Tussing and a large number of others asking for oiling of Duncan avenue north of Salem and also for a ditch on the east side of the county road. He stated there is a ditch on the west side now but it takes all of the water from Evergreen avenue which was oiled last year, Duncan avenue being an extension of Evergreen. He says as a result in times of heavy water it goes over the lawns and is otherwise damaging. The court said they would look the situation over. Widener stated the road is quite heavily used by people taking a connecting route between the Silverton road and the highway.

Members of the Linn county court advised the Marion county court today that they expected to be in Salem this afternoon and will look over the corrected resolution asking the state to take over the North Saniam highway in Linn county. Italians Slow Drive on Cheren

Calro, Egypt, Feb. 13 (AP)—British forces have made fresh progress in their siege of stubbornly defended Cheren, in Italian Eritrea, and "are steadily improving their positions in the hills covering the town," the British command announced tonight.

The communique added that the advance of a southern British column, heading toward Asmara, the Eritrean capital, "is progressing satisfactorily," while in southern Ethiopia South African troops "continue successfully to extend the area of their penetration."

The Italians' stubborn stand at Cheren has blocked the British drive toward Asmara and the Red sea although another British column is moving down the coast from the north.

Rome, Feb. 13 (AP)—The Italian high command announced today that Italian counter-attacks had repulsed violent British assaults in the Cheren sector of Eritrea while Italian troops in the lower Sudan repelled other British columns in the Omo river sector.

Political Truce Urged by Sprague

McMinnville, Feb. 13 (AP)—A truce in republican opposition to President Roosevelt was asked here last night by Governor Sprague.

He advised the GOP in a Lincoln day speech to "support our president during this critical period," although adding that republicans should not "relinquish vigilance or independent judgment."

He recommended a program of taxation to meet armament costs, saying, "Republicans should not let the accelerated spending under the defense program wear them away from sound principles of finance."

Dr. Jewell Talks On Lincoln

While Abraham Lincoln was an uneducated man insofar as our present standard of schooling is concerned, yet those things which made him one of the greatest men of this country could be taught to our boys and girls with good advantage to all concerned. Such was the declaration of Dr. J. R. Jewell, dean of education of the Oregon system of higher education as he addressed the Salem Lions club Thursday noon.

Weaving a pattern in which he combined a bit of philosophy, humor and common sense Dean Jewell declared education was comparative insofar as its effect upon individual persons are concerned.

Knowledge, he added, may be used for the betterment of humanity, and again it may be utilized to take from others what rightfully belongs to them.

Many men were more brilliant than Abraham Lincoln, yet "he wrote with malice toward none and with charity toward all," the speaker pointed out. "Abraham Lincoln was educated in the 'feelings'; today we call it the appreciations."

Dean Jewell said that knowledge and skills are necessary, "yet if I had to choose between knowledge and skills and those things which God made lovely and those he made to hate, I'd choose the latter."

13 Bills Signed By Governor Sprague

Governor Charles A. Sprague signed 13 bills today, including a measure to authorize county courts to create forests and parks which could not be disposed of without vote of the people.

Other measures signed today would authorize the governor to create a military general staff composed of retired national guard and army officers, prohibit optometrists from advertising fixed prices, and abolish the Portland office of the state superintendent of banks.

Although he already has signed a bill to increase salaries of Benton county officers, the governor today continued his 1938 policy of letting such bills become law without his signature. The bill he filed without signature today increases the salary of the Deschutes county judge from $1500 to $2100 a year.

House Defeats Dog Bill 32-27

A determined lobby of toy dogs won its point today when the house defeated 32 to 27 a bill which would have denied dogs their traditional first bite permitted under common law.

The toy dogs were placed on the desks of each member by Rep. Harvey Wells of Portland, who owns a wire-haired fox terrier, and the toy dogs joined in a squeaking chorus of protest when Rep. Allen G. Carson of Salem explained the bill.

"Sabotage!" cried Carson. He admitted opponents of the bill had stolen a march on him and said "we should have put a few postmen with seats torn out of their pants on your desks."

Rep. Phil Brady of Portland said that Dr. E. H. Hedlund, Portland postmaster, had informed him that mail carriers are not required to deliver mail at houses harboring vicious dogs, but Rep. William H. Hedlund of Portland, son of the postmaster, said "all of the family might as well be in this" and he favored the bill.

The bill, sponsored by the Oregon Letter Carriers association, would have made dog owners liable for dog bites without proof of viciousness. The dogs now get to have a first bite before they can be proved vicious.

The dogs did equally as well in the senate, which sent back to committee a bill to make dog owners liable if their dogs kill poultry. The law already affects dogs which kill or wound livestock.

Sen. Lew Wallace (D., Multnomah), objected to the bill, asking it be amended so a dog wouldn't be shot if he chased a chicken across a city street and killed it.

Committee OK's Debt Limit Increase

Washington, Feb. 13 (AP)—The senate finance committee approval today to legislation increasing the national debt limit to $65,000,000,000 to meet costs of defense and proposed British aid.

At a brief executive session the committee reported out legislation already approved by the house. This would boost the present debt limit of $45,000,000,000 plus $4,000,000,000 earmarked for national defense; subject all future federal security issues to federal income tax, and give the treasury broad powers to issue securities in small denominations.

Senator Brown (D-Mich.), who presided at hearings on the measure and will act as floor leader for it, said the legislation would be taken up in the senate Friday.

Rumania Moving Out Civilians

Bucharest, Feb. 13 (AP)—Rumania began moving her civilians out of her German-dominated oil fields today as a precaution against possible British air attacks.

