Garden Pictures Are Shown

Lebanon — Pictures of gardens in Salem were shown by Miss Elizabeth Lord at the Garden club meeting Monday night. Flowering trees were shown in detail, and trees blooming in Seattle were also shown.

Perennial borders showing succession of bloom in Salem gardens, including Miss Lord's garden, were stressed. Miss Lord pointed out the suitable features of plants in different locations as they were shown. A well-planned garden of annuals in a Salem garden made an interesting picture.

Apple trees planted by an early missionary, Father Leslie, were shown blooming on the Bush estate, which also boasts an unusually fine collection of flowering crabs and cherries.

Flowering peach must be sprayed in December, said Miss Lord, and even then they may not be satisfactory here.

Scenes along Oregon's coast line, particularly around Cape Perpetua and Seal Rock, with the native wild flowers, were shown, "because," Miss Lord said, "we won't be seeing some of these places again for awhile." She told of her childhood days on the coast and the Indian fishing method.

Pictures of fuschias growing at the coast and trained as vines were also shown. Miss Lord's beach cottage home is distinguished by the lack of formal planting. The only plants growing there are native, such as rhododendrons and azaleas, among the native pine and other native shrubbery and trees. Her Salem garden in Mission street is always open to visitors and consists of many flowering trees, shrubs and perennial borders in rather formal planting.

Miss Edith Schryver of Salem brought a flower of a new double white dogwood that is very satisfactory, she said. Miss Schryver, as state horticulture chairman, told of the new horticulture awards to be given for outstanding horticultural achievements by amateurs or professionals.

Mrs. Oliver Gundersen described some of Grant E. Mitsch's work with seedling daffodils and told of the awards he has received for gladiolus introduction.

Mrs. T. J. Vogel, club president, announced that Mrs. E. E. Register had been appointed to direct the rose show entries to the two entry tables. Mrs. Harjey McKinney will work with Mrs. Tex McKinney, Mrs. C. C. Whitchee and Mrs. Ada Follet on the placing committee.

Mrs. Lawrence Hollingsworth, Mrs. Clair Ford and Mrs. Ray Geason will have charge of the plant sale at the show. Chrysanthemum cuttings for sale must be named varieties.

The Garden club is not sending delegates to the state convention this year, but is mailing a report of its activities to be read at the convention.

FDA Begins Egg Purchases

San Francisco, May 21 (AP) — The food distribution administration began egg purchases yesterday under an amended war food order designed to assure sufficient egg supplies for the armed forces, essential civilian needs and wartime requirements for dried whole eggs.

The order tightening reservation and non-storage provisions on shell eggs was necessitated by the movement of unusual quantities of shell eggs into storage for speculative purposes, the FDA said.

Current civilian needs and requirements for egg-breaking and drying have been reduced by this abnormal "into-storage" movement, it was said.

The order stated that no eggs may move into storage after May 20. Provisions also require that all shell eggs in cold storage on May 20 be reserved for government agencies and may be offered to them at no more than the ceiling prices.

Mrs. Astor Gets Divorce

Reno, Nev., May 21 (AP) — An eight-minute private hearing won Mrs. Ellen Tuck French Astor a divorce yesterday from John Jacob Astor III.

Mrs. Astor entered the courthouse through a rear door and went directly to Judge William McKnight's chambers.

The divorce decree took no notice of Astor's petition, filed by his attorney a few hours earlier, asking that his wife's suit be dismissed and denying her charge of "extreme cruelty of a mental nature."

The Astors were married in Newport, R. I., June 30, 1934. A property settlement of $1,000,000 to Mrs. Astor and an agreement for custody of their seven-year-old son, Billie, were made out of court.
