them Americanbuilt tanks — may already be within sight of Tobruk's battered defenders.

The offensive in Libya is led by "truly British troops supported by Imperial and dominion units," a military spokesman said.

Relief of Tobruk

The middle eastern command's only communique placed the British forward lines at Rezeq, only 10 miles south of the garrison town where a mixed force of Australian and British troops have held off every axis assault through a record-breaking siege that started April 12th.

Not since Mafeking held out for seven months in the Boer war until relieved by the columns of Field Marshal Lord Roberts on May 17, 1900 have British soldiers undergone a siege as long, arduous and dramatic as the Tobruk garrison.

Today the end of that siege appeared in sight.

The powerful forces assembled by the British middle eastern command in five months of waiting, were reported driving forward at all points along a front of nearly 150 miles.

They had swept around the strongholds of the axis on Halfaya (Helfia) pass, and the coastal cities of Collum and Bardia, racing ahead in an attempt to come to close grips with the main units of the two armored divisions of Germany's desert general, Erwin Rommel.

The British dispatches said that the Germans with some exceptions were attempting to retire in front of the British forces.

Axis Retreating

Many German and Italian units retreated westward toward the area south of Tobruk, the exchange telegraph dispatch said. The general direction of retreat was toward E. Adem, south of Tobruk, with British forces in close pursuit.

British planes were credited in front line dispatches with the shooting down of 45 enemy planes while losing only five in air battles.

Meanwhile, the RAF bombed railroads, a fort, factory building and oil tanks that burned "fiercely" at Brindisi and Tripoli, which was attacked for seven hours.

A six-hour attack was made on Naples and a railroad yard was set afire, the communique said.

"With the utmost courage and determination the crews of Bielefeld bombers attacked enemy shipping in the Gulf of Sirte (west of Tobruk) Wednesday afternoon," the communique said. "Despite intense anti-aircraft fire a 5000-ton ship was left listing heavily and a schooner was crippled."

The committee approved the rule after hearing Bernard M. Baruch, chairman of the World War Industries board, describe the legislation as vitally necessary to the national economy.

Acting Committee Chairman E. E. Cox, D. C., said that the bill will be open to any and all amendments.

The committee added that democratic members had conferred for a half hour with Speaker Sam Rayburn and House Democratic Leader John W. McCormack of Massachusetts.

Baruch told the committee that "unless we are careful" the time may come when it will be necessary to "goosestep the people, with everybody having the same food, the same clothing and the same housing."

Baruch agreed with administration contention that the bill in its present form—permitting no ceiling on farm commodity prices until after they have reached 1919-1929 levels—would not stop inflationary agricultural prices.

Japanese Violate Thailand Frontier

New York, Nov. 21 (AP)—The Bangkok press carried reports today of a violation of the Thailand frontier by planes and troops from Japanese controlled French Indo-China. The British radio said, quoting a message from Bangkok relating the reports.

"French planes were mentioned as having been seen reconnoitering on the northeastern Thai border," the London broadcast went on.

"Reports that the Japanese authorities want to use airbases in eastern Thailand as well as at Bangkok are believed in London to represent Japan's aspirations accurately, but there has been no evidence of any direct demand on the Thai government."

The British broadcast was transcribed by NBC.

little aid from the army, or in cases of sabotage, as the army has its own bases and troubles to look after and it is up to the peace officers to get their populace organized to meet any eventuality.

He said it was cited that in the city of London, which for weeks and months was under almost constant bombing attacks, the civil authorities are in full control of home defense measures and not the military.

"Manifestly," said the deputy, "the sheriff cannot handle situations which may arise through a slender force of deputies and it is up to a civilian organization to meet these problems. Committees were named at Wednesday's meeting and they will meet again as soon as they have their work outlined and police and other officers will be given data as to what further steps are to be taken. Also the FBI will start a six day school December 1 for further training of peace officers who in turn carry on training schools in their respective areas, a number of which have been and will be carried on in Marion county.

