Scio Dumping Ground Proves Objectionable

Scio—Health committee, headed by Max Wesely, was instructed to choose a suitable new site for the city dump, and council voted immediate closure and cleaning of the present city dump on West Mill street at the February meeting of the body.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Kukacka and Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Semones represented a group of property owners outside the city limits to the south, and requested council to extend city water mains to the south limits, a distance of several blocks from present terminus of the mains. The families stated they would furnish and lay their own pipe lines and subscribe to city water service from the city limits to their property.

Council voted down the proposal, under advisement since October, 1940, because of lack of funds in the city treasury to finance the move. The city does not have service to all residents even within the city limits at present. Bond issue two years ago provided funds for laying of castiron mains on principal streets within the city.

Resignation of W. A. Ewing as councilman was accepted by the body, but no successor was elected.

Councilmen discussed reduction of fire insurance premiums since state fire underwriters re-rated the city in class 7 rather than class 10 as result of completion of improvements to the city water system. Refund of more than 50 per cent on residence property was reported in one case, and substantial reductions were noted by several property owners who had taken out policies since effect of the higher rating, retroactive to May, 1940.

Councilmen expressed confidence that the $10,000 bond issue voted to finance new wells and mains in the city would be more than offset by savings to property owners in reduced fire insurance premiums.

Mayor W. A. Withers was instructed by the council to draft a resolution and send copies to the League of Oregon Cities favoring giving a portion of the state gasoline taxes to cities for street improvements.

Council unanimously voted to hold regular meetings on the first Monday night of each month, rather than on the first Thursday night, as at present. Next meeting will fall on March 3.

Mayor Withers appointed Mrs. Charley Dolezal to serve as regular pro tem in absence because of illness of Recorder Joe Lytle. All members were present.

Plylock Rushes Work on Plant; Lights Ordered

Albany—Work toward completing the Albany Plylock corporation plant here is progressing as rapidly as 100 men can push it, but delay of the opening date until possibly early April is being anticipated because of difficulty in procurement of steelwork, including some machinery.

Much machinery is in place, including the two huge sanders, conveyors and minor equipment, but the concrete foundation upon which will rest the lathe is still awaiting this monstrous machine, which will be the largest single piece of equipment in the plant.

Delay in delivery of machinery, it was explained, is due not only to rush defense orders in steel and iron plants but to the fact that practically all of the machines are being made to specifications of the operators, who are pioneers in the development of plywood manufacturing machinery.

Pedestrians Considered

Albany—Pedestrians as well as motorists will be considered when traffic lights are installed at First and Ellsworth and First and Lyon streets, it was announced Wednesday by members of the city council following a meeting with John Beaky, engineer for the state highway department in charge of traffic regulations. The cost of these installations will be shared by the city and the highway commission. Installation will be made in the near future.
