Chinese Artist Charms Audience

A splendid performance was given by Soo Yong, Chinese actress and monologist, at Salem high school auditorium last night under the sponsorship of the Crescendo club. The talented actress, with simple gestures, can miraculously change her character at will with the assistance of striking costumes.

In her sketch of "Out from the Inner Apartments," she depicted the Chinese woman before and after the revolution. She assumed the roles of a young girl, the old servant, great grandmother and the valiant modern Chinese mother.

She did fascinating impersonations of typical Americans, a scene from a Chinese opera and a comedy act showing a Chinese and a Japanese statesman at a banquet.

In "The Rainbow Pass," Soo Yong played the parts of the heroine, the warrior, the villain and the commentator.

The Crescendo club is to be complimented on its list of stellar attractions, which it has brought to Salem during the season. Last night's performance is the last to be presented by the club this year.