"One of the matters which impressed me most at the meeting the other day was the necessity of the people taking these matters seriously. The fact that this country has never been invaded since the war of 1812 doesn't indicate it can't be or won't be. And nobody knows when it might come. The time to get ready is now. After it starts, if it does, it will be too late to do much civilian population training work."

Fleming Named Boss of FWA

Washington, Nov. 21 (AP)—President Roosevelt today nominated Brig. Gen. Phillip B. Fleming, the wage hour administrator, to succeed John M. Carmody as federal works administrator.

The president sent to the senate Wednesday the nomination of Carmody to the post on the U. S. maritime commission vacated when Commissioner John Dempsey became under-secretary of interior.

Fleming is a veteran troubleshooter. Once confirmed to the FWA post, he is expected to play a major role in settling the bitter controversy involving FWA and other agencies in the construction of defense housing projects.

Several of the agencies have overlapping functions and their heads have been outspokenly critical of one another. Carmody has been described as a "dictator" by U. S. Housing Administrator Nathan Straus. Straus and Carmody both have assailed defense Housing Coordinator Charles F. Palmer.

The post of FWA administrator carries unofficial cabinet rank as does the post of Federal Security Administrator Paul V. McNutt.

U. S. Takes Over Power Project

Washington, Nov. 21 (AP)—The federal works agency, saying it was weary of "financial and management difficulties" in the Grand river dam power project in Oklahoma, announced today it was taking possession away from a state authority by order of President Roosevelt.

Legal and other controversies have beset the still-building $25,000,000 project since its inception in 1935, the FWA said. The federal agency proposes to "manage and operate it for the purpose of generating and supplying hydro-electric power for national defense."

Among the difficulties cited by the FWA were the long argument between federal officials and Governor Leon Phillips over flooding of highways and selection by the state authority of a general manager "whose appointment was not approved by the administration of federal works."

Governor Phillips called out state troops to take charge of the property at the height of the controversy over the highways, in 1940.

The announcement said the power would be used for aluminum, magnesium, smokeless powder, T.N.T., D.N.T., airplane assembly, and bomb and shell loading plants, together with some 50 army camp bases and other defense activities.

Ley Calls FDR A 'Poor Fool'

Berlin, Nov. 21 (AP)—Calling Americans "cultured barbarians" and President Roosevelt a "poor fool," Dr. Robert Ley, head of the German labor front, told 15,000 laborers from 14 European countries today that unless Europe "finds herself" she will be crushed by America.

Gesturing vigorously from the rostrum of Berlin's gaily decorated Sportpalast, Ley told the foreigners in his audience that they were the messengers of the new Europe and assured them that "Moscow will fall in one way or another."

Peasant women from eastern Europe, mustached workers from the Balkans, roughed young French girls and Norwegians in native costumes were part of the crowd that gathered under banners which proclaimed in 14 languages: "Europe will win."

Ley lashed at English lords and American capitalists and twice shouted, "Capitalism has been broken! . . . We have chased it across the ocean." This drew great applause.

"Until God personally notifies us, we will not believe that we are any less better than the English," Ley declared, "challenging" America to produce a Wagner, Beethoven, Verdi or a Puccini. He said Americans should establish 4,000 years of culture before calling Germans and Italians "barbarians."

Another Steel Plant Shuts Down

New York, Nov. 21 (AP)—Carnegie Illinois Steel Corp., chief operating subsidiary of United States Steel Corp., today announced the shutdown of five additional blast furnaces for lack of coal supplies. These are in addition to the six furnaces already closed down by the captive coal mine strike.

The blast furnaces affected include two at the Clairton Works, Clairton, Pa., and one each at the Ohio Works, Youngstown, Ohio, the Carrie Furnaces at Rankin, Pa., and the Duquesne Furnaces at Duquesne, Pa.
