Legislative Night Interesting Event

Legislative night was featured at the regular meeting of American Legion auxiliary Monday evening. Mrs. Albert C. Gragg, for the legislative committee, Mrs. George Gabriel for war activities, and Mrs. E. A. Lee, for war defense, made arrangements for the evening's program. Legislators' wives were honored as special guests.

Rep. Paul Hendricks of Marion county discussed proposed state and national legislation on universal military training. With quotations on the subject from outstanding military and government officials, he particularly stressed an article by Harry Hopkins, appearing in a current issue of the American Magazine. He cited the brevity of military training given many of our men in the armed forces who are sent to major fields of operations to do battle against enemy soldiers, trained from childhood. Much could be accomplished by instruction in high schools where our youth now attend to eliminate these unnecessary hazards. Mr. Hendricks stated.

Mrs. I. N. Bacon spoke briefly in regard to the matter, using the American mother's viewpoint. She called for united study of the matter, so critical opinions may help to develop the best possible program which would build a better and stronger America.

Mrs. Paul Fieck reported that Americanism work is in full swing with essays on Thomas Jefferson coming in and flag code tests given throughout the county, both in city and rural schools during the day. Mrs. James A. Garson made favorable comment on the poppy poster work in school art classes. Several additional prizes are being offered this year as an added incentive. Mrs. E. A. Lee made a report of stamp and bond sales at the Penny booth. Through the courtesy of Miller's department store, a splendid patriotic display appears currently in one of their windows.

Mrs. Clifton Mudd presented a poem, "Reason for Life," and Mrs. John Wagner contributed two lovely vocal selections, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. A. W. Lovick.

Mrs. Don Madison, unit president, and Mrs. Howard Belton, wife of the senate president, shared honors in pouring. Tall white tapers in crystal candelabras on a beautiful fine linen lace-inserted cloth adorned the table.

Names on the guest list include, beside Mrs. Belton, Mrs. Marie E. Wilcox, American Legion auxiliary president from Grants Pass; Mrs. Riddle Lage, Hood River; Mrs. Vernon Bull, La Grande; Mrs. Frank J. Van Dyke, Ashland; Mrs. C. L. Leavelle, Pendleton; Mrs. John R. Snellgrove, Eugene; Mrs. O. H. Bengtson, Medford; Mrs. Ned H. Callaway, Brownsville; Mrs. V. B.
