Monsignor Burke Pleased at Bombing

Hackensack, N. J., July 21 (AP)—Monsignor Eugene S. Burke, former rector of the American seminary in Rome, today in an interview with the Bergen Evening Record, expressed satisfaction that American aviators had bombed that city, at the same time voicing gratitude that care had been taken to spare non-military structures. Now pastor of Holy Trinity church, Hackensack, the Monsignor said: "The axis may no longer hide behind the walls of the eternal city. Probably the pope was sitting in the Vatican thanking God that Rome had at last been bombed. He would realize that while innocents surely would suffer as a result, that it is necessary in order to rid the world of fascism. It was a military job and a well done one."

Engineer Examiners Re-Elect Officers

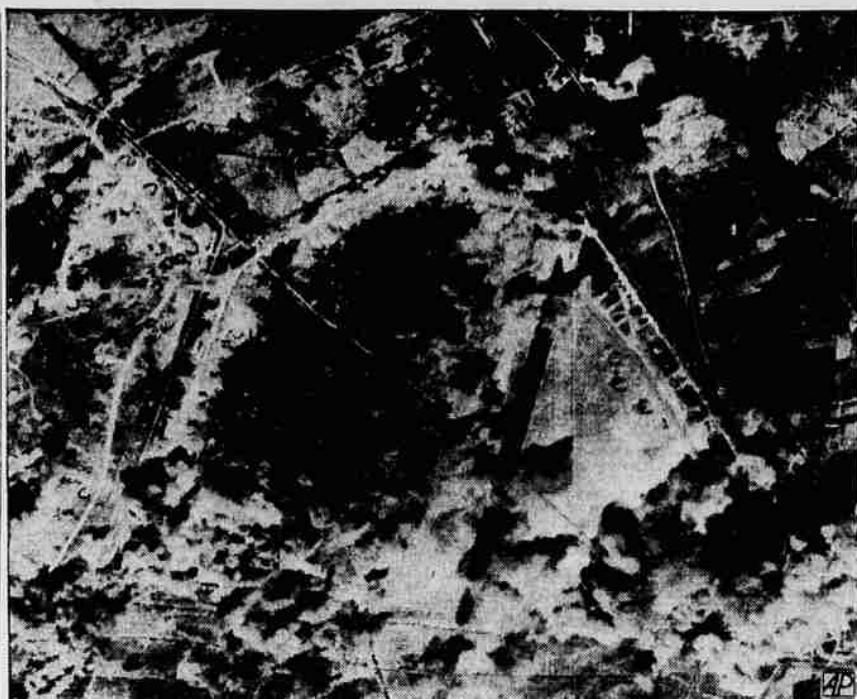

Portland, July 21 (AP)—All executive officers of the state board of engineering examiners were re-elected at a recent meeting, opening of the ballots disclosed today. They are Prof. S. H. Graf, head of the mechanical engineering department at Oregon State college, president; John W. Cunningham, Portland, vice-president; Archy B. Carter, Portland, secretary. A certificate to practice professional engineering in Oregon through reciprocity with Washington, was granted to Rae L. Johnson of Longview.

Oldest Utah Person Dies by Hip Fracture

Ogden, Utah, July 21 (AP)—Mrs. Mary Field Garner, 107, believed to be Utah's oldest resident, died last night, a day after she fell and broke her hip. A native of England she came with her parents to the United States at the age of five and crossed the plains to Utah with an emigrant wagon train in 1856.

Prouty Funeral Set for Thursday

Astoria, Ore., July 21 (AP)—Funeral services were to be held here tomorrow for Walter Irwin Prouty, 59, well-known lumberman of the lower Columbia region, who died in an Astoria hospital Monday. Prouty had been identified with the Prouty Lumber and Box company for 25 years. He was born in Iowa and moved to Bellingham, Wash., during his teens. He attended the Bellingham high school and for several years owned and operated a grocery store there before he founded the lumber company that bears his name.

Bombs Prepare Catania Airfield for Invasion (AP)—Bombs from U. S. army air force planes exploded on the airfield of Catania, Sicily, in a daylight attack before the invasion of Sicily was launched. Since then the British Eighth army was reported near Catania in its drive up the east coast of the island.

Crave Says Fly Too Dominant

Washington, July 21 (AP)—T. A. M. Crave, member of the federal communications commission, told the Cox investigating committee today that FCC Chairman James L. Fly largely dominates commission affairs. The testimony prompted E. L. Carey, committee counsel, to charge that Fly "assumes a and usurps" powers that should be exercised by the full seven-member commission. Chairman Cox (D., Ga.) told the committee he was getting information daily that "broadcasters big and little live in mortal fear of the commission" and that its licensing powers are being used "to destroy free radio and free speech." Carey remarked that commission activities are affecting the free press but did not amplify his observations.

