Lebanon Takes Greater Notice In Cantonment

Lebanon—Attendance of a Lebanon delegation at a meeting of the Four-County Cantonment council in Salem Friday night was urged at a Lions club meeting Thursday noon by William H. Crawford, director of the Oregon Economic council with headquarters at Salem, and by Carl Curlee, secretary of the Albany chamber of commerce.

It was indicated that Lebanon would henceforth have greater voice in the many fold problems arising from establishment of the huge cantonment, and that representation at the Salem meeting was the first step in this direction.

Crawford, who has been appointed by the governor to work with the council, gave a talk on the cantonment and what it may mean to this community and county.

The club will meet a week from Friday noon instead of Thursday to see moving pictures on "The Plymouth Fleet."
