A proposed amendment to be substituted for section 1 (D) in the Columbia valley authority bill before congress would restrict activities of such an authority only in the appropriation and use of water for irrigation purposes, Attorney General George Neuner today advised Charles E. Stricklin, state engineer. The proposed amendment would provide that there could be no interference with state laws relating to the control, appropriation, use or distribution of water used in irrigation.

Included in the work to be done, if the county crew can find time, are the building of good crossings over the SP railroad on C and D streets, probably about 400 or 500 feet of road. He says these crossings have been heavily graveled but for years it has been impossible to keep them in good condition. He also would like a similar job on J street, the old Pudding river road leading past the school.

Mott Says New Deal Policies Being Continued by Truman

When asked today whether there is a definite trend back to sane democracy in Washington, Congressman James W. Mott said there had been hopes of that during the first few weeks after and make regulations outside statutory law. You can hardly find an OPA regulation that is based on law. That's what the republicans have been trying to stop for the last two years, but Truman has indicated definitely he wants no changes in the OPA. The new deal majority is still very substantial in both houses, and just now it's worse in the senate than in the house.

As an illustration of the situation Mr. Mott mentions the surplus commodities bill. "I introduced an amendment to the bill," he said, "providing that the consent of congress be required for the disposition of any major naval property. From up above orders came to kill the amendment. Then I introduced a bill to the same effect which was considered, and a committee bill substituted. Pressure is being exerted on the president by new deal agencies to veto the bill if it passes. For that reason a conference report on the bill will not be made until congress reconvenes."

Congressman Mott returned to Salem late Friday afternoon. Congress will be in recess until October 1 unless the members are called back by some war emergency. He will take a vacation of two weeks before opening his Salem office.

Linen Shy for Soldiers' Cots

While the YMCA and St. Joseph's hall have 255 cots for use of servicemen who expect to visit Salem over the week-end from Camp Adair and at other times, so far efforts to secure full equipment has not been successful. A sufficient number of blankets have been received, but unless pillows, slips and towels are made available in larger quantities, some of the cots will not be completely equipped.

The YMCA has been trying through its central purchasing agency to secure additional linen for its dormitory rooms ever since last January, but so far has not been able to add to its diminishing supply. Last week when it was learned that several hundred servicemen would be in Salem on leave, those in charge of providing dormitory facilities tried every possible source to secure equipment but in no instance could it be found.

Wednesday night of this week the beds were made ready for occupancy but the men all returned to Camp Adair without taking advantage of the local facilities. The men are charged 50 cents a night for use of the cots.

AFL Strike At Springfield

Springfield, Ore., July 21, (AP)—The CIO-represented Springfield Plywood corporation, with more than nine million board feet of war orders on the books, was shut down here yesterday by a strike of AFL workers.

AFL employees on the night shift started cleaning their machines and 75 of the 90 walked out last night, but operation did not stop until yesterday morning when the AFL men dominated the 140-man day shift, leaving a gap in regular production lines.

The corporation wired the national war labor board as follows: "Be advised that the Springfield plywood corporation will comply to the fullest extent of its ability to maintain production of this vitally needed war material." The CIO representatives sent the NWLB virtually the same pledge.

Although the AFL placed picket lines at the plant, the union men did not prevent other workers from entering the plant. Officials hoped that other plywood workers could be secured to resume operations as soon as possible, but needed a total of 140 men to operate the regular shift. The AFL men number approximately 175, and these men attended a meeting today and ordered their firemen, who remained on the job, to walk off. This leaves the corporation without adequate fire protection. The total number of employees is 300.

Fewer Fatal Traffic Accidents in June

There were fewer fatal traffic accidents in Oregon during June than in any month since statistics have been recorded, the safety division of the state department reported today.

Twelve persons were killed in the state during the month. In June of 1944, 20 persons were killed. Largest number ever killed by accidents during the month of June was in 1940, when 36 persons died.

Council to Act On Wage Raise

While all city salaries and wages, increased for the fiscal year beginning July 1, will be covered in the ordinance special meeting of tonight's special meeting of the city council, all are definitely established in the city budget ordinance already enacted with the exception of wages for street department employees. The budget covers these in a lump appropriation which also was increased proportionately.

It is a rule of the council to enact a salary ordinance separately from the budget, with street department wages broken down into an hourly scale. The new range is from 90 cents to $1.20.

