

Tax Pay Rush On in Dallas

Dallas—The rush of taxpayers to make payments on real and personal property at the office of Sheriff T. B. Hooker, is in full swing this week, following the mailing out late last week of a total of 14,230 tax notices by office deputies. A total of $28,703.78 for which 779 receipts had been written, collected by Thursday night, exactly seven days after the mailing of the first notices, sets a record for the time involved, according to Hooker. During the same period last year when collections broke previous records, $13,937.40 had been collected at the end of the seventh day, with 502 receipts given. Tabulations for Wednesday showed $10,886.73, for Thursday $10,734.49 collected.

Taxpayers who pay their taxes before November 15 will receive rebates—three percent if paid in full, two percent if three-fourths is paid and one percent if one-half is paid. One-fourth of the year's tax may be paid before the deadline for rebate and succeeding payments made every three months, without interest charge. Taxes will become delinquent August 16, 1945.

Stop Signals Safety Need

Lebanon—Whether or not a stop sign on Grant street on the west side of the railroad track would be beneficial in eliminating accidents was one of the principal topics of discussion at the city council meeting.

The stop sign at both this point and signs on either side of the track on Oak street had been recommended by the public utilities commission following a recent survey here. The survey is part of a statewide measure to attempt to prevent railroad crossing accidents.

David Don and C. E. Jaqua of the PUC of Salem explained their former written recommendation that the city council pass an ordinance permitting the railroad to erect a stop sign at these points.

Another matter of importance was a request by property holders east of the Canal at Isabella street that assistance be given in the construction of a bridge. They contended that when the city recently permitted car bodies to be dumped into ditches on property owned by the paper mill, leased to the city for that purpose, flood waters were diverted to make their outlet road impossible in cases of floods.

In response to a request for a street light at Fourth and D streets, an investigation was made and it was found that except for A street, which was well lighted, there were practically no lights on B, C and D. It was recommended that a survey be made and that lights be installed wherever needed in this district as soon as material could be secured.
