

A Star-Studded Cast—Spencer Tracy, Hedy Lamarr, Claudette Colbert and Clark Gable featured in "Boom Town." Gable and Tracy, two against the world... until curvaceous Claudette and heavenly Hedy came along... and then it's every man for himself. "Boom Town" plays Sunday through Wednesday at the State theatre. Co-featured with "Boom Town" is "A Fugitive From Justice" with Roger Pryor and Lucille Fairbanks.

"Unwanted Women"—Four "girls of the road" from the film which tells the story of millions of America's hobo girls, are seen here contemplating some new obstacle facing them in their search for rest and security. From left to right, they are Marjorie Cooley, Ann Dvorak, Ann Doran and Helen Mack. Lole Lane and 250 supporting players are also in the cast, starting Sunday at the Hollywood theatre. Plus: Loretta Young and Ray Milland in "The Doctor Takes a Wife."

Star Trio in an Uproarious Laugh and Love Scramble—Cary Grant, Katharine Hepburn and James Stewart as they appear in "The Philadelphia Story," laugh-filled comedy of what happened to a snooty society darling when she woke up after a very, very hilarious party and couldn't remember a thing! The filmization of Philip Barry's hit play is starting today at the Elsinore theatre, plus "Keeping Company," with Frank Morgan and Ann Rutherford.

Explanations Are All Very Well—But it's quite obvious that Rosalind Russell doesn't quite believe Melvyn Douglas. And why should she? She's his wife! It's a scene from the new comedy, "This Thing Called Love," now at the Grand theatre.

Movie Adventures Starting Sunday

Making their debut as a co-starring team, Ronald Colman and Ginger Rogers, participate in the sparkling set of movie adventures in "Lucky Partners" which provide an exhilarating lift for the soul such as movie-goers haven't experienced in a long time. "Lucky Partners" is scheduled at the Liberty theatre Sunday for a three-day run. With its settings in New York's Greenwich Village, at a Niagara Falls hotel and in a little upstate town, it projects Ronald Colman in the role of a mysterious Village artist and Ginger Rogers as a book store clerk who is engaged to a snuggly and selfish dim-wit. A chance occurrence leads Ginger to consider Colman a tallman of luck, and she persuades him to join her in the purchase of a sweepstakes ticket, whose winnings she seeks in order to marry.

Ronald Colman and Ginger Rogers have opportunities that enable them to display their versatility to the full. They are supported by a notable cast, numbering Jack Carson, who has appeared in several previous Rogers vehicles, as the luckless fiancé; Spring Byington as Miss Rogers' flirty aunt; Cecilia Loftus and Brandon Tynan as an elderly married pair; Harry Davenport as a temperamental jurist; and Hugh O'Connell as a hotel clerk.

Eola—Mrs. Walter Magee, who is confined to the Deaconess hospital, is slowly improving and is allowed callers now.

Action and Adventure on the high seas unfold at a high pitch of excitement and daring in this scene from Hal Roach's "Captain Caution," which is starting today at the Capitol theatre, with Victor Mature and Bruce Cabot involved in the thrilling episodes. Plus: Bill "Hopalong" Boyd in "Doomed Caravan," with Russell Hoyden.

Temperance Union Watches Army Camps

Stayton — Members of the W.C.T.U. met at the home of Mrs. Martha Brown, Wednesday afternoon. In the discussion it was decided to write a letter to each President Roosevelt, Senators Charles McNary and James W. Mott, asking that they use their influence to withhold liquor from the young men in training camps. Members present at the discussion were: Mrs. Elizabeth Stephens, Mrs. Elsie Miller, Mrs. Anna Harold, Mrs. Anna Stayton, Mrs. Eliza Taylor, Mrs. Naomi Rowe, Mrs. Julia English, Mrs. Helen Wright.

Mrs. Caroline Ruggles and the hostess, Mrs. Martha Brown. At the meeting next month it is planned for a program and tea in honor of Francis Willard who is the benefactor of the society.

Turkey Dinner Brings Crowd

Keizer—The turkey dinner sponsored by Chemawa grange in the hall here Wednesday evening, was well attended, not only by local people, but by residents of Salem and other communities also.

Assisting in preparing the dinner were the following women of the grange: Mrs. H. W. Bowden, Mrs. Frances Manley, Mrs. Arthur Holden, Mrs. W. E. Savage, Mrs. C. B. Johnson, Mrs. Jack Baldwin, Mrs. Paul Pierce, Mrs. Arch Claggett, Mrs. J. E. Putnam, Mrs. Francis Ganiard, Mrs. John P. Zellinski, and Mrs. Joe Dieckrich. Mrs. Fred S. McCall and Mrs. F. E. Wolf were in charge of the dining room, and they were assisted by Mrs. Nan Francisco, Miss Alice Rose, Misses Lols and Betty Pierce, Miss Barbara Baldwin, Mrs. Tim Bowden, and Miss Evelyn Cane. W. E. Savage and F. E. Wolf acted as cashiers.

W. F. Robinson of the Keizer Corner Store donated the coffee. Later in the evening a program arranged by the lecturer, Mrs. F. E. Wolf, was presented in the auditorium, with Ray Gill, state grange master, and Otto K. Paulus, well known attorney of Salem, as the speakers. The former spoke briefly concerning the marketing problems of the farmer, and the latter on a lawyer's viewpoint of agriculture in the Willamette valley. He predicted that because of the peculiar soil and climatic conditions prevailing in the valley, that the farmers would adopt a definite program toward raising specialized crops here, that are not raised elsewhere.

Sidney L. Stevens, of Stevens and Brown, was introduced, and conducted a truth or consequences quiz, with the following taking part: Misses Myrtle McClay, Alice Rose and Gloria Robinson; Arthur Cumings, Donald McCall, Milton Savage and Bob White. Other numbers on the program included community singing led by Mrs. W. F. Robinson, and piano solos by Miss Alice Rose, and Miss Eleanor Francisco.

Automobile manufacturers in Britain are advertising second-hand cars as they did their new vehicles.
