Soldiers' Vote Bill Deadlock

Washington, Feb. 21 (U.P.)—Senate-house conferees resumed discussion on the soldier vote bill today amid reports that the issue was so "hopelessly deadlocked" that an agreement may never be reached.

Sen. Carl A. Hatch (D., N.M.) a senate conferee, said he and other advocates of the federal war ballot approved by the senate had made every possible concession to supporters of the state's rights plan, but were doubtful that it would help a compromise.

Senate conferees cannot give more ground without "surrendering," he said, adding that if the house persists in attempts to throw out the federal ballot completely, no new law will be written.

Rep. Harris Ellsworth (R., Ore.) said the best solution would be to adopt the state's rights bill approved by the house to give the states some specific plan on which to work.

Heavy Storm In California

Los Angeles, Feb. 21 (U.P.)—Scattered showers in the lowlands and more snow in the mountains were forecast for today as southern California cleaned up after its worst storm in 13 years, a mixture of snow, hail and rain that dumped 3.68 inches of precipitation on Los Angeles in 24 hours and blocked mountain highways.

The heavy downpour, which started Saturday, reached a climax yesterday when lightning heralded a 10-minute downpour of hail and snow that whitened streets and housetops.

The weather bureau said the snow was not the real thing, just "snow pellets"; but it looked like the real thing to old timers who had to explain what "that white stuff" was to children.

Scattered parts of the city were blocked out by power failures which went unrepaired because of the current strike of department of water and power employees. However, maintenance workers kept lines open to war plants.

Jim Reed Raps FDR and Willkie

Portland, Feb. 21 (U.P.)—Wendell Willkie is only a "pale copy" of President Roosevelt, says James A. Reed, Missouri's 82-year-old veteran democrat and ex-senator.

"Nine-tenths of the people I meet regard Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Willkie as men representing the same ideas of internationalism and doctrines which are fundamentally socialist," Reed said in an interview.

He said re-election of Roosevelt would be a "calamity," and predicted the republicans could elect a man of "old Jeffersonian ideals who opposes all forms of communism and socialism."

The order recites that all of the property owners along the road have petitioned for its vacation. A remonstrance was filed and heard but the court holds that it would be fit to handle traffic would require expenditure of large sums of money over a period of years which would not be justified. The road is now unimproved and said to be very little used, and that only by a few people locally.

Port of Portland Almost Idle

Portland, Ore., Feb. 21 (U.P.)—Ernest Baker, secretary of the Portland Longshoremen's union, said today that at least 50 percent of longshore manpower at Portland docks was being wasted because of a shortage of ship traffic.

"While other war industries are crying for manpower and other Pacific coast ports are overtaxed," he asserted, "the port of Portland is almost idle." He requested Portlanders to write to the U. S. Maritime commission, the war shipping administration and the office of defense transportation in regard to the situation.

Chaplin Hearing Set for Friday

Hollywood, Feb. 21 (U.P.)—Federal Judge J. F. T. O'Connor today gave Charlie Chaplin until Friday at 2 p.m., to appear for arraignment on charges of violating the Mann act.

The judge postponed until March 9 at 10 a.m., the arraignment of the multi-millionaire comedian and six others on charges of conspiring to deprive the 23-year-old Joan Barry, of her civil liberties.

Attorneys for all the defendants except Police Matron Jessie Billie Reno of Beverly Hills—who acted as her own lawyer and told the judge she was guilty of no crimes—asked for the postponement because of what they said were the intricate legal problems involved.

McMinnville Flier on Skull and Crossbones Squad

Advanced South Pacific Air Base, Feb. 21 (U.P.)—They've never lost a bomber to an enemy plane and they once shot down 60 Zeros in five days. That gives you an idea how hot is the navy skull and crossbones squadron which is now among the many in the south Pacific working on Rabaul.

In a matter of weeks it has vaulted to a place among the famous squadrons of this hottest of air fighting battlefields in the Pacific—the Black Sheep, Flying Deuces, Sunsetters and Fighting Corsairs. The squadron of Japanese killers who fly hard-hitting Corsairs is led by 32-year-old Lt. Comdr. J. T. Blackburn of Chevy Chase, Md. The boys sometimes call themselves "Blackburn's Irregulars."

Liberty Ships Reinforced

Portland, Ore., Feb. 21 (U.P.)—Liberty ships—long the source of controversy concerning the safety of all-welded ships—are now being reinforced with rivets at Portland repair yards, the U. S. Maritime commission disclosed today.

Several of the ships have already docked and are being strengthened by the insertion of heavy steel angles in joints between the main decks and the top outer hull plates. Deck and hull plates will be riveted to these angles. Mariners have described the all-welded ships as "stiff" and it is believed that this stiffness may be minimized by the use of rivets at certain joints. Liberty ships have been known to "crack" on high seas and in extremely cold waters.

Major Oscar I. Chenoweth, Sr., father of the flier, formerly was mayor of McMinnville and captain of the national guard company there before the war. He now is on duty with the army.

New Nurses' Class To Start March 7

To help meet the need for additional nursing service in local hospitals a new nurses' aide class is scheduled to start March 7, in the classroom at Salem Deaconess hospital, according to Mrs. Breyman Boise, chairman of the committee for that phase of Red Cross volunteer service in Marion county.

Already registered for this class is a group of young women from Willamette university, but Mrs. Boise is asking for a few more recruits from the women of Salem in order to bring the class up to its efficiency quota, which should number about 20.

Instruction in nurses' aide training is given by Mrs. Louise Arneson, Red Cross director of nursing service for Marion county. Mrs. Arneson pointed out that the nursing service in the local hospital is at a very low ebb, due to the enlistment of many of the graduate nurses for army and navy duty, and that the only relief for the situation is through training more and more nurses' aides. Marion county has not yet filled its quota in the nurses' aide corps.

Pending installation of the new power gear, the barges will be laid up, as experience has shown they are difficult to manage at sea with the present steering equipment, the commission reported.
