Townsend Clubs

No. 16 will meet at the home of Mrs. Arnold, 2256 Ford street, Thursday evening.

Unionville—Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Church were hosts to the Dayton Townsend club at their Monday evening meeting. There were 27 of the 100 paid-up members present. An 8 o'clock dinner was served. The officers for 1943 were sworn in. Mrs. J. W. Lorett administered the oath. The officers are as follows: President, Fred Hettmansperger; vice president, J. S. Coomler; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Charles Hagan. Besides the hosts Mr. and Mrs. Church attending were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Withe and Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Coomler of this district; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Andrews and Russell of Fairview and all the rest were from the Dayton area. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Peery near Dayton.

been sacrificed and torn up and residents along the rest of the street asked that an effort be made to patch their part rather than to scarify it. Owing to impossibility of securing materials it is impossible to re-oil the street and potholes are getting to be so numerous and bad as to present a dangerous situation. A compromise agreement was worked out whereby the county will dump some loads of fine gravel along the street and residents will undertake to see the holes are filled and some sort of crude oil applied to stave off the necessity of scarification as long as possible.

Strike Leaders Fired by Army

Detroit, Jan. 13 (AP)—Eight workers accused by the army of responsibility of a series of unauthorized strikes last month at their Bohn Aluminum & Brass corporation plant here were discharged from their jobs today. Seven were fired by the Bohn corporation at the request of the army, while the other, who since the strikes had taken a job at the Packard Motor Car company, was discharged there, also at the army's request.

Col. George E. Strong, chief of plant protection for the army forces, said it was definitely established that the eight were responsible for the strikes. Twenty workers were given hearings but 12 were allowed to return to their jobs on their promises not to impair war production in any way. These are on probation, Col. Strong said. In a series of strikes workers said they were protesting delay in war labor board approval of a wage increase agreement between the company and the CIO United Auto Workers. Production has been uninterrupted since December 13.

Death Clause of Utility Act Upheld

New York, Jan. 13 (AP)—The constitutionality of the so-called "death clause" section of the public utility holding company act of 1935 was upheld today by the United States circuit court of appeals which affirmed two orders of the securities and exchange commission against the North America company. The court upheld SEC orders directing the public utility holding company to divest itself of all securities of the 80 companies it operated in 17 states and the District of Columbia with the exception of that part of the public utility system known as the "St. Louis system."

Seek to Bar Sale of Tracts

The city council and other authorities are being encouraged by Marion post No. 661, Veterans of Foreign Wars, to cause the removal from the streets of persons selling magazines that the post considers unpatriotic nature. An ordinance enacted recently by the city council was expected to reach the situation, but it is possible the ordinance falls short since it mentions solicitors and the magazine sellers claim they do not solicit. They are said to be members of Jehovah's Witnesses. An effort probably will be made to amend the ordinance.

The resolution adopted by the Veterans of Foreign Wars mentions "undesirable solicitation upon the streets of Salem by certain unpatriotic, seditious groups, carrying on their activities under the guise of a religious sect."

The enactment resolves "that the mayor, city council, police, and all public authorities of Salem be commended for their efforts to rid our city of all obnoxious solicitation . . . and that all members of this organization (the VFW) are committed to a policy of aggressive cooperation with the police and all other authorities of Salem in securing enforcement of this and all other laws and ordinances pertaining to citizenship."

Oregon Ships 8 Cars Tin Cans

British Navy Gains Carriers

London, Jan. 13 (AP)—The British navy now has more aircraft carriers than at the start of the war, despite heavy losses. A. V. Alexander, first lord of the admiralty, said today.

Alexander, addressing members of the Constitutional club, asserted that British losses for the entire war would constitute a great fleet.

"Yet, today, we have far larger naval strength than in 1939," he said.

He revealed that the vast naval program had been achieved with 100,000 fewer shipyard workers than in the first World War.

Court News

Complaint for divorce by Lillian vs. Homer Zile alleges cruel and inhuman treatment. They were married at Livingston, Mont., August 11, 1918.

The grand jury continued investigations Wednesday into the roach powder deaths at the state hospital. There was an unconfirmed rumor about the courthouse that before the day was over the jury might submit a presentment to the court in which clarification of certain legal complications would be asked. If such presentment is filed it will not be made public. Under a presentment the grand jury submits a certain state of facts to the court and asks what legal effects arise from such a state of facts.

