These Are Hollywood's "Dream Girls" (AP)—Using the findings of psychoanalysts who were engaged to determine the kind of girls men actually dream about, a movie studio picked these eight lovelies as representing an accurate cross-section and, in case you hadn't guessed, gave them roles in the same movie, "The Time, the Place, and the Girl." Left to right: Virginia Cruzon, Phyllis Forbes, Tyra Vaughn, Diane Mumby, Eve Whitney, Pat Farrell, Gloria Anderson, and Ruth Valmy.

Open Safety Campaign

Police Chief Frank A. Minto today announced that a seasonal enforcement program will be in effect over the Fourth of July holiday season. The program, he said, is in cooperation with the national-wide effort being made by the National Safety Council to reduce the staggering death toll which occurs annually at this time.

"The police department is asking every citizen to take special care to save lives and property," Chief Minto said. "This is no time for anyone to be wasting lives, property and time through needless accidents. Common sense, courtesy and care in driving will help reduce this toll."

Chief Minto predicted that with more gasoline and the V-E feeling that "it won't be long now," the holiday traffic will be heavy.

"One of the best ways to help our boys of Salem who are out there fighting for complete and final victory over Japan," he said, "is to stop accidents that waste manpower here on the home front. Every accident is a boost for the Japs and an attack on our fighting men."

Chief Minto emphasized that violators of wartime traffic driving restrictions not only are flirting with death but are exposing irreplaceable cars to destruction.

The first case of Rocky Mountain spotted fever to be reported from west of the Cascades was reported in the weekly bulletin issued by the state department of health. The case was reported from Eugene. The communicable disease report for the week ending June 15 insofar as it pertained to Marion county included eight cases of mumps, five tuberculosis, two each of erysipelas, measles and whooping cough and one each of chickenpox and pneumonia.

Director of Highways Dies

Olympia, Wash., June 21 (AP)—Clarence Hickey, 56-year-old Washington state director of highways and brother-in-law of Gov. Mon Wallgren, died at his home here last night following a heart attack.

Wallgren learned of the death when he returned to the executive mansion following a tour of the Olympic peninsula with President Truman.

Hickey became director of highways following Wallgren's inauguration in January. Previously he had served as Snohomish county engineer for ten years.

The family reported that Hickey, who had attended a reception for the president earlier in the day, arrived home from the state house at 5:30 p.m. and was stricken 30 minutes later.

Hickey was born near Green River, Colo., and moved to Washington state as a boy. He had been an engineer since 1913.

Funeral services were expected to be held in Everett.

Retirement Act Explained

Major provisions of the public employees' retirement and merit rating acts which go into effect July 1 were pointed out to the Rotary club Wednesday noon by Forrest Stewart, executive secretary of the state employees' association. Many of these employees are partially permanent and have been in state service from 10 to 35 years and would gladly have retired at 65 years instead of being kept on the payroll as a literal pensioner, he said. A sound retirement plan will enable these to retire gracefully and open the way for returned veterans. County and municipal employees as well as teachers may come under provisions of the act if the counties so elect, Stewart said.

Employees will contribute a percentage of their salaries to be matched by the state, being retired at 65 years on approximately 50 per cent of their average salary for the last five years. Provision is also made for those who have been on the payroll for many years prior to this time who may retire after 1947. Certain disability allowances are also granted. The merit rating act will not become operative until after one year following the close of the war, Stewart said.

Ike Given Wild Welcome Upon Return to Native State

Kansas City, June 21 (AP)—General of the Army Dwight D. Eisenhower and 53 members of his official party returning from Europe came home today to his native middle west to receive a tumultuous two-state homecoming celebration and greet his 83-year-old mother, Mrs. Ida E. Eisenhower, of Abilene, Kansas, and four brothers.

General "Ike" in his gigantic five-star plane "The Sunflower" stepped forth first and was given a tremendous ovation as he saluted the military band that greeted him. General Eisenhower then rushed to his mother and gave her a big kiss, shook hands with Governor Phil M. Donnelly of Missouri

Bankers Elect New Officers

At their dinner meeting Tuesday night members of the Marion-Polk county Bankers association discussed banking problems connected with the returning veterans and other pre-war period problems confronting banks. The GI bill of rights and loans were discussed by a group of bankers from Portland led by Ralph Tom of the Bank of California.

Ira Mix, president of the First National Bank of Independence, and president of the Marion-Polk association, presided at the meeting at which new officers for the coming year were elected. The new officers are: President, Claire Powell of the First National Bank of Monmouth; vice president, Glenn Briedwell, of the Coolidge-McClain bank in Silverton; and secretary, Rex Gibson, of the Ladd and Bush branch of the U. S. National Bank of Portland.

Among the visitors present at the meeting were Mitchell Tilton, president of the Oregon Bankers Association and manager of the Klamath Falls branch of the First National Bank of Portland; Lynn McCready, vice president of the Oregon Bankers Association and vice president of the First National Bank of Eugene; and Elwayne Greenwood of Portland, who is secretary of the Oregon Bankers Association.

Other visiting bankers were from Albany, Corvallis, Portland, Seattle and San Francisco.

The Chemeketas found the so-called "phantom bridge" on the French Creek ridge this side of Detroit last fall. The trip was such a satisfactory one, a second expedition is to be made Sunday under the leadership of Dr. George Lewis. As far as is known this is the only natural bridge on the Pacific coast. Anyone interested in an eight mile hike in the beautiful country and good sight of the bridge is welcome to join the Chemeketas. Additional details may be found at the Chemeketan register located in the entrance to Ramseyer's garage, 250 North High street.
