

Radio Programs, Tuesday, P.M.
KSLM	KGW	KEX	KOIN	WDSB
5:00—News	OK for Release	Terry & Pines	Rocky Manning	5:00—News
5:15—Superman	Commentary	Dick Tracy	Rocky Manning	5:15—Superman
5:30—Cap. Midnite	Dark With Judy	Jack Armstrong	Rocky Manning	5:30—Cap. Midnite
5:45—Tom Mix	Dark With Judy	R. Gram Swing	Rocky Manning	5:45—Tom Mix
6:00—Gibson	Amos & Andy	Orchestra	Inner Sanctum	6:00—Gibson
6:15—Orchestra	Amos & Andy	Orchestra	Inner Sanctum	6:15—Orchestra
6:30—Forum	Amos & Andy	Orchestra	Inner Sanctum	6:30—Forum
6:45—Forum	Amos & Andy	Orchestra	Inner Sanctum	6:45—Forum
7:00—Forum	Amos & Andy	Orchestra	Inner Sanctum	7:00—Forum
7:15—Forum	Amos & Andy	Orchestra	Inner Sanctum	7:15—Forum
7:30—Forum	Amos & Andy	Orchestra	Inner Sanctum	7:30—Forum
7:45—Forum	Amos & Andy	Orchestra	Inner Sanctum	7:45—Forum
8:00—Forum	Amos & Andy	Orchestra	Inner Sanctum	8:00—Forum
8:15—Forum	Amos & Andy	Orchestra	Inner Sanctum	8:15—Forum
8:30—Forum	Amos & Andy	Orchestra	Inner Sanctum	8:30—Forum
8:45—Forum	Amos & Andy	Orchestra	Inner Sanctum	8:45—Forum
9:00—Forum	Amos & Andy	Orchestra	Inner Sanctum	9:00—Forum
9:15—Forum	Amos & Andy	Orchestra	Inner Sanctum	9:15—Forum
9:30—Forum	Amos & Andy	Orchestra	Inner Sanctum	9:30—Forum
9:45—Forum	Amos & Andy	Orchestra	Inner Sanctum	9:45—Forum
10:00—Forum	Amos & Andy	Orchestra	Inner Sanctum	10:00—Forum
10:15—Forum	Amos & Andy	Orchestra	Inner Sanctum	10:15—Forum
10:30—Forum	Amos & Andy	Orchestra	Inner Sanctum	10:30—Forum
10:45—Forum	Amos & Andy	Orchestra	Inner Sanctum	10:45—Forum
11:00—Forum	Amos & Andy	Orchestra	Inner Sanctum	11:00—Forum
11:15—Forum	Amos & Andy	Orchestra	Inner Sanctum	11:15—Forum
11:30—Forum	Amos & Andy	Orchestra	Inner Sanctum	11:30—Forum
11:45—Forum	Amos & Andy	Orchestra	Inner Sanctum	11:45—Forum
12:00—Forum	Amos & Andy	Orchestra	Inner Sanctum	12:00—Forum

Wednesday, 6 A. M. to 4:45 P. M.
KSLM	KGW	KEX	KOIN	WDSB
6:00—News	Ed East & Polly	Bugler X	News	6:00—News
6:15—Musical Time	Ed East & Polly	Bugler X	News	6:15—Musical Time
6:30—N.W. Farm	Ed East & Polly	Bugler X	News	6:30—N.W. Farm
6:45—News	Ed East & Polly	Bugler X	News	6:45—News
7:00—News	Ed East & Polly	Bugler X	News	7:00—News
7:15—News	Ed East & Polly	Bugler X	News	7:15—News
7:30—News	Ed East & Polly	Bugler X	News	7:30—News
7:45—News	Ed East & Polly	Bugler X	News	7:45—News
8:00—News	Ed East & Polly	Bugler X	News	8:00—News
8:15—News	Ed East & Polly	Bugler X	News	8:15—News
8:30—News	Ed East & Polly	Bugler X	News	8:30—News
8:45—News	Ed East & Polly	Bugler X	News	8:45—News
9:00—News	Ed East & Polly	Bugler X	News	9:00—News
9:15—News	Ed East & Polly	Bugler X	News	9:15—News
9:30—News	Ed East & Polly	Bugler X	News	9:30—News
9:45—News	Ed East & Polly	Bugler X	News	9:45—News
10:00—News	Ed East & Polly	Bugler X	News	10:00—News
10:15—News	Ed East & Polly	Bugler X	News	10:15—News
10:30—News	Ed East & Polly	Bugler X	News	10:30—News
10:45—News	Ed East & Polly	Bugler X	News	10:45—News
11:00—News	Ed East & Polly	Bugler X	News	11:00—News
11:15—News	Ed East & Polly	Bugler X	News	11:15—News
11:30—News	Ed East & Polly	Bugler X	News	11:30—News
11:45—News	Ed East & Polly	Bugler X	News	11:45—News
12:00—News	Ed East & Polly	Bugler X	News	12:00—News

Adorable Rag Doll—Here's a mighty cute rag doll that even the littlest girl can handle. The cute clothes also come in the pattern. Fun to make, and a gift that's likely to prove her "best beloved."