Order in the divorce case of Tena Mae vs. Allen C. Harrison names E. Lee Crawford as attorney for the defendant who is in the armed services. Appointment is made under the soldiers and sailors federal act.

Judge Duncan is scheduled to resume hearing the case of U. J. Montag & Son vs. state employment commission Thursday morning at 10 o'clock. A companion case, Minden Brothers Lumber company against same commission, also is involved.

Motion to set for hearing for January 18 at 10 a.m. has been filed in the case of Eva I. vs. Robin Reed.

Ralph LeRoy Warren, appearing before Judge Page Tuesday to answer to an information by the district attorney charging defendant with contributing to the delinquency of a minor, expressed preference to have his case go before the grand jury rather than pleading to the information and the judge ordered him held.

The $10,000 damage action of Emma Conrad Oldson vs. Carrie Kraut went out on a nonsuit in Judge Page's court Tuesday afternoon and the jury was dismissed, the court holding that evidence was put into plaintiff's case differing from allegations in the complaint. Damages sought because an automobile driven by the defendant crashed into a service station owned by plaintiff a mile south of Aurora and damaged the building.

The grand jury will resume its sessions Wednesday morning and it is understood will again take up the investigation of the poison deaths at the state hospital, which it has had under consideration during a number of preceding sessions. Work of the jury was delayed awaiting a court reporter, who had been unavailable owing to other duties.

Oregon Ships 8 Cars Tin Cans

Thousands of school children all over the state are cooperating in the tin can salvage program and thousands of homes are saving their tin cans in this all out war effort.

Through the cooperation of Rex Putnam, superintendent of public instruction, and the school principals throughout the state, the school children are acting as collectors of tin cans, taking them to the schools where they are being collected once or twice a month by the members of the Oregon Bottlers of Carbonated Beverages Association.

"We are receiving 100 per cent cooperation on the part of the school authorities as well as the beverage distributors in this tin can program and through the efforts of the school children as well as the thousands of heads of families, Oregon has been able to report excellent progress in the tin can salvage program," said Sersanous.

County Assessor R. Shelton has loaned the services of two of his main deputies, Ernest Denny and Ray Lick, to C. P. Holdridge, US engineer, who has charge of appraising damage done in the county by the recent flood waters in the Willamette. Denny went to work Tuesday and Lick started a few days ago. It is expected some time will be made in making the appraisals.

Illegal Connections With Sewer System

More than 30 families that live just outside the city limits of Salem will probably find themselves in the very near future faced with the demand that they pay fees to the city for the privilege of having connections with the Salem sewer system. A check on illegal connections has recently been made by City Engineer J. H. Davis and the number of them is surprisingly large.

It all goes back to the spring of 1915 when the city council extended special consideration to the Salem school board.

In that year the school board petitioned the city council for authority to connect the then new McKinley school with the city sewer system. The school is just outside the city limits, south of Hoyt street. The petition was referred by the mayor to the sewer committee of the council.

The committee, for some reason, didn't want to make a recommendation and returned the matter to the council for further consideration.

On motion of the late B. W. Macy, then a member of the council, the question was referred to the city engineer and the city attorney with power to act. There is no further record. Evidently, says the present engineer, they acted, but made no report to the council. Anyway, the McKinley school connection was made.

In the 27 years that have intervened about 26 connections have been made south of Hoyt street mainly with residences built since 1915, and only two of these are legal. It appears that in some instances permission for the connection has been made by the school board without authority. In other instances it seems that the residents connected without authority from anyone.

Six illegal connections have been found on South 12th, Berry and University streets, and one at a slaughter house on South 25th. Others exist that haven't yet been found, says the engineer, and some of them, on account of their locations, will be hard to find.

On Market street, outside the city limits, are 21 connections, but all of those are legal.

On February 19, 1940, the city council enacted an ordinance requiring residents outside the limits of the city to pay a fee of 75 cents a month for each dwelling or business house, and 10 cents a month additional for each plumbing fixture in excess of seven. It is said the average dwelling house has five connections. The city enters into a contract with each family and can terminate the contract on 90 days notice.

