

Paper Salvage Drive Planned

Dallas—Plans for the waste paper drive in Dallas, part of the county-wide campaign to start Friday, January 21, and continue through Monday, January 24, have now been completed, according to Mrs. J. A. Inglis, salvage chairman.

Serving as a collection depot and a place to store papers temporarily will be the Polk County Farmers' warehouse at 902 Main street. Whenever possible, families are asked to take their waste paper collections directly to this depot. Students in the local schools will bring waste paper from their homes to their respective schools on Friday and Monday. On Monday afternoon, the high school Victory corps will pick up bundles of salvage paper from homes which have not been able to send or bring in their collections. If the weather is fair, the paper should be placed on the parking strip; if stormy, Victory corps members will call at the door.

State salvage headquarters suggests that the magazines be tied in bundles not more than 18 inches high and that the newspapers and collapsed cardboard cartons be tied in bundles not more than 12 inches high. Only newspapers, magazines and cartons properly prepared and securely tied can be picked up by the Victory corps members.

Dimes Will Buy Polk Iron Lung

Dallas—The March of Dimes campaign got underway locally this week, with committees announced and the completion of plans for canvassing the area. Soliciting of funds to finance an iron lung for Polk county will feature the drive.

Clyde Gibbs, chairman of the committee of the American Legion which is sponsoring the Dallas campaign, announced four precinct heads, who will lead the house-to-house solicitation to be carried on by the Legion auxiliary. They are Fred Stimmitt, precinct 1; Elmo Bennett, precinct 2; Albert Bennett, precinct 3, and O. E. Anderson, precinct 4.

In the schools, lapel buttons are being exchanged for amounts of a dime or over. Mrs. P. J. Walton is in charge of sales at the elementary school; Mrs. Adrian Sias at the junior high school, and Donald Gabbert at the high school.

Cardboard containers have been placed in central locations by William Blackley, treasurer of the campaign. Money may also be left with Blackley at the city hall.

Ross Chapin of Perrydale, county drive chairman, has announced that all preparations for the general county campaign have been completed and supplies have been made available to all connected with the drive. The drive will end January 31, he states.

To be able to purchase the iron lung, it will be necessary to raise $3,500 in the county. Half of the money raised is sent to the national foundation, the other half left for use in the county. The iron lung will cost approximately $1,600. Seeking contributions for the iron lung, Chapin points out that there were 30 cases of infantile paralysis registered in the county last year.
