

Notable Work Done By Volunteer Nurses

Two new classes of 20 women for the Volunteer Nurses' Aid Cross an exceedingly important successful was the first class which graduated November 28 and is now completing its hours of work at the two hospitals here; so much enthusiasm has been shown and linked with it so much appreciation from hospital and patients for the work done by the nurses' volunteer aides, that efforts at lining up people for the two new classes have been automatically stepped up.

When it is realized that Oregon's quota of nurses being called on is virtually one a day the important part that these nurses' aides will play on the home front can be appreciated.

Mrs. Louise Arneson, registered nurse, is instructor for the nurses' aides.

Married Women Prevail

She said that in the first class which started October 26 and graduated November 28, but which is now completing its hospital hours, 18 are enrolled, all of them married women with families but one. Several of them have two or three children and have to arrange their home work accordingly.

The course covers 80 hours of hospital work within three months after the course is completed. This time is equally divided in training at both hospitals so as to be qualified wherever they may be called.

Mrs. Arneson says that an unusual amount of interest has been shown by the graduating class and members of it have told hospital personnel that the work is so absorbing they can scarcely wait for their days to report. One of the graduates said that while she wanted to see the war end as quickly as possible, nevertheless, she expected to find life something of a bore when her hospital work is ended.

Corps Chooses Captain

The corps elected its own captain whose duty is to see that when a person assigned to report on certain days finds she is unable to be there, someone else is selected in her place, this plan being worked out by the aides themselves as they said they wanted to maintain the reputation of being dependable.

Patients at the hospital have told her, said Mrs. Arneson, that it is a pleasure to have the aides wait on them as they are so efficient and uniformly pleasant in their work.

An instance of the enthusiasm shown occurred during the recent flood when high water caused distress at Salem Deaconess hospital. Mrs. H. C. Mandell of West Salem, who already had given her volunteer hours at the hospital for that week, nevertheless took up her work again at the Deaconess although she was obliged to reach the city from West Salem by a very roundabout route. Those assigned to Salem general hospital also put in extra hours at the Deaconess during the flood period.

Mrs. Jack Hayes, mother of three children of school age, is given as an example of how housewives in the class have been carrying on despite handicaps. She is giving her hours at the hospital before school is out so she may be home when her children arrive, and has been carrying out her assignments despite flu, colds and sickness.

More Duties Coming

Many of the class, though only graduated a little over a month,

Eight Churches Sponsor School

The Salem all-church school of religion and fellowship is well under way in plans carefully made, and with teachers and leaders chosen. It opens in the First Methodist Church on Tuesday evening, February 2, with a fellowship dinner at 6:30 and with classes to begin at 7:30.

Though the school is guaranteed to the community by eight churches, it is hoped that a wide participation from the entire Central Willamette valley, will be experienced because of its actual value in seeking a larger cooperation in the teaching of the Bible and in a deepening of the religious consciousness of the people in meeting present day urgent needs.

The curriculum and faculty of the School and Leadership Training conference follows:

Nurses and beginners' department— "The Children" by L. J. Sherrill; teacher, Miss Virginia Nance, instructor in week-day religious education in Salem public schools. Nazarenes Plan Burn Mortgage

The members of the Church of the Nazarene on N. Center street, under the leadership of their pastor, Rev. Weaver W. Hess, have liquidated their total indebtedness and will celebrate next Sunday, January 24, with a special mortgage-burning and home-coming service.

The present building, now housing the congregation, was purchased in 1931 and remodeled five years ago at the cost of $16,000. According to the statement of Rev. Hess, the fine cooperative spirit and sacrificial giving of his people made possible the payment of $7,000 on this fund, which enabled them to take care of the notes far in advance of the maturity dates.

Dr. E. E. Martin, district superintendent of the denomination in the North Pacific area, will be the main speaker in the morning. Rev. Hess will give his formal acceptance to the extended three-year call, as pastor, which was voted by the membership last Sunday morning.

Among other features, there will be the roll call of members, a brief historical sketch and the burning of the mortgage papers. The church treasurer will read the financial statement and hand the cancelled note to J. M. Six, chairman of the board of trustees. Dr. Martin, district superintendent, will receive the papers from Mr. Six in behalf of the district and the general church and proceed with the burning. L. Townsend, one of the three remaining charter members, will light the match. Immediately following this ceremony there will be an old-fashioned love feast directed by the pastor.

Rev. Fletcher Galloway, a former pastor, now of Portland, will preach at the 7:30 evening service. Guest soloists invited are Marilyn Anderson from Portland and Lowell Loveall from Cathlamet, Wash.