No. 2507 is cut in one size, requiring only 1/4 yd. 35-in. for doll; 1/2 yd. 35-in. for hat, jumper and panties.

Send 16c per pattern, which includes complete sewing guide. Print your Name, Address and Style Number plainly. Be sure to state size you wish. Address Pattern Department, Capital Journal, 552 Mission St., San Francisco 5, California.

Beyond Tomorrow

By Helen R. Woodward

Chapter 13

"Hello, Anne!" Catherine Lowell cried, extending a white hand heavy with rings. "John has told me so much about you. I'm glad you've finally come to see me!"

You could tell she meant it too! Anne had never beheld so much completely natural charm and grace. She couldn't help staring.

"You mean — you're Major Lowell's mother?"

Catherine laughed in delight. "Why, of course! John, you nitwit, don't just stand there! Can't you see Anne is the kind of girl who should have a formal introduction? My dear, didn't he tell you he had a mother?"

"He didn't tell me anything. He just said he was taking me to see someone interesting. Do you think I'm crazy for just doing what he said without question?"

"Oh, no, not at all!" Catherine assured her. "He's high-handed like that. Been bossing me since he was in the cradle!"

John was lighting his pipe. "Interesting — being discussed as if one weren't present! I meant to explain, Anne, when I got a chance. But you two have been battling the conversation back and forth like a baseball. Well, now that we're all acquainted, let's sit down."

Anne felt light-hearted and free and utterly at home. Completely charmed, too, by Catherine Lowell's gaiety. Her mind was filled with curiosity concerning this house and its occupants. Funny she had not thought of John Lowell as being anchored to a family and home. What was the story connected with the big, almost ugly, red-haired woman and her wheel chair? Strangely enough she seemed to know a great deal about Anne and kept the conversation lively with her interested chatter and comments. Anne realized in amazement that John had discussed her quite thoroughly with his mother and again wondered what his interest in her was.

They had dinner by candlelight, the radiance playing softly on the dark, highly-polished old table, the silver bowl of yellow roses. An ancient negro served them deftly in story-book fashion. In truth the whole evening seemed like a page out of a romantic novel. The food was well prepared but quite simple.

After dinner they played the favorite records of each of them, then got into a discussion of the post-war situation and politics in general, during which John and his mother exchanged stinging verbal blows in a purely friendly way. You could see that in spite of genuine differences of opinion they adored and respected each other.

The old negro came in presently to say that the farm manager wanted John to look at a sick mare, and Anne and Catherine were left alone in the big, softly lighted room. They talked easily of many things until finally Catherine said: "It's a good sign—John bringing you here. I've been pretty worried about him since he came home. He wouldn't have brought you if you hadn't meant a great deal to him."

Anne colored to the roots of her hair. She decided it would be better to explain her standing immediately before her hostess got the wrong impression.

one. Edna always had to play second fiddle until her sister died. Then when she could finally indulge her thirst for power and importance, it was too much for her. Made a tyrant out of her! She stopped and laughed. "My, what an old gossip I am! But you won't be likely to let her get you down if you can see through her."

It was uncanny how this woman seemed to have found this sore spot and healed it with a soothing touch. Anne realized that she felt much better about Edna McDowell now. Why, what Mrs. Lowell had said explained everything so completely! She didn't believe she would ever be intimidated by Wayne's Aunt Edna again. Instead of being formidable she seemed almost pitiable now!

"Well, your engagement need not make any difference between us two, need it?" Catherine asked. "You see, I like you, Anne. You're a nice person. I'd like for us to be friends."

Anne reached for the big, beautiful white hand. "Of course, we'll be friends!"

"Then you must promise to come to see me often, with or without John. I get rather lonesome sometimes, though I wouldn't want John to know. I have few callers—few people want to be bothered with a cranky old invalid anyway!"

Anne promised eagerly that she would come back again, and then John came back. "It's the mare, Nancy, mother," he said. "I don't believe she's going to make it this time."