Those home or business house owners having the illegal connections, it is probable, will be asked to pay up the fees back to the date of the ordinance of February 19, 1940.

City first aid reported the following cases today: Emma Massner, 19, of Tillamook, suffered a nose cut requiring stitches when an automobile in which she was riding with High Allen skidded on icy pavement on Chemeketa street and hit a telephone pole. She was going to take a bus for Lebanon to visit relatives. Mrs. Anna Cox, 809 South High, is at Salem Deaconess hospital with what may be a stroke. Clyde Salisbury, 1430 North 18th, is hospitalized with fractured ribs resulting from a collision with his automobile today with a parked truck in the 1100 block on Madison. His son, Terry, received cuts and bruises. His car was badly damaged.

War Hero Talks To Legislators: Captain Marion Carl, Hubbard, marine flying hero of Midway and Guadalcanal, reminded the Oregon legislature today that the men now in uniform will expect civilian jobs when the war is over.

Speaking in the house chamber, he said: "You back here can do something about it, especially you who are making the laws."

Captain Carl was accompanied by his mother, Mrs. Ellen Carl, and his bride of five days, a former Powers model in New York.

Salem Prospects For New Industries

Manager Clay Cochran of the Salem Chamber of Commerce is preparing to compile a prospectus showing Salem manufacturing facilities, the labor situation, available warehouse space, machinery, and industrial sites, accompanied by detail enough to make it of value either to the government in establishing defense projects, or private companies seeking locations either for handling war contracts or post-war activities.

Included in the data will be warehouse or other floor space with railroad track facilities, loading facilities, heating and other details. A map of the city and perhaps one of Marion county will be included.

A letter has been written which is going out to the citizens of the community. If any do not receive the letter, and have any of the facilities mentioned, they are requested to fill out one of the forms that go out with the letters.

The letter says in part: "The industrial committee of the Salem Chamber of Commerce desires a listing of the machinery and facilities of the various manufacturers in Salem and vicinity. The purpose of this listing is to provide a prospectus to the government of such facilities to enable them to get a better picture of the ability of Salem to reproduce war materials."

"We appreciate the fact that at the present time you may have some war work that is taking up all your time, but regardless of that, we would like to place your machinery, as well as that of others, in our prospectus. There is no obligation on your part to take contracts."

The chamber hopes to have all the data assembled by January 20. All information furnished will be treated as confidential.

College War Courses An Aid

The young man who specializes in mathematics, physics, chemistry and physical fitness in order he may be of assistance to the government in time of war need not feel that he is wasting his time insofar as peace objectives are concerned, Dr. Chester F. Luther, dean of the college of liberal arts of Willamette university, stated Wednesday noon in addressing the Salem Kiwanis club. "If we are to keep abreast of the times in the matter of science, class room work of the type in which we are specializing will be of importance after the war," he said.

Dr. Luther told how the study of astronomy by the ancients was tied in with methods employed in determining the charting of the course of a projectile aimed at a certain objective. He spoke of the discovery by Halley of the comet which was named for him and how he, through the use of computation determined that the astral body would return in approximately 75 years. Halley's computations have a direct bearing on the flight of projectiles fired from a gun, the speaker said.

Robert Ferrall, secretary of state, will address the Kiwanis club next Tuesday noon.

Frank K. Lovell, 90 Passes at Hospital

Frank K. Lovell, well known figure of the state capital died at 6:30 o'clock this morning at the Salem General hospital. He was the oldest of the state employes both in years and in point of service, celebrating his 90th birthday anniversary, Monday, August 31.

This passing year marked the 52nd year of his service of the state, much of which he spent in the office of the secretary of state. The exceptions were a period of time as state tax commissioner and some time spent in the office of the insurance office. He continued working until he became seriously ill and entered the hospital Sunday, October 18. Meticulous about his appearance, he was characterized by the ever-present red carnation in his lapel.

Came Here in 1890: He came up from Westport on the Columbia to Salem in 1890 to "spell" his brother, who had a job with Secretary of State George W. McBride. He was to be here for three weeks and go back to Westport, but he's been here ever since, except for a few years spent in California where he went due to illness.

