite a demand for local stock. There has been delay in harvesting the crop due to the recent rains but a large share is already under cover. Drying of the onions is a slow process and the cloudy days the past two weeks have slowed the drying. Onions are much in demand by local buyers and the growers are encouraged by the favorable price offered.

Crop Insurance Applications Heavy

Spokane, Sept. 21 (AP)—Applications for crop insurance on winter wheat to the Spokane office of the federal crop insurance corporation so far this fall exceed the total business last year for both winter and spring wheat, Charles E. Johnson, manager, said Friday.

The Spokane office administers the crop insurance for the seven states of Arizona, California, Idaho, Nevada, Oregon, Utah and Washington.

The total number of winter wheat applications up to today was 17,328 Johnson said, compared with 15,439 for both winter and spring wheat last year.

He added that he expected to have at least 25,000 farmers insured by the February 28, 1941, deadline on spring wheat applications.

Farmers insuring their winter wheat have paid 720,842 bushels of wheat as premiums, insuring 13,691,014 bushels of production.

The bulk of the applications so far, he added, is from the winter wheat areas of Oregon, Washington, Idaho and Utah, with the California, Nevada and Arizona spring wheat districts only scantily represented so far.

Silverton—Mrs. E. F. Clower, who has been gone from Silverton for a year, has returned to make this her home again. She has taken up 87-80.

Agreements to Govern Nut Trade

Washington, Sept. 21 (AP)—The agriculture adjustment administration hopes to solve the threat of heavy importations of Brazil nuts through informal agreements rather than by quota restrictions, Senator McNary has advised Oregon walnut growers.

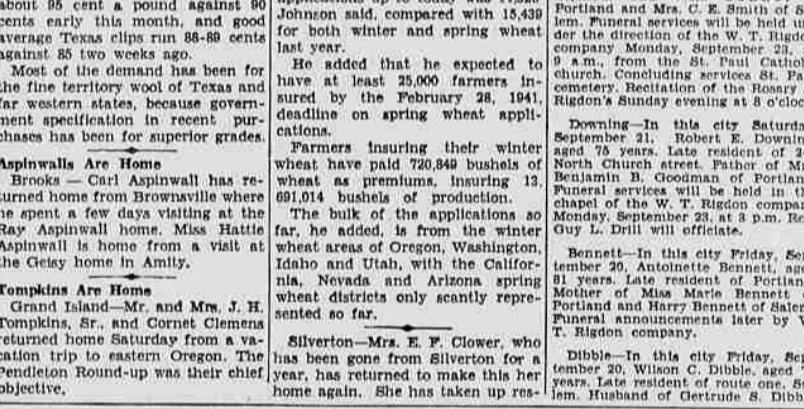

Fearing shipments formerly intended for England would be diverted to the United States because of the war, Oregon growers urged that restrictions be placed on importations. Present importations of Brazil nuts are only slightly above the five year average, McNary said.

Aspinwals Are Home

Brooks—Carl Aspinwall has returned home from Brownsville where he spent a few days visiting at the Ray Aspinwall home. Miss Hattie Aspinwall is home from a visit at the Geisy home in Amity.