Mule Skinner Dies

San Bernardino, Calif., July 21 (AP)—Edward I. Stiles, 85, born in a covered wagon near Salt Lake City in 1858 and later one of the famous "20 mule team" drivers in the early Borax mining days of Death Valley, died yesterday.

The fire department was called to 365 Hickory street yesterday afternoon to extinguish a barn fire.

Brattie Brothers Mill Burns Down

Ridgefield, Wash., July 21 (AP)—Fire destroyed completely the Brattie Brothers lumber mill here late last night and slightly damaged the shingle plant. J. L. Brattie, president, estimated loss at $150,000. The fire broke out of the dry kilns and got a roaring start. The Ridgefield volunteer fire department was unable to reach the mill at once because the road was blocked for 20 minutes by two logging trains.

Gendron Approves Generator No. 7

Portland, Ore., July 21 (AP)—A war production board authorization of construction of Grand Coulee dam's No. 7 generating unit today drew approval of U. J. Gendron, assistant Bonneville administrator. The decision was announced by J. A. Krug, director of the WPB office of war utilities. Gendron said Bonneville had waged an unceasing fight to get the unit approved. "WPB has assured us that everything possible will be done to make materials available and to schedule fabrication in a way that will permit initial operation of the unit in 1945," Gendron said. Halifax Couple Leaving Today

Portland, July 21 (AP)—Lord Halifax, British ambassador to the United States, and Lady Halifax prepared to leave here for Olympia, Tacoma and Seattle, Wash., late today after a final appearance this noon at Portland's Victory center. Meanwhile, 10,000 Kaiser-Vancouver shipyard workers still talked of the christening by Lady Halifax yesterday of the U.S.S. Tacoma Bay, escort carrier originally designed for the British government.

At the launching of the carrier, eighth such vessel to be built by the yard, Lord Halifax said the shipbuilders and their work had convinced him the United Nations would be able to obliterate the submarine menace and keep the supply lines to Great Britain functioning. "Ships such as this one," he said, "are making it possible for the necessities of life to reach the people of my country."

Other speakers at the launching included Gov. Earl Snell of Oregon, Dale McMullen, representing Gov. Arthur B. Langlie of Washington, and Edgar F. Kaiser, general manager of the Kaiser shipyards.

First Lady Tells of Son's Narrow Escape

Seattle, July 21 (AP)—Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt told an injured flier at the Seattle naval hospital "it was all luck" that her son, Col. Elliott Roosevelt, had escaped a similar injury.

She told R. L. Carmine, 19, aviation radioman third class, of San Antonio, Tex., that she had received a letter from her son describing two close shaves he experienced recently.

"Fifteen minutes after he landed in England, the tail dropped off his plane," she said. "And then on the return trip to Africa, the wind blew his plane into a transport ship, demolishing it. Elliott escaped safely each time."

Carmine escaped injury in one Aleutian plane crash last month, only to break his leg in a second crackup three days later.

Plane Carries Crew To Fight Forest Fire

San Francisco, July 21 (AP)—The U. S. forestry service responded quickly to a call for fire fighters to combat a series of fires in remote Siskiyou county. Forestry officials arranged with United Air Lines to send a transport plane to Reno, Nev., yesterday, pick up a waiting crew of 18 men and fly them to the fire area in California. The plane landed at Montague, east of Yreka. The fires were believed caused by lightning. Extent of damage was not known.

Two Feared Lost Return Safely Home

Nampa, Idaho, July 21 (AP)—Dr. Lyle Stanford of Caldwell and Clyde Krebs of Nampa, feared lost during a boat trip down the rough Owyhee river, returned home early today. They left Rome, Ore., last Thursday and when they failed to arrive at Leslie Canyon, 50 miles downstream on schedule, a search was organized. Arriving more than two days late, they explained they were delayed by unexpected difficulties along the winding stream.

Matty and Joe Eye Keene's Job

Two men, well versed in physical education and coaching activities and well known in the northwest, are in a receptive mood insofar as the position at Willamette university made vacant through the induction into the navy of Spec Keene is concerned. It was learned today from sources pretty close to the situation, one is Joe Kasberger, coach at St. Benedict's prep school of Newark, N.J., and the other is R. L. Mathews of Portland university, who was in charge of Willamette's athletic program a number of years ago.

Kasberger is a graduate of Oregon State and during the summer makes his home at The Dalles. He was Coach Keene's assistant for a brief period a number of years ago. He has been entirely successful at St. Benedict's and was responsible for sending a number of his graduates to Willamette. These include Johnny Oravec, Dick Weisgerber, John Kolb, Larry Drury and Lawrence Lonergan, all outstanding athletes. Kasberger is a bachelor and is an expert gardener.

Mathews has had a wide experience in coaching, gaining considerable fame for his open style of play at the University of Idaho. It has been reported that Portland will abandon its football program during the war. The matter of a successor to Coach Keene, who is expected to be given a leave of absence by the trustees, will be considered during a conference between President George Herbert Smith and the executive board in Portland Friday.

