

Polk County Harvest Labor Campaign Plans Launched

Dallas—Preparations are being made by Polk county farmers and representatives of the Oregon State college extension service and the U. S. employment service toward recruiting and making available the largest number of farm workers ever before required in this county. It will be necessary to find more sources of labor this year than has ever been true before here.

What appears to be a very heavy prune crop, the largest acreage of beans yet produced, and the more than 3000 acres of hops to be harvested and the loss of so many people to the armed service and to industry who have formerly assisted in this work, makes this job an exceedingly difficult one.

One of the first steps in recruiting the estimated 8000 seasonal workers will be that of recruiting every individual not already engaged in important work. This will include housewives, children, and a large number for evening work who are otherwise employed in the daytime. Recently also made available for use in Polk county has been approximately 500 Mexicans. This group is a part of the 50,000 allocated to the United States by the government of Mexico through a treaty between the countries. Oregon's quota, which will only take care of a very limited amount of the total work to be done, is approximately 4000.

In order to make the use of Mexicans most effective and to release other workers to other farms, it has been agreed by officials in charge and a group of Polk county farmers, to house and use the Mexicans as nearly as possible at one place. An additional 500 have been ordered but it is unlikely that they will be available. The first 500 will be located on the Horst hop ranch and will be used in working one specific yard. Reservations have been made for 100 of the group to be made available to prune growers mainly for the purpose of working as shakers in the prune orchards at harvest time. This will help considerably in filling the need for men to do this particularly difficult job, perhaps the one type of labor most difficult to secure at this time. Women and children are not husky nor strong enough to do this type of work, and men usually available for this work are employed in defense industries or elsewhere.

Grangers Talk Fire Prevention

Lebanon—A large attendance was reported for the meeting of the Crowfoot grange, when fire prevention was one of the principal topics discussed. George Simons, a veteran fireman, made several valuable suggestions, among them the statement that old shingles cause more roof fires than moss.

The roll call was answered by each member telling what was the first thing he or she would take out of the house in case of fire. Mr. Simons loaned Master Marvin Ufford for the evening a gavel, the head of which was made of wood from the old Oregon battleship, and the handle, fashioned in the form of a rope, was of wood from the old Santiam academy building at Lebanon.

Ray Nichols of the state agricultural committee reported that the state veterinarian had been called to examine a recent outbreak of hog cholera, where 20 deaths had already occurred, and warned that all hog raisers in this community should take precautionary measures.

At a previous session Worthy Master Ufford gave a resume of speeches of prominent persons at the state grange meeting.

Volunteer Firemen Quell Debris Blaze

Silverton—A spectacular fire called the volunteer firemen on the job at 10 o'clock last night when scattering debris and old flax burned at the site of the former Fischer Flour mills which are being cleared up by the city. Several piles of salvaged wood were saved by the firemen and contrary to usual rules the fire proved a help in getting the trash that accumulated from razing the buildings out of the way. No damage was done. The origin of the fire is not known.

Youth Fellowship Conference Calls

Lebanon—Twelve members of the youth forum of Westminster Fellowship of the Presbyterian church, are attending the annual summer conference at the YMCA camp at Silver Creek Falls. The camp began last Sunday, July 18, and ends next Sunday.

The local Fellowship group meets each Thursday for a picnic supper and youth choir under the sponsorship of Mrs. Reeves, youth activities director. John Eskelson is recreational director of group and Miss Nancy Kirkpatrick is choir director.

Fire Equipment For Emergency

Dallas — Following reading and discussing a letter from George H. Bates, civilian defense property officer, regarding tentative allocation to the city of Dallas of certain pieces of fire fighting equipment, council members Monday night gave Walter L. Young, fire chief, full authority to act in the matter. The allocated equipment would be for use in local civilian defense tests and for emergency only.

Two ordinances passed final reading and were signed by Mayor Kersey. The bill posting ordinance fixed fees for daily licenses at $2.50, weekly at $7.50, quarterly at $10 and yearly at $15. The salary amendment ordinance allows salary increases to the auditor and police judge, street commissioner and police officers.

The council named Lewis Carr a member of the police force to be on duty at the Willamette Valley Lumber company.

Thelmer Evenson, staff photographer of the Herald, has several outstanding pictures of the damage done, with a 35-acre field of a perfect stand of wheat of excellent quality, laid low; trees uprooted or broken off and telephone poles and wires down. Practically every small town in the vicinity of Grand Forks and in other sections of the state, including all the Red River valley, suffered material loss. The storm was described as a straight wind, reaching a velocity of 90 miles, not of tornado or twister proportions, in Grand Forks and vicinity.

The parents of Bloch, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Bloch, who were recent visitors here, were at their home in Thompson, N.D., and had loss of buildings but were not injured. Only reports of injuries were of one woman and three children whose home fell over them and who received severe cuts and bruises.
