Lebanon Council Ponders Problems

Lebanon — Discussion as to whom was responsible for meeting the expenses of civilian defense terminated in the city council's decision to employ a full time night watchman at the city hall to eliminate the necessity of a volunteer fireman on duty. The council also discussed whether or not to include civilian defense funds in the coming budget, but took no action. A preliminary budget meeting will be held May 15.

A qualified life-guard, if available, will be employed as caretaker of the city park this year. The council voted to send the assistant fire chief to the state and Pacific coast firemen's meeting in Baker this month. A class "B" beer license was granted to Henry Houpp, who intends to open a restaurant here about June 1.

Pageant Theme Is Patriotism For Silverton

Silverton—The Eugene Field school is presenting an original patriotic pageant called "Our Heritage of Freedom," as its part of the PTA program for May 15.

The detail outline of the pageant traces the history of the search for new lands and the struggle for freedom, using these six episodes in tableaux, songs and poetry:

The Explorers, 1000-1803.
The Pilgrims, 1820.
The Spirit of '76.
Lincoln and the Civil War, 1861.

The First World War, 1917.

Now in 1942—and asks what we can do to help preserve our priceless heritage of freedom and answers conservation, health, victory gardens and the buying of war stamps.

The verse choir consists of children who have written their own original version in poetry of that phase. The Explorers Episode was written by the children in Miss Story's sixth grade. Miss Kleinsorge's art classes have made the posters for the pageant.

All teachers of the Eugene Field building are assisting with the work of presenting the pageant, and all children whose parents give them permission will take part in the program.

The general committee in charge consists of Helvie Silver, chairman, Muriel Bentson, Jenece Sigurdson and Hannah Olson.
