WEDDING CAKE . . . to top all wedding cakes was that which adorned the bride's table at the Hurley-Sprague wedding reception last Saturday night . . . Breath-taking to say the least, it was over four feet high and was the most elegant looking cake one could ever hope to see . . . It was made in four tiers, each tier being held above the other by small white china pillars . . . The embellishment was silver, of course, and atop the whole affair was a cascade of white flowers . . . The base was rimmed with white fluted satin . . . We hope all this sounds very magnificent and impressive, because the cake was just that . . .

CONTINUING . . . with snatches from the reception . . . Mrs. Dean Walker of Independence was definitely the "glamour gal" among all guests . . . Presiding at the handsome serving table, she was beautifully turned out in a white gown with gold embroidered bodice and striking long sleeves, a perfect contrast to her dark beauty . . . Also looking most attractive was Mrs. Percy R. Kelly, who was gowned in blue, the skirt of which was made up of long, blue panels. Her ornament was a necklace of brilliants . . . Mingling among the well-wishers, Mrs. Philip Brandt, Jr., attracted much attention in her green print gown with white bolero, as did Barbara Jane Smith, here from Portland, very dashing in a model of dark blue and white polka dot . . .

ANTIQUÉ COLLECTOR . . . is Mrs. Harold Hauk, better known to her friends as Lolly, who has become such an ardent antique shop and second-hand store rummager that we're afraid we'll have to take second place as the worst pack rat in the country . . . But there's nothing antique about her stunning new outfit—a brown cotton dress with redingote of brown and white stripe, large brown hat and brown and white spectators . . . Uh, huh . . . Brown . . . And very yummy, too . . .

FROM THE SOUTHLAND . . . comes word from the Carl Porters who are enjoying a perfect vacation jaunt . . . They've had a wonderful time at the glamorous and romantic Hotel Del Monte and enjoyed the 17-mile Drive and golf at Pebble beach, as well as dinner in a lovely Carmel garden and browsing in the priceless little shops of the De La Guerra studios . . . By this time they're in Hollywood for the big golf tournament time with Warner Brothers studios . . . The weather has been glorious and we expect to see them looking mighty bronzed and cosmopolitan when they return to Salem City . . .

KING FOR A DAY . . . was George C. Huggins of Marshfield who, on Father's day, was chosen the typical father of Coos Bay . . . He is well known in the capital where he served in the last session of legislature, having with him as his secretary his daughter, Helen Ann, who has just finished her sophomore year at Oregon and is a member of Chi Omega . . . The other children in the family are William, George, Jr., and John . . . Mr. Huggins' brother, Charles, is in business in Salem . . .

Receiving their wedding certificate from Rev. George H. Swift are Mr. and Mrs. Howard Bommer (Virginia Duke), who were married last Sunday in the small chapel of St. Paul's Episcopal church.—(Jesten-Miller).