Salem Sailor Among Rescued

Guadalupe, July 21 (AP)—The following are the survivors of the American light cruiser U.S.S. Helena, who were taken from a Japanese-held island after the ship was sunk. (It is not a complete list of the ship's survivors):

C. A. Hamilton, Salem, Ore.; W. D. Morrow, Seattle; E. A. Seth, Seattle; Ralph L. Davis, Tigard, Ore.; R. P. Brown, Walla Walla.

Transport Crashes, Four Aboard Killed

Portland, Ore., July 21 (AP)—Portland arm air base officials investigated today the unexplained crash of a two-motored transport that plummeted in a sharp dive onto a Columbia river island near here, killing the four men aboard. Witnesses said black smoke was seen to pour from the plane shortly before it crashed from a height of 700 feet yesterday. The wreckage burned.

The air base said two officers and two enlisted men were aboard, but names were not disclosed at once.

Lost Houseboat Drifts Downriver

Portland, July 21 (AP)—If the party who lost his houseboat will call for same at Hageman's moorage on the Willamette river below Linnon, he may have it back with Mrs. Dean Elliott's thanks.

Mrs. Elliott said she saw the houseboat drifting downriver yesterday. Her son towed it to their own houseboat and tied it up.

The boat showed indications of recent occupancy. A slip of paper found among dishes and a man's personal effect bore the name Bernard Stock, but officers have been unable to locate him.

Two Salem Farmers In Water Hearing

A hearing to determine whether one man's livestock drinking from another man's spring constitutes appropriation was opened yesterday with State Engineer Charles E. Stricklin acting as referee. Claims and contests in a Marion county circuit court action involving E. D. Cochran and Yale Farr, both Salem district farmers, were presented.

An unnamed spring which arises on Farr's land is the basis for the suit, evidence in which was directed by the court to the state engineer's office for summarization and opinion.

Speaking in abstract terms on Kiwanis and its membership in relation to community and world affairs, Frank Bennett, superintendent of public schools, gave an excellent address to the Kiwanis club Tuesday noon. Ed Grady, chairman, announced that the annual picnic of the club would be held at Hazel Green park August 3 and that no noon luncheon would be held on that date.

Paid Advertising by Government Favored

Washington, July 21 (AP)—Paid newspaper advertising by the government to aid the stabilization program and the war effort is strongly favored by Senator Clark (D., Mo.).

"It is ridiculous to say this would be a subsidy or would lead to government control of the press," he declared in remarks inserted in the Congressional Record.

State Will Buy Used Cars

The state board of control today authorized S. B. Gillette, state purchasing agent, to begin buying used automobiles for state departments.

Gillette reported it now is impossible for the state to obtain new cars. He said at least 25 automobiles would have to be bought for the state within the next six months. The board decided to renew the $412,000 insurance on the state fleet plant at the state prison, the premium amounts to $10,000 a year and the present policy expires September 1.

The board took out the private insurance last fall after a series of disastrous fires which were set by convicts, the board finding that the state restoration fund, which is the state's own insurance system, did not contain enough money to stand further losses. This fund now totals $190,000.

Old Minister Would Join Wife in Death

Saugatuck, Mich., July 21 (AP)—Ignoring pleas of relatives and friends to break a month-long fast that has left him perilously weak, 85-year-old Charles H. Horswell, prominent 25 years ago in Chicago church circles, continued today to wait for reunion in death with his wife, who died at the age of 81 five weeks ago.

Horswell founded the Union church at Kenilworth, a Chicago suburb, in 1905, and was its pastor until 1917. He formerly was a member of the faculty at Hamline university, St. Paul, Minn.

Coos Bay Disputes Eugene Hen Record

Marshfield, July 21 (AP)—When Mrs. Walter Hoffman of Empire read in the Coos Bay Times the United Press story of wartime production among Eugene hens, she felt that her fowl were being slighted.

And rightly so. The Hoffmans' hens not only speeded up production but launched eggs a la Henry J. Kaiser.

The largest eggs reported in the Eugene area was one measuring 8½ by 7 inches. Mrs. Hoffman remained silent when her New Hampshire and White Brahmas laid eggs measuring 7½ by 6½ and 8½ by 6½.

This week one layer hit the jackpot—a king-sized masterpiece measuring 9 by 6½ and weighing 4½ ounces.

Son of Rickenbacker Enlists in Marines

New York, July 21 (AP)—David Edward Rickenbacker, 18-year-old son of Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker, is off to carry on the family traditions in this war, but he'll do it in a marine's uniform—on the ground. He was sworn in as a marine corps private yesterday and will report for basic training at Parris Island, N. C., in two weeks.

Corporation Commissioner Lloyd R. Smith yesterday reported Blyth & Co., Inc., of Portland, had been issued a registration certificate for $10,000 of common stock of Buda company. The stock would be used for investment purposes.
