U. S. Sailors Convicted In Flag Incident—Two young U. S. navy seamen were convicted of malicious mischief in San Francisco for cutting down a Nazi flag which was flying at the San Francisco German consulate. Sentence was to be imposed later. The two were flanked by marine guards when they appeared in court. Left to right: Ervin Luckey and Harold Sturtevant, the convicted seamen, and Guard F. Stanovich. — Associated Press Photo.

Mediterranean Fight Stressed by Partners

The war-drums of the Nazi and fascist chieftains are beating out the message, for all and sundry to hear, that the combined axis forces are starting a great offensive to smash British domination of the Mediterranean.

Maybe that's what Messrs. Hitler and Mussolini did decide upon at their mysterious conference yesterday. Still, it is given to wonder why they find it advantageous to advertise their strategy in advance, when their deeds would speak louder than words at the appropriate moment. Theirs' meat for reflection is at that point.

I think we find the answer in an article by the authoritative fascist writer Virgilio Gayda announcing the offensive. Two sentences of that contain a world of information.

"Italy does not consider herself to be in the least in decline," he said. "Neither is she isolated."

Signor Gayda is a grand writer, and he is doing a hard job well, namely, trying to buck up the spirit of a badly shell-shocked nation and at the same time present a defiant and confident attitude to the outside world. Herr Hitler is in process of doing by military means what Signor Gayda is trying to achieve by words.

The Nazi leader is rushing aid to save his partner from disaster rather than with the expectation at this early moment of achieving a great triumph over Britain in the Mediterranean. True, this combined axis activity, which already has started in a modest way, might develop into a major offensive if luck marches with the dictators.

It will be more than passing strange, though, if the fuhrer is abandoning his assault on England direct, in order to shift to the Mediterranean theatre in the middle of the critical stage of the battle of Britain. It doesn't make horse-sense.

The battle of Britain is the one in which Hitler is going to win or lose the war—and if he doesn't win quickly his hands will be grimy with trouble, because he isn't set for a protracted conflict. He has the bull by the tail there, and he can't let go without a nasty tumble.

Hitler undoubtedly can divert considerable air power to the Mediterranean, but he must maintain a heavy force of bombers and combat planes opposite England. He has to do that for both offensive and defensive reasons.
