THE SALEM Community Concert series came to a brilliant conclusion last night when Marina Svetlova, prima ballerina of the Metropolitan Opera association, assisted by Alexis Dolinoff and Adriana Otero, appeared on the stage of the Salem high school auditorium. It was a breath-taking performance throughout with delicate and thorough-going technique of the ballet combined with intelligent and original interpretations.

Svetlova is incomparable. Lovely as a piece of Dresden she charmed her audience from the outset. The magnificent dancing of Alexis Dolinoff, leading male dancer of the Metropolitan Opera, who was Svetlova's partner, added to the magnificence of the performance.

The dancers ran the gamut of ballet technique and pantomime. No matter whether it was in the mood of a couple of American baseball fans at a game or the more dignified and beautifully executed Viennese waltzes, Svetlova and Dolinoff proved themselves to be extraordinarily adept. In more sombre tone was their "Moods from Thais."

Svetlova's "Gay Nineties" number will not soon be forgotten for its superb interpretation. "The Dance of the Elf" found Svetlova capable of the pixie mood.

Dolinoff is a true artist in his field and his "Variation Brillante" was danced with deep feeling and superior technique.

Adriana Otero is a brilliant young Spanish dancer who displayed an unusual ability and by her performance guarantees a splendid future. Vivacious and gay, she was particularly fetching in an Andalusian dance, a Spanish dance to the melody of Luceona and a 19th century number.

The pianist, Theodor Haig, received plaudits for his accompanying the dancers and as soloist in two groups of numbers.

... with Shurset!

THE new "Shurset" mountings bring extra security to rimless glasses by suspending lenses at two points from a rigid top arm. "Shurset" mountings have the strength of a "frame," yet keep the inconspicuous appearance of rimless glasses. This may be the time to have your eyes re-examined and fitted with "Shurset"—the last word in ripless style.

'Holly' Jackson Says —

This is April, the birthstone is diamond. Does "She" have a birthday this month? If the answer is yes, brother we want to see you.

If the first "yes" was worth a diamond so is this one.

No it's not out of your world; you may select a nice stone of any size to fit your financial ability and then select just the mounting you think she'll like and we will assemble them to make a really beautiful ring for "her" anniversary.