City Engineer J. H. Davis' argument for hastening enactment of the salary and wages bill is that because of scarcity of labor he is unable to get help through the employment office unless he can show the fully approved hourly wage scale in black and white. An effort to put the bill through three readings and on final passage last Monday night was blocked when the unanimous vote necessary for third reading failed. It was out of consideration for the engineering department that the special meeting tonight was called.

It will be the fourth action on the city's payroll. The first was at the first adoption of the budget, which made salary increases; the second meeting added $19,000 to the increases; the third gave increases to several officials who had not got in on the $19,000 jump, and tonight's meeting is to meet the hourly wage situation.

De Mille States Union Stand

Portland, Ore., July 21 (AP)—Cecil B. DeMille, dean of motion picture producers stopping here briefly, said his brief dispute with the American Federation of Radio Artists did not involve unionism.

"It is an issue between all liberty-loving citizens," he declared, "and a few unscrupulous men who are trying to gather into their own hands... the power of the people... just as in Germany and Italy."

De Mille's case against the union, which suspended him for refusing to pay a $1 assessment, now is on appeal to the California supreme court. He said the fees were to finance a campaign opposing a measure on the California ballot.

Although the proposal would have changed the state constitution, he said, the court held it was not political because it opposed the closed shop.

"I believe in unions," he insisted, "but I'd give my last drop of blood to fight the dictates of a few men who believe they can control the political rights of American citizens."

Military Police Force Increased

As necessity demands the military police force operating in the district comprising Salem, Albany and Corvallis will be increased, Sgt. Leon Bowles, non-commissioned officer in charge, said today.

At present nine military policemen, including Sgt. Bowles, are stationed in Salem, living at two local hotels and having headquarters at the city police station. Ultimately the Salem force will be increased to about 20 men.

Three men are now stationed at Albany and three at Corvallis. This number will be increased to eight or 10 at each place, Sgt. Bowles said.

Establishment of the military police force in the area was necessitated by the reactivation of Camp Adair.

USO Officials Confer with Legion on Lease of Building

In Salem today to confer with American Legion representatives on the possible leasing of their building for continued use by the USO were Mrs. Clara W. Alcroft, associate regional USO executive from Seattle, and Lawrence Johnson, associate regional USO executive from the San Francisco office.

The two, coming direct from the regional USO conference held this week in San Francisco, this morning met with Brazier Small, Legion representative, and Tinkham Gilbert, chairman of the Salem USO council. The regular USO National USO lease form had previously been left with Small by Mrs. Alcroft when she stopped here July 13 to meet with American Legion representatives, a army personnel and Chamber of Commerce and local USO council representatives.

Tentative arrangements were today made for the drawing-up of the lease, which Small is to have completed next week for Johnson, who will stop here en route to San Francisco. Johnson will take the lease to the regional headquarters in the bay city and from there it will be forwarded to New York for final approval by the national office.

Though the lease will include clauses not incorporated in the contract entered into by the Federal Security Agency and the Legion, when the building was first occupied on a full-time basis by the USO with the FSA paying $200 monthly rent supplemented by $40 from the USO, it is expected to be approved by the New York office of the USO because of the urgent need of a USO building in this city to provide facilities for service people stationed in this area and visiting here.

In the present lease the Legion will ask for the full use of the building on Monday nights, with it closed to people in uniform from 6 p. m. on, though the USO has asked that it be permitted to have an information desk in the hall to direct service people to other places for that evening. The Legion has also asked that a clause be inserted, giving them permission to purchase certain heavy equipment belonging to the USO, when the Salem center is permanently closed.

Regardless of the fact that the lease has not yet been signed and approved the Salem center will continue to operate on a full time basis and Robert R. Boardman, who has been authorized as director of this center by the YMCA, the operating agency, will arrive here next week to take over his duties. Until that time Mrs. Clarence Byrd, director of the center since it has been on a part-time basis, will remain at the center in that capacity and will be assisted in her duties by volunteer workers.

Before leaving for Seattle Mrs. Alcroft and Mrs. Johnson visited the USO center, conferring with Mrs. Byrd on the facilities offered the service people visiting there.

Establishment of a new electrical contracting firm, the City Electric, is being announced by its owners, Fred M. Snider and Henry Benz, with offices at 484 N. Church street.

Benz, who lives on Turner road at Four Corners, has been employed by electrical contractors for many years, and recently has served as foreman for electrical installations in several of Salem's largest public buildings.

His associate, Fred Snider, 1999 W. Nob Hill, came to Salem four years ago as district field supervisor for the Bonneville power administration. Earlier he was with the army engineers for six years handling permanent electrical installation work at the Bonneville dam.
