Streamlined Budget Now Being Prepared

By Paul W. Harvey, Jr.

Governor Charles A. Sprague said today that he and his budget director, George Aiken, have begun preparation of the state's "streamlined war budget" for the two years beginning July 1, 1943.

"We have several serious problems facing us," the governor said. "One is that institutions will need more money for food and clothing because of the increased cost of living, but this will be partially offset by lower salary outlays. Institutions which are unable to get adequate labor supplies are not spending money for salaries. "Some salaries will have to be increased because of increased living costs. On the other hand, some departmental appropriations may be lower because the war has curtailed the activities of those departments. In this latter connection, I might mention the state police, state board of health, and the state engineer."

Money for Buildings
"While we will be unable to spend money for construction of new buildings, purchase of new cars and typewriters, etc., I will recommend that the money for new buildings be appropriated. We had an extensive six-year $1,400,000 building program outlined at the 1941 legislature, and I want the money appropriated at each session for the duration of the war. "We won't be able to build these buildings now, but as soon as the war is over, we could go right ahead and help take up the slack that will result by men losing their war jobs."

Governor Sprague said Oregon must do its full part in helping the government during and after the war.

"States, to justify their existence, must not lean on the government. They must contribute their full share of effort," he said.

The governor, who said in his unsuccessful campaign for re-publican renomination that state income taxes should be reduced 20 per cent, said he would make no recommendation to the legislature as to the disposition of the $2,500,000 to $3,000,000 income tax surplus that will have accumulated by next January. That is a job for the legislature, he said.

Alternative Listed
But he did say that the legislature has three alternatives:
1. It can spend the money for any purpose it sees fit, but the governor said this would violate the principal that the purpose of the tax is to provide property tax relief.
2. It can keep the surplus to be used when economic conditions are poor.
3. It can use the money to offset property taxes, but this might benefit large corporations and absentee property owners. He added that this is a complicated problem, because it must be decided which local government units—schools, counties or cities—should get the money.

Ex-Justice Dies Suddenly

Stockbridge, Mass., July 18 (AP)—Retired supreme court justice George Sutherland, 80, a conservative jurist who wrote several decisions condemning important new deal legislation, was found dead in his bed by his wife, Rosamond, at Red Lion Inn early today.

Inn officials said he apparently died of a heart attack in his sleep. A medical-examiner was summoned by Manager Heaton I. Treadway, son of the inn owner, Rep. Allen T. Treadway, (R., Mass.).

Sutherland and his wife had been guests at the inn for the last few weeks, officials said. It was the first summer the Sutherlands had spent here.

A former resident of Salt Lake City, Utah, Sutherland had lived in Washington since his retirement from the supreme court in 1938.

Sutherland was appointed to the supreme court in September, 1922, by President Warren G. Harding. He was born March 25, 1862, at Stony Stratford, Buckinghamshire, England. He was one of four men named to the bench who was born outside the United States.

He was a conservative and his judicial opinions, though written in scholarly fashion, evoked vigorous dissents from his liberal associates, then in a minority on the supreme court.

He was consistently on the conservative side in votes on the decisions invalidating the Guffey coal control act and the powers of the securities and exchange commission to interrogate witnesses. His vote was used to condemn AAA, NRA, and the municipal bankruptcy act, railroad pensions and "hot oil" legislation. However, he voted in favor of the Tennessee Valley Authority, and old age pensions. He went against the new deal in the gold cases.

Nazi Drives Aim At Gateway To Caucasus

with one group advancing due southward on the railway and the other striking out cross-country to the southeast.

The original Millerovo threat had appeared to be aimed exclusively at Stalingrad, 175 miles to the east.

A position on the lower Don such as the Germans now claim would put them in position to attack Rostov from the rear or try for a direct southward push into the Caucasus oil region, by-passing Rostov, or to both.

The assault on Rostov probably was the mission of forces moving south from Millerovo, astride the Moscow-Rostov railway, which the Germans have indicated had reached points 65 miles from the city.

The arrival of "armored formations and motorized infantry divisions" east of Rostov was accompanied by "devastating" air assaults along the lower Don, "especially transports which crowded tracks and stations," said the German high command. Sweep to Don

The Germans indicated that capture of Voroshilovgrad, about 100 miles northwest of Rostov, had facilitated a sweep to the Don. The Russians have not, however, conceded either loss of Voroshilovgrad or positions east of Rostov.

Russian claims of limited successes in counter-attacks on the northern flank of the broad German offensive, in the Voronezh area, were grimly overshadowed by the Rostov threat.

The Russians, by communique and front line dispatches declared, that the Germans had been pursued back across the Don in one Voronezh sector, that five communists had been recaptured, and that the enemy had sustained 4,300 more casualties in active theaters.

War Bond Committee Greatly Pleased

Dallas — Reports received from issuing agencies showing that Polk county war bond sales for the first two weeks of July had reached $36,761.50, greatly encouraged the county war bonds committee striving to attain July's quota of $66,200.

Polk county's twelve agencies and amounts reported by each are: Dallas City bank, $16,485.50; Federal Savings and Loan, Dallas, $8,562.50; Dallas postoffice, $693.75; First National bank, Independence, $3,712.50; Independence postoffice, $1,500.00; First National bank, Monmouth, $2,512.00; Monmouth postoffice, $1,668.75; Falls City postoffice, $206.25; Grand Ronde bank, $131.25; Grand Ronde postoffice, $675; Perrydale postoffice, $482.75; Valsezt postoffice, $131.25.

Secrets of Seashore Told in New Volume

Youthful beachcombers, or adult ones for that matter, who prwl the long sandy fairways at the coast searching for strange creatures cast up out of the deep, or living in their native environments along the ocean fringe— questions: What fish is there that never stops swimming? What fish grow on trees? Did you ever hear of a fish that manufactures electricity? What fish lives in a limestone house? Did you ever hear of a fish with hundreds of feet or one with eyes at the end of his arms, or a fish with arms, for that matter? Or a fish which breaks its own arms from choice?

In these times when inflation is dreaded did you ever hear of a sand dollar? Or when victory gardens are talked have you seen a sea peach, sea oats, sea corn, sea strawberries or sea peanuts? Ever hear of a worm that lives in a house with a chimney? Do you know how to tell the age of a clam, or of a snail that makes a cradle for its babies? Do you know what creature is champion swimmer of the seashore or that a crab is a champion at camouflage? All these questions and many more are answered in this little book.

If you want to really delve into the secrets of the seashore this book will reveal a large number of the answers.

Mexico has issued a stamp to provide funds to fight malaria.
