

Americans Told To Keep Faith

Seattle, Aug. 21 (P)—A plea to the American people to "keep faith" with loyal Japanese-American soldiers who fought on the battlefields of Italy and France was voiced Monday by Capt. Thomas E. Crowley, commander of a company of Nisei soldiers which became one of the most decorated units in the history of the United States army.

"Their heroism became a habit," said Captain Crowley of the men of his 442nd battalion, "but they are quite disheartened because their families are sometimes not received well at home."

"The thought they were fighting for the principles of equality and justice at home as well as abroad," he said. "I did not see any difference in the color of the blood of those Japanese-American soldiers and other soldiers as it flowed and mixed on the battlefields. And the blood flowed, too, because out of a combat team of 5000, there were 3000 casualties.

"Their hardest fight of the entire war," he continued, "came in France. They rescued the lost Texas battalion in the Vosges mountains. The 141st infantry was completely cut off and surrounded, and the Nisei men were assigned to get them out.

"They did get them out. They fought magnificently. And when the figures were added up, there were three casualties among these Japanese-American boys for every soldier rescued.

"I want everyone to know that the Japanese-Americans formed the finest combat unit in the army," he declared. "I hope the American people will keep faith with them."

Captain Crowley came to Seattle yesterday from his home in Madison, Wis., where he arrived in July from overseas duty.

Birthdays Celebrated

Brooks—A group of friends and relatives assembled for a party Saturday night, the joint birthdays of Miss Stella Casper, Joe Rentz, and Capt. Ken Howe of the Army Air force, at the Rentz home.

Games and dancing were enjoyed by all, accompanied by music on the accordions by Mr. and Mrs. Walt Brutka and Mrs. Ken Howe.

August Showings of Furs at SCHLESINGER & CO.

How MEAT

helps restore our convalescent fighters

Meat for a Man for a Week

Here is a typical week's supply of meat served to patients of the Convalescent Hospital of the Army Air Forces at San Antonio—one of 12 such hospitals in the United States. Meat is served three times a day. The week's assortment shown above includes fresh pork, beef, lamb, ham, bacon, liver, frankfurters and cold cuts.

While receiving heat therapy, Pfc. Delbert Scott, Dover, Delaware, moos in on a lunch built around country fried steak and gravy. A protein-rich diet (which calls for a lot of meat) helps speed recovery from injuries.

Our men in convalescent hospitals are being rebuilt to health with a speed never known before. An excellent example of this is the far-sighted program of the Personnel Distribution Command of the Army Air Forces headed by Major General Ralph Royce.

One way the recovery of these men is hastened is by feeding them generous quantities of meat containing the protein substances (amino acids) to make up for the protein they have lost.

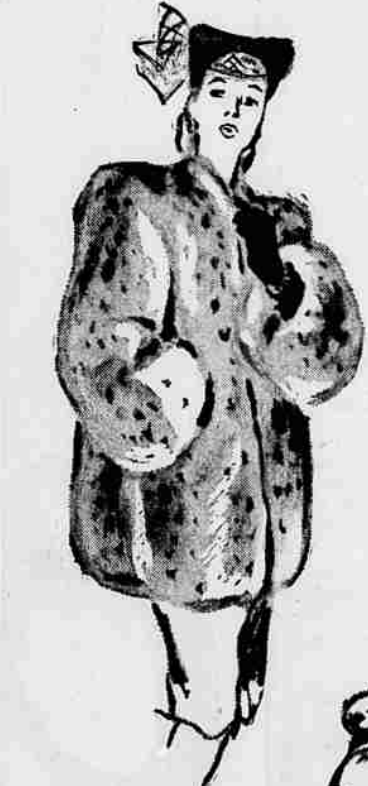

When the body loses protein excessively (as in wounds, severe burns and infections) or when the diet does not provide enough protein (as with starved prisoners) the body literally "eats itself."

Meat proteins contain all ten of the essential amino acids needed to maintain and rebuild the body.

This emphasizes anew the rightness of our age-old liking for meat.

This Seal means that all nutritional statements made in this advertisement are acceptable to the Council on Foods and Nutrition of the American Medical Association.

AMERICAN MEAT INSTITUTE
Headquarters: Chicago • Members throughout the U. S.

A small deposit reserves your coat

NOTICE

Schlesinger & Co. furs is not a leased department, but is Salem-owned by Schlesinger & Co.

We proudly present the greatest fur coat values in the State of Oregon. For years Schlesinger & Co. has been the leader in Fur Fashions in Salem and this year more than ever we are in a position to offer you the finest furs obtainable at unsurpassed values. Our April purchases in the New York market will save you many, many dollars.

Signed,
S. Schlesinger.

Use Our Convenient Budget Plan

EXCLUSIVE APPAREL
Schlesinger & Co.
409-15 Court Street

LONGER ENGINE LIFE WITH WARDS VITALIZED OIL