The civilian exodus also was under way from Constanta, on the Black sea, and Giurgiu, on the Danube just across from Bulgaria—both major oil loading ports—and from other towns on the Danube facing Bulgaria. An official evacuation order has not yet been issued, but military authorities have passed the word along.

Numerous Bucharest families are making arrangements for women and children to go to provincial towns.

Official quarters said they feared the British Royal Air Force soon might bomb the oil fields to prevent a further flow of Rumanian oil to the German war machine.

University Land Sale Bill Killed

The senate rejected 21 to 8 today a proposed constitutional amendment to authorize the board of control to act as commissioners for the sale of university lands, and for investment of proceeds from such sales. Opponents contended the amendment was unnecessary because the state land board already has such authority.

The measure was sponsored by Sens. H. C. Wheeler (R., Lane), William E. Walsh (R., Coos), and Lew Wallace (D., Mult.), and Reps. Lyle Thomas (R., Polk) and H. H. Chindgren (R., Clackamas).

Specialists Curb Shrub Disease

Corvallis, Ore., Feb. 13 (AP)—Disease which caused shrub lovers much trouble has been curbed.

It threatened California's stately Monterey cypress, its chief host, and so badly infected the Pacific northwest's nursery stocks of Oriental arbutovite—which are ornamental trees—that they were unfit for sale despite the clamoring of gardeners.

The disease recently was reported by J. A. Milbrath of the Oregon State college botany department as an "undescribed foliage blight," known locally as Berkman blight.

After experimenting, he said it could be satisfactorily controlled by one application of red copper oxide or basic copper sulphate.

Milbrath warned gardeners, however, that to be effective it must be applied before infections are initiated and spread by early fall rains.

Arbutovite infected were varieties of this ornamental, including Berkman's pyramidal conifer and others of the hardy conifers by gardeners for ornamental plantings—trees, shrubs and hedge material.

Related species of conifers were found to be immune although the blight affected pyramidal Italian cypress. Milbrath said the disease is characterized by blighting of small branches, causing them to turn reddish brown. Limits of infection are indicated by girdling of larger branches.

Small branchlets fall from the plants, leaving a tangle of dead, gray stems. Infected foliage also turns light gray and re-infection continues until the plant dies.

Plants sprayed before fall rains will be cured by one application, since the fungus is not systemic and depends upon new infections each year for survival.

Lady Chamberlain Dies in London

London, Feb. 13 (AP)—Lady Chamberlain, widow of Sir Austen Chamberlain, died here today after a short illness.

Lady Chamberlain, whose husband was Britain's foreign secretary and a Nobel peace prize winner in 1926, was one of the quick-witted members of the so-called "Cliveden set."

He practiced here more than 20 years, after coming west from his birthplace, Pleasant Valley, Minn. Survivors include his widow, four children, two brothers and a sister.

Grapplers Fail To Find Bodies of Drowned Youths

Four grapplers in the Willamette river had not yet been successful in locating the bodies of Kenneth Case, 20, and his brother, Robert Case, 17, who drowned yesterday afternoon while cruising on the river in a canoe. The boys were sons of Mr. and Mrs. Irving Case, rural route 6.

The boys had left their home early in the day on their bicycles, and with their lunch. They had spoken of going on their bicycles to Corvallis where Kenneth said he expected to enlist in the army and Robert in the navy.

Instead, the boys apparently went to the Hain boat house at the foot of Chemeketa and rented the canoe, leaving their bicycles there. Walter Hain said they left the boat house about 9:30 in the morning, taking their lunch and saying they expected to spend most of the day on the river.

They were about the Talbot Logging company's log dump south of the city. Later, in the afternoon, Ivan and Delbert Cutaforth, employees of the logging company, saw them in the river and saw their overturned canoe. Ivan Cutaforth got an outboard motor boat and started across the river to their rescue, but ran out of gasoline. He returned ashore for more fuel and crossed the river, but could find no trace of them. He told police that he and his brother Delbert searched the river bank carefully, finding only the canoe and the paddles. They notified the boat house and the police.

F. D. Vincent also was reported as having seen the boys in the river, but was unable to attempt assistance because he was towing a raft of logs.

The grappling is being done by the sheriff's office and private individuals.

The boys were identified by checking their bicycle licenses with Mrs. Bessie Armour at police headquarters.

John Wood, 30, who was at work with one of the Oregon state penitentiary gangs near the prison annex, made his escape today by taking flight under the screen of shrubbery and brush where the grubbing gang was employed.

The crew was one of the prison honor gangs, but the men are not trusted, and are under gun guard. Wood was sent up from Lane county to do two years for receiving and concealing stolen property. He was received at the prison last November 29.

20 Bills Reported Back to House

A total of twenty bills was reported back to the house today by standing committees, and of these 17 were house bills, 3 senate bills.

"Do pass" recommendations were attached to 14 of the bills, and the same recommendation, with amendments was given to two bills.

Three of the bills reported were postponed indefinitely and one withdrawn.

House bills 201, 3 and 10 were withdrawn. The first of these deals with the withdrawal of the waters of Waldo, Gold, Suttle and Odell lakes from appropriation. The other two deal with collection of fees from insurance companies for inspection of elevators and boilers. The bills would have enabled the labor commission to assess a fee of $150 per year to cover costs of inspection and clerical work.

House bill 213, by Representative Snyder, was withdrawn on his motion. The bill relates to county tax levies for road construction and maintenance.
