Log Shortage At Albany Mill

Albany, Jan. 21—Operations at the Albany Plylock corporation plant were sharply curtailed here Wednesday when a log shortage that has long threatened became acute.
Lack of logs, plant officials said, forced the temporary lay-off of 195 employees, leaving only the first shift and part of the second working at the plant.
Weather conditions, road conditions and the shortage of labor in the logging camps are chiefly blamed for the situation here, which, it was pointed out, is only similar to that prevailing elsewhere.
How long the shortage will hinder plywood manufacturing here could not be predicted, but it was regarded as certain that there will be trouble until the weather changes.
A number of plywood workers were signing up Wednesday at the local U.S. employment office for work in shipyards at Portland and Vancouver, most of them with the understanding that they will return here when full operation of the plywood plant is resumed.
Shipyard employment service representatives were here assisting in placing applicants.

Afrika Korps Speeds Retreat Toward Tunisia

around the last axis foothold in north Africa.

Joined by French

Liaison had previously been established between Leclerc's columns and American-British-French forces on the western flank of Tunisia.

Multiple signs indicated that Rommel might abandon Tripoli without a fight in his urgency to reach Tunisia. The Berlin radio reported that the city was ablaze and under incessant allied bombing attack.

Moreover, violent fighting in central Tunisia, was strongly reinforced German troops smashed at French positions southwest of Pont Du Fahs, suggested an effort to clear the way for Rommel's weary forces en route to the Tunis-Bizerte zone in northern Tunisia.

Italian headquarters asserted that in the last three days the axis had captured 1,500 allied prisoners in Tunisia—evidently referring to the fighting around Pont Du Fahs—and the French admitted yesterday that they had fallen back about seven miles in this sector.

Nazis Score Advance

Allied headquarters said today that Col. Gen. Jurgen Von Arnim's Tunisian forces again had noted "a small advance" in the mountains southwest of Pont Du Fahs, and dispatches from the front said a German thrust into the French sector had thrown the whole front into a state of fluidity.

Allied bombers and fighters, including the French Lafayette Escadrille, were reported blasting the axis in support of the hard-pressed French ground troops.

Advices from the front said allied plans to counter the German thrust remained hidden in war councils, but indicated that a decisive battle might be developed.

Gen. Von Arnim's tanks and infantry turned south against the French, it was reported, after an abortive attack on British lines in the Bou Arada-Goubellat area, where British troops threw the nazis back along the road from Bou Arada to Pont Du Fahs.

Military analysts predicted that if Rommel fled Tripoli, he would probably try to hold a narrow coastal front of the Gulf of Gabes extending from Bizerte, in the north, to the French-built Mareth line inside the Tunisian frontier in the south.

When Norwalk, Conn., entered the Victory Book Campaign to collect books for the men in the service, a goal of 10,000 books was set, but in spite of unseasonable weather, 18,300 books were collected, an average of two books for every five residents.

Raids on Britain Resumed by Nazis Army Troops Replace Marines At Guadalcanal

London, Jan. 21 (U.P.)—German daylight aerial raiders returned to the attack on southeast England today while rescue squads worked in relays still seeking additional survivors of upwards of 100 small children and their teachers buried in the ruins of an elementary school flattened yesterday by a dive-bombing plane. British fighter planes were waiting for the Germans as the second day of daylight raids started, and one German fighter plane was shot down quickly off the southeast coast.

Dwight Weddle Killed in Crash

Independence, Jan. 21—The loss of the first boy from the Independence during the war was made known here Monday when Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Weddle received a wire from the commanding officer of Camp McQuaide, Calif., stating that their son, Corporal Dwight Q. Weddle had been killed in an automobile accident near the gate of the camp at 7 p.m. Sunday.

After receiving the wire Monday Mr. Weddle immediately tried to get in touch with the boy's wife, who is in California, but as his wires were not answered he called long distance to learn that she had been injured in the accident and was in the Red Cross hospital at the camp. Weddle will be given a military funeral at Camp McQuaide Friday morning and interment will be made at a later date at the Grand cemetery in San Francisco, Calif.

Dwight Q. Weddle, 37, better known here as "Bud" attended the Independence high school 1921 to 1923; the University of Washington for one year after which he worked at his father's barber shop for ten years in the location now of Lynn Huntley. He then took up the carpentry trade and worked at the Bonneville dam for two years. He has been in the army a little over a year.

Gen. Von Arnim's tanks and infantry turned south against the French, it was reported, after an abortive attack on British lines in the Bou Arada-Goubellat area, where British troops threw the nazis back along the road from Bou Arada to Pont Du Fahs.

Military analysts predicted that if Rommel fled Tripoli, he would probably try to hold a narrow coastal front of the Gulf of Gabes extending from Bizerte, in the north, to the French-built Mareth line inside the Tunisian frontier in the south.