Roy Harland First 1942 Junior Citizen

Roy Harland, young Salem attorney, chairman of the Salem school board, active churchman and civic leader, was announced as Salem's first junior citizen at the annual founder's day banquet of the local chapter of the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce last night. The meeting was held at the Golden Pheasant, where the plaque and an honor pin were presented Mr. Harland by Charles A. Sprague and the address of the occasion given by James Palmer of Portland.

Mr. Harland is a son of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Harland, 323 North 14th, and himself heads a family, his wife being the former Benetta Edwards, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Edwards, 1861 State.

He is a graduate of the Willamette university college of law, a member of the Rotary club, actively affiliated with Knight Memorial Congregational church, is a past president of the Marion County Bar association, and among other activities has been active in community chest work. He has been a member of the Salem school board for three years and was especially commended in the award last night for his work with that board.

The first junior citizen each year is selected by a committee of civic leaders whose identities are not made known, none being a member of the junior chamber.

Mr. Sprague, in making the presentation, said that the recipient of the honor measured up to all requirements.

Qualification Listed

James Palmer, associate secretary of the Portland YMCA, spoke on the subject "Young Men America Needs Today." As their necessary attributes he mentioned life purpose, willingness to work, clear thinking, level-headedness, honesty, ability to face hardship, moral fitness, friendliness and Christianity.

Presiding was Pat Crossland, president of the junior chamber, and toastmaster was Lawrence N. Brown. Special guests were Mayor I. M. Doughton and Carl Hogg, president of the Salem Chamber of Commerce.

Chicago, Jan. 22 (AP)—The U. S. Junior Chamber of Commerce last night presented Paul C. Smith, former editor and general manager of the San Francisco Chronicle, a distinguished service award as the outstanding young man of 1942.

Smith, who is 33, was chosen by judges and the Junior Chamber of Commerce because he best typified the young man "who fights on land and under the sea and in the air that freedom shall not perish from the earth."

Smith resigned last fall from his job as assistant chief of the office of war information. In addition, he resigned as a lieutenant commander in the naval reserve to become a "leatherneck."

"A hell of a lot of people have got to learn to win this war, how to use a bayonet," he said at that time. "There's nothing wrong with being a lieutenant commander except that I couldn't run a destroyer, which is what lieutenant commanders are supposed to do."

The other nine outstanding young men of 1942 listed included Theodore R. Gamble, 33, Portland, assistant to the secretary of the treasury and war bond supervisor.

Tax Auditor Dates Listed

Arthur W. Lamka, field supervisor for the state tax commission, announced Friday a schedule of dates on which state income tax auditors will visit various Oregon communities to assist taxpayers in preparing their returns. The schedule for towns in this area follows:

Calvary Features Youth Program

PFC Ross M. Southard, Jr., of Camp Adair has been invited to be the guest speaker at the Calvary Baptist church next Sunday night at 7:30 o'clock. PFC Southard's home is in Oklahoma City, and is a member of the Calvary Tabernacle of that city. His training prepared him to serve as an assistant chaplain. Mrs. Southard is making her home in Salem.

The senior young people of the church will also assist in the evening service. Wendell Johnson, choirmaster, will lead the inspirational gospel song service. The scripture will be read by Herbert Rasmussen, Jr. The evening prayer will be offered by Wesley Swinford. Eileen Clark will be in charge of the announcements and give a welcome to the visitors. The ushering will be done by members of the youth group. The hymn-anthem will be sung by the choir, "Lead Kindly Light," by Dykes. Following the service the young people will go to the pastor's home for a time of fellowship.

The pastor, Rev. Edward L. Allen, will preach at the morning 11 o'clock service, using for his theme, "The Hour Strikes for Us." The anthem will be sung by the choir, "Bless the Lord," by Ippolito Lovani.

Persons not engaged in war work in Great Britain are being urged to use their spare time in such effort.

Oregon Officers Pay Kansas Tax

Several Oregon officers stationed at Fort Riley, Kan., are being compelled to pay the Oregon income tax, Rep. F. H. Dammasch of Portland said he learned Wednesday.

State tax commission members said there is no way to prevent Kansas from collecting the tax, but that Oregon would have to collect the tax on the officers as they still maintain their legal residence in Oregon.

However, out-of-state officers who are stationed in Oregon do not have to pay the Oregon tax inasmuch as they do not have legal residences here.

Relief At Last For Your Cough

Chronic bronchitis may develop if your cough, chest cold, or acute bronchitis is not treated and you cannot afford to take a chance with any medicine less potent than Creomulsion which goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes. Creomulsion blends beech wood essence by special process with other time tested medicines for coughs. It contains no narcotics.

No matter how many medicines you have tried, if you struggle to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough, permitting rest and sleep, or you are to have your money back. (Adv.)
