Here 'n' There

With Marguerite

GOOD BYES WERE SAID . . . to Roby and Rovena at the charming dinner party given by Mrs. Donald Wiley Poole, Tuesday evening. But they weren't the tearful type though. It was a chummy gathering of those folk who knew them both so well . . . and who could be tearful in a home so decidedly happy as that one of Jo's and Don's . . . so many eye-catchers to keep you busy. The best are the cupboard doors . . . Jo with paint brush in hand, has painted quaint provincial figures on the outside . . . with the rear of the same figure on the inside. We know that the girls will have a wonderful trip east—touching in the deep south, and we will venture a guess that—even though the denials have been great—that not many an antique shop will be unnoticed. "Pinkie" Poole, the small daughter of Joan and Don was very much in the limelight as she hustled around helping her mother. Later in the evening we were introduced to each of her dolls. Iris Collins was wearing a handsome pin that she had painted herself, upon porcelain . . . Judging from the conversation overheard . . . Roby will be wearing it hereafter.

A NEW HAT TO PERK UP YOUR SPIRIT . . . A new hat is the thing to bolster your morale these days . . . at least it seemed to be true after seeing how happy everyone felt at the "Easter Bonnet Bridge" given Monday evening, by the Junior Women's club. Everyone was having such a good time. Leading the Easter parade vocally as well as otherwise were Carolyn Brown and Mark Walts . . . Carolyn was modelling a two-piece blue suit with a matching hat . . . looking very smart, incidentally. Eleanor Trindle looked exceptionally stunning in an all black outfit with black accessories. Eleanor is one of those persons that can wear all black without a bright color or white for accent . . . she is the accent herself. Helen Hammond, president of the Junior Women's club, wore a pert little beige hat perched upon the back of her head with a white flower right in front. . . Rosemary Felton modelled a little brown hat with a straw bow and a waft of veil fluffed over the top.

QUITE A YOUNG LADY . . . is Miss Susan Olinger. Very few days pass that she isn't seen out walking with her grandmothers or her mother . . . modelled just what the well dressed young toddler will wear.

THE OLD MILL STREAM . . . is bound to feel mighty cold to the unfortunate class that fails to place first, second, or third and the last counting of the ballots in Freshman Glec. We know . . . from experience.

Mrs. Ensel B. Miller of San Francisco arrived in the capital Friday. Mrs. Miller will be the house-guest of Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Brady, Sr.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Nibler, Master Roger and Miss Gerald Nibler left Friday to spend the week-end as guests of Mrs. Nibler's parents in Portland.

The founders' day banquet of the alumni of Delta Gamma sorority will be held at Godfrey's, Tuesday, March 24. Delta Gamma was founded in the 1870's in Mississippi, in the school now known as the University of Mississippi, located in Oxford, Mississippi. Mrs. C. M. Johns, Jr., is in charge of the arrangements. Alumni from Salem, Dallas, Woodburn and other valley cities will gather together to celebrate the event.

The tables will carry a color scheme of bronze, pink and blue, which are the sorority colors. Following the banquet several hours of contract will be in play.

Feminine golfers met at the country club Friday for a round of play and luncheon at the club house. Class A prize was won by Mrs. Glenn Stevens and class B prize was won by Mrs. John H. Thompson.

Playing were Mrs. John H. Thompson, Mrs. W. L. Quinn, Mrs. Max Flanery, Mrs. Glenn Stevens, Mrs. R. I. MacLaughlin, Mrs. J. L. Cooke, Mrs. Frank Patterson, Mrs. B. M. Donaldson, Mrs. Creighton Jones, Mrs. Edward Roth, Mrs. Ercel Kay, Mrs. Fred Bernardi, Mrs. Ross Coppock, Mrs. C. E. Howarth, Mrs. M. A. Pekar, Mrs. James Wallon, Mrs. Robin Day, Mrs. Al Petre, Mrs. H. H. Stockwell, Mrs. Harry Wiedmer, Mrs. Ed Gillingham, Mrs. H. H. Olinger, Mrs. Rex Adolph, Mrs. Harold Olinger, Mrs. Alden Adolph, Mrs. Kate Bell.

Miss Mary Elizabeth Kells has arrived in the capital to spend the between-term holidays at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Kells. Miss Kells is completing her work at the University of Washington toward a degree of Master of Fine Arts. Upon her return to the campus she is scheduled to appear in Shakespeare's "Midsummer Night's Dream." She will be cast in the part of Titania, the queen of the fairies.

Mrs. Homer G. Lyon, Jr., who was Ruth Perfect before her marriage, left this weekend for Los Angeles, where she will visit her parents and her husband, who is stationed at Camp Roberts. Mrs. Lyon has been employed in the secretary of state's office.

An event of March 24, from 3 to 5:30 o'clock, will be a silver tea featuring American music, sponsored by the Willamette University chapter of Mu Phi Epsilon, national music honor society for women. It will be held at the University House, the home of Dr. and Mrs. Carl Summer Knopf in South Winter street on the campus.

Members of Mu Phi Epsilon will assist about the living room. Mrs. Melvin Geigt is chairman for the smart affair. Mrs. T. S. Roberts and Mrs. Frank Erickson will pour.
