Famous Ballet Is Here Tonight

A brilliant group of dance artists will be in the capital tonight to thrill Community Concert go-ers. Under the sponsorship of this organization, the world famous Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo will give a performance tonight, starting promptly at 8:15 o'clock, at Salem high school auditorium. Only holders of season tickets will be admitted. Outside doors will open at 7:30 o'clock and the auditorium will be opened at 7:45 o'clock.

The program will be as follows:

The Magic Swan
Music by Tschalkowsky.
Choreography by Alexandra Fedorova, after Petipa.
Scenery and costumes by Eugene Dunkel.
Costumes executed by Mme. Berthe.

Scenery executed by Eugene Dunkel Studios, Inc.

This is the third act of the full-length ballet, "The Magic Swan." It was the second act which has become so well known under that title and which tells how Prince Zerkow opens the doors to the Swan Queen. The sorcerer frustrates their love and imprisons her again in the third act, never before seen in America, Brazil.

A choreographic drama in one act.

Music by Rimsky-Korsakoff.
Scenery and costumes by Leon Bakst.
Choreography after Michel Fokine.

In this ancient palace of Shariar, the king of India and China listens to the ravings of his brother, Shah Zeman, concerning the infidelity of the king's wife, especially his favorite, Zobeide. To test the love of his wife, the king leaves the palace ostensibly for a hunt. As soon as he departs, the wives bribe the chief eunuch to open the doors to the slave quarters. Zobeide commands the eunuch to unlock still another door, and she steps forward to open the door to the king's room for the very first time. Youths come bearing food and wine; the revelry mounts in abundance.

At its height, the king suddenly returns. He commands his men to put the slaves to death. Undecided about Zobeide, whom he truly loves, he would let her live if she did not prize honor more. But Zobeide matches a dagger and stabs herself, falling dead at the feet of her grieving master.

Gaite Parisienne
Music by Jacques Offenbach.
Choreography by Leonide Massine.
Decor and Theme by Comte Etienne de Beaumont.

Cate society in Paris of the 1800's goes to the limit, heated, furious and ready way. There are the "cocodettes," satirical and disreputable who make a headline for wealthy visitors or for any handsome male in uniform. There are the flower girls and the glove seller, whose lures are perhaps more subtly effective but no less effective. As come three young gallants, an officer, a baron, a duke and a Peruvian, and all seven battle for the attention of the seductive glove seller. With the brawl has been doused with buckets of water and comparative calm is restored. A new excitement is stirred with the entrance of a dozen can-can girls. Exhausting themselves and the spectators with a series of kinks and splits, they join the crowd and drift away into the night. In couples. The baron has won the glove seller and the Peruvian. The Peruvian is left alone, disconsolately clinging to his two carpet-bags.

Jane Irish Receives Honor

Silverton—Miss Jane Irish, daughter of Mrs. Gladys Irish and the late Harold Irish, received the signal honor of being selected by the faculty of the senior high school to represent that body in a state-wide contest for the DAR trip to Washington, D.C., as a guest of that organization.

One selectee is chosen from Oregon each year according to scholastic standing and affiliation with the patriotic order of long standing.

Three students were chosen by the school unit and the faculty pass on one of the three. Miss Irish's associates are named as her alternates.

The trip is made early in the spring.

Little Garden club of Salem Heights will meet for dessert luncheon at 1 o'clock Thursday at the home of Mrs. Paul H. Acton. Mrs. Charles Sawyer, president, will preside at the business meeting.

Falls City—Mr. and Mrs. Dick Bandy and family of Salem were Sunday visitors of Mrs. Cora McCoy and other relatives.

Fruit Towels For The Kitchen

PATTERN No. 1446

Don't be a "Plain Jane" where home decoration is concerned. Add all the touches of color and artistic design that you can to your home. Seven luscious fruits lend their color and charm to this set of kitchen towel designs. Embroidery increases rather than subtracts from the practicality of your towels, for it makes work about the kitchen more interesting. Pattern envelope contains hot-iron transfers for 7 designs, each about 5 by 6 inches; color chart, stitch illustrations and full directions. Send 10c (coin) for above pattern number to Capital Journal, Needle Arts Dept., 149 New Montgomery St., San Francisco, Calif.

Howard Picketts Hosts at Coffee

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Pickett were hosts at a coffee dessert Saturday night at their home for the pleasure of a group of their friends.

Contract bridge was in play during the evening and the patriotic motif was carried out in the decorations.

Bidden were Mr. and Mrs. Arden Reed, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Carpenter, Judge and Mrs. James Brand, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Parker, Mr. and Mrs. Roy H. Mills, Mr. and Mrs. Albert A. Siewert, Mrs. Leona Johnson and Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Smith.

Hostesses Fete Mrs. Peterson

Miss Eleanor Trindle and Mrs. Manfred Olson were hostesses at a party Tuesday night at the former's home in South Commercial street. The honor guest was Mrs. Kenneth Peterson (Frances Ellis) of Condon, who is now at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William P. Ellis.

Bridge was in play during the evening and guests were presented corsages of violets and anemias. Candles and greens provided the decor about the rooms. A late supper was served by the hostesses and a gift was presented Mrs. Peterson.

Invited to honor Mrs. Peterson were Mrs. Wayne Doughton, Mrs. Dean Ellis, Mrs. Robert W. Craig, Mrs. William P. Ellis, Mrs. Leona Johnson, Mrs. M. Wilson Savage, Mrs. Joseph Felton, Mrs. William H. Trindle, Miss Charlotte Kallander, Miss Charlotte McClary and Miss Margaret Magee.

Second Defense Bond Purchased

Silverton—Past presidents were hostesses to Delbert Reeves post No. 7 and auxiliary at the Monday night meeting following a business session that stressed emergency voluntary service activities, the buying of defense bonds and other patriotic plans for the members who are busy with many types of service.

The second $25 defense bond was ordered bought. Flags for home porch display daily have been purchased and are to be distributed to members. Veterans' families have been helped with warm clothing and a quilt that was donated to the unit by Mrs. Lydia Usher of the Bethel club which is the former guild of the Congregational church here.

At the request of Mrs. Laura Cleveland, president of district No. 2, a report will be sent each month by the local president, Mrs. Zanta Hutton, of hours of work and number of members participating in the EVS program which now includes four class hours a week for 72 women in the first aid groups who are working on motor corps plans. Mrs. C. J. Towe and Mrs. Sam Lorenzen are captains from the auxiliary appointed by L. C. Eastman, civilian defense chairman of this section.

Books for the victory campaign are to be left at the city hall library rooms for distribution.

Miss Ruth Barber of the local hospital will instruct a unit class in the making of bandages at the Red Cross headquarters Thursday afternoons if this day can be reserved for members.

The unit went on record as favoring the Widows and Orphans HR-4 bill and the secretary was instructed to write congressmen to that effect.

The junior girls will sell tickets for the hobby show of the Woman's club, February 13. The younger group is completing scrapbooks and pillow tops for the Roseburg facility and are helping with air raid precaution programs.
