

Air Wacs Given Fascinating Jobs—Speaking of interesting and useful jobs available to women right now, here is one of the most fascinating: a member of the Women's Army Corps serving with the army air forces in the war room of an army air field in southern California. Her job is to keep tabs of the war in all theaters of operations. She receives immediate and authentic information on the progress of the invasion of Fortress Europe via France, Italy, and Russia; the progress made in the south Pacific; and in Asia. Indicating allied advances on huge military maps is fascinating work. "Such jobs are available to Salem women," said Lt. Edith DiRe of the U. S. Army Recruiting Station in the Post Office Bldg.

Slash Fires Under Control

Dallas—Slashing fires started by lightning late Tuesday in the western and northern parts of the county were completely under control by Wednesday night, according to R. C. Howell, district fire warden.

Largest blaze reported was in the Willamette Valley Lumber company holdings in section 33, where five acres of logged off land were burned over. The fire was brought under control by a crew of 25 men from the patrol office and about 22 employees of the lumber company. Reports received at the patrol office that the Gold Creek schoolhouse had burned proved erroneous. A snag set on fire near the school accounted for the rumor. The building was not damaged.

Districts where smaller fires occurred included Rickreall ridge, Rowell creek beyond the Buell district, Gold creek, Grand Ronde, Cedar creek and Doran's Peak. Crews of two to six men were dispatched to the areas.

Logging operations closed Monday and Tuesday afternoons when the humidity dropped to the minimum, resumed steady schedules Wednesday.

Polk County Property Sales Reported Slow

Dallas—There have been few sales of county property which was secured through foreclosure proceedings started in 1942, according to Sheriff T. B. Hooker. Sales include one lot in the Ellis addition in Dallas, block 11 in Ballston and one-half acre tract north of Ballston.

Ten tracts of land, ranging in value from $30 to $6,000, were listed for this year's sale, the smallest undertaken since the new tax foreclosure system was established by the state legislature about six years ago.

Uniform Law Being Sought

Lebanon—Punchboards, pin ball and slot machines came in for their share of consideration at the city council meeting Tuesday night when a proposed ordinance prepared by City Attorney Frank Mayer was read and discussed.

Tentative taxes to be levied against these items were suggested but no formal action was taken until the ordinance could be presented to the city councils of Albany and Sweet Home, with the idea being to have any such law in complete conformity in the three towns.

The question as to whether volunteer firemen were authorized to install red blinker lights on the front of their cars to aid in clearing traffic to fires was introduced. The matter had been brought up at the last fire meeting, but a check of the state law revealed that no car other than that designated as an emergency vehicle could have a red light, unless so designated by the governor and his board.

Further discussion centered around the right of the fire chief and the paid fireman to make periodic fire inspections in public or business buildings. State law, it was found, delegates that power to the fire chief, who is a deputy of the state fire marshal. A motion was passed to have the city recorder contact the state fire marshal's office to obtain clarification on the matter.

The volunteer fire department's election of Vern Reeves to the position of assistant fire chief was confirmed.

It was announced that R. H. Correy, Portland consulting engineer, would prepare plans and specifications for two pumps which the council intends to have installed at the sewer outlet to assist in the sewer drainage during high water.

Bean Pickers Are in Demand

Silverton—That 350 bean pickers are needed by the first of the coming week was announced Thursday by Percy Palfreyman, manager of the Royal Canning company.

Registrations for this work will be received at the cannery or with Mrs. Wendell Heath, farm labor agent for the Silverton community at her 706 North Water street home, or by phone.

Some of the nearby acreages are yielding the first picking Friday and Saturday of this week, which will be comparatively light compared to the heavier yields expected by the middle of the coming week.

Cannery workers are urged to make registrations at the cannery at their earliest opportunity.

The equipment and buildings of the cannery are a pleasure to the Silverton public, with several weeks' time being given to installation of up-to-date machinery, remodeling of the rooms, floors and tables in view of sanitation, and drainage in every department, and devices for protection of the worker personally and as a health measure. Lucille Verbeck is doing clerical work at the cannery office.

The Palfreymans are from Ogden, Utah, and have bought home property in South Third street, where they are residing.

The having, berry and cherry season is nearing a close in Silverton fields, releasing a number of seasonal workers under direction of Mrs. Heath for the bean harvest. Growers desiring more pickers may contact Mrs. Heath, who is at the Silverton post to assist those needing either regular or emergency help.

Mill City Firemen Are Kept on Move

Mill City—The Mill City fire department has been called out three times in the last few days. Sunday, fire broke out in the washroom located on the east end of Louis Rada's cabins, but was quickly extinguished, and reports were that very little damage was done. The Radas were out of town Sunday.

Tuesday afternoon about 5 o'clock, a grass fire, the cause being undetermined, started on the hillside below the Sig Jepsen home, spreading toward their fence and burning a few feet inside before it could be put out.

The second fire Tuesday, also a grass fire, started near the Mill City Manufacturing company consumer and spread far enough to partially burn the old flume formerly used by the Hammond Lumber company quite a number of years ago.