His brother did not return to the job so Lovell stayed. He has served under Secretaries McBride, Kincaid, Dunbar, Benson for a brief period, Olcott, Koser, Hoss, Stadelman and Snell, the roster of the state secretaries for over a half century.

Native of Boston: He was a native of Boston, son of Captain J. G. Lovell, shipbuilder of note, who owned a large wharf in Boston harbor. He was almost as truly a native American as an American Indian, for his mother's people came to the colonies in 1624 and his father's in 1630, Mr. Lovell

Suit to Disbar Smith Heard By High Court

The state supreme court heard arguments today in the State Bar association's suit to disbar Guy O. Smith, Salem attorney, charged with unprofessional conduct.

Smith is accused of collecting a judgment for a client, and then failing to account for all the money collected.

The court also heard an appeal from Columbia county in which M. M. Lyons, appellant, is suing Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Browning for damages resulting of the killing of several Lyons' prize turkeys by the Brownings' two dogs. Lyons won an $800 verdict in lower court, but a new trial was granted. Lyons appealed from the order granting the new trial.

The court handed down three decisions today, as follows: Mary M. Vaughan and the First National Bank of Baker vs. Sheriff Fred Spence of Baker county. Appeal from Baker county. Suit to enjoin sheriff from selling two savings accounts in the Eastern Oregon Federal Savings and Loan association of Baker, for taxes. Opinion by Justice Rossman, holding plaintiffs had no interest in savings accounts. Judge R. J. Green, affirmed.

Penn Mutual Life Insurance Co. vs. Mr. and Mrs. V. L. Nelson, appellants. Appeal from Multnomah county. Suit to enjoin trespassing on property. Opinion by Justice Lusk. Judge pro tem Irving Rand, affirmed.

B. J. Stephens vs. Verna L. Stephens, defendant, and Rose Wilkes, appellant. Appeal from Tillamook county. Appeal from order renewing a judgment for a balance of $2,653 for support of a child. Opinion by Justice Belt, original judgment being reinstated. Judge E. Frank Peters, reversed.

Indian Hospital Money Requested: Washington, Jan. 13 (AP)—Funds for operating Indian hospitals in Oregon and Oregon were requested by President Roosevelt in his recommendations to congress for the 1944 fiscal year starting next July 1.

The budget message asked $21,385 for the Warm Springs hospital in Oregon, which compared with $21,205 for the present fiscal year.

The amounts recommended for Washington hospitals and the amounts appropriated for the present year included: Yakima sanatorium $44,000 and $42,901.

A hot box in one of the planer sheds at the Oregon Pulp & Paper company sawmill today brought out the fire department. Little damage was done.

Herman Brown Seriously Ill

Herman Brown of Salem, veteran employe who was serving the 42nd session as sergeant at arms in the house, is in a critical condition with uremic poisoning. He is a veteran of the first World war and has served in various capacities at previous sessions, last time as clerk of committee rooms. He is a member of Capital post No. 9, American Legion, and Volture 153 of the 40 et 8 society of the Legion and president of the Marion county council.

Brown was on the job until noon Tuesday and while not feeling well, did not become aware of the seriousness of his condition until suddenly taken ill during the afternoon and rushed to the hospital later.

James McGilchrist of Salem has been "borrowed" from the office of the secretary of state to act as sergeant at arms. No attempt will be made to name a successor until the return of Representative W. M. McAllister, speaker of the house, from Medford, where he was called by the death of his mother-in-law.

was born August 31, 1852. At the age of 20 years, in 1872, he came to Oregon via the isthmus, to join his brother, Col. S. L. Lovell, who operated a ranch in the Nehalem valley.

He remained at Nehalem for three years, moving to Westport where he fished in the summer and taught school in the winter for three years. He then took a job as a purser on a Columbia river boat, which he held for two and one-half years, following the urge for water, which he inherited from a line of ancestors, who had followed the sea for generations.

Ran Westport Mill: Returning to Westport he opened a store with John and Dave West and later built a lumber mill. This was operated three years by the trio when it burned and the three men erected a second mill, which still stands at Westport and still operates. A few years later they sold the mill and Mr. Lovell moved to Salem, where he remained.

When he took over the job in the secretary of state's office, he was one of four employes, the others being B. F. Giltner, his