Mrs. Lowell was genuinely distressed. "Oh, but we mustn't let anything happen to Nancy. She's having a baby, Anne. You've called the vet, John?"

"Of course, mother. Don't get excited."

When John had left her at Mrs. Adams' house and Anne ran up to the apartment, she thought at first that Eve had not yet come home. But when she turned on the lamps she saw her, crouched in the big chair by the window. One look at Eve's white, tortured face and Anne's heart froze in apprehension. She saw that Eve, rising slowly to her feet, held a yellow slip of paper in her quivering fingers.

one. Edna always had to play second fiddle until her sister died. Then when she could finally indulge her thirst for power and importance, it was too much for her. Made a tyrant out of her! She stopped and laughed. "My, what an old gossip I am! But you won't be likely to let her get you down if you can see through her."

It was uncanny how this woman seemed to have found this sore spot and healed it with a soothing touch. Anne realized that she felt much better about Edna McDowell now. Why, what Mrs. Lowell had said explained everything so completely! She didn't believe she would ever be intimidated by Wayne's Aunt Edna again. Instead of being formidable she seemed almost pitiable now!

"Well, your engagement need not make any difference between us two, need it?" Catherine asked. "You see, I like you, Anne. You're a nice person. I'd like for us to be friends."

Anne reached for the big, beautiful white hand. "Of course, we'll be friends!"

"Then you must promise to come to see me often, with or without John. I get rather lonesome sometimes, though I wouldn't want John to know. I have few callers—few people want to be bothered with a cranky old invalid anyway!"

Anne promised eagerly that she would come back again, and then John came back. "It's the mare, Nancy, mother," he said. "I don't believe she's going to make it this time."

Mrs. Lowell was genuinely distressed. "Oh, but we mustn't let anything happen to Nancy. She's having a baby, Anne. You've called the vet, John?"

"Of course, mother. Don't get excited."

When John had left her at Mrs. Adams' house and Anne ran up to the apartment, she thought at first that Eve had not yet come home. But when she turned on the lamps she saw her, crouched in the big chair by the window. One look at Eve's white, tortured face and Anne's heart froze in apprehension. She saw that Eve, rising slowly to her feet, held a yellow slip of paper in her quivering fingers.

Crossword Puzzle

ACROSS

- Knock
- Protest
- Active
- Turkish title
- Queen of the gods
- Set of three
- In favor of
- Mountain in Colorado
- Region
- Efficient
- South Sea islander
- Chief Norse god
- Mountain ridges
- Tower on a mosque
- H. B. Swore character

DOWN

- Log floats
- Greek market place
- Type of perfection
- Discharged
- Chop
- Artistic pain
- Tomorrow
- Section of a steam boiler
- Older proof of a will
- Coin of Morocco
- Time long gone
- Aromatic wood
- Equality
- Disappointed
- Anger
- At any time
- Drops
- Mud
- Entry in an account
- Label
- Dwarf
- Stamping form
- Not fresh
- Contrives
- Sandy
- Matures
- Sticky stuff
- Church officials
- Bar legally
- Page
- Belongings
- Small mining car
- Frost
- Round
- Rubber tree

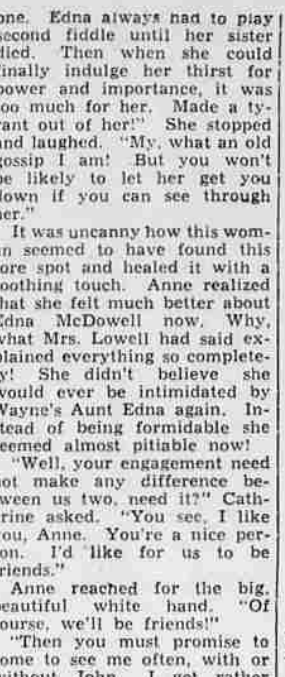

Crossword Puzzle

ACROSS

- Knock
- Protest
- Active
- Turkish title
- Queen of the gods
- Set of three
- In favor of
- Mountain in Colorado
- Region
- Efficient
- South Sea islander
- Chief Norse god
- Mountain ridges
- Tower on a mosque
- H. B. Swore character

DOWN

- Log floats
- Greek market place
- Type of perfection
- Discharged
- Chop
- Artistic pain
- Tomorrow
- Section of a steam boiler
- Older proof of a will
- Coin of Morocco
- Time long gone
- Aromatic wood
- Equality
- Disappointed
- Anger
- At any time
- Drops
- Mud
- Entry in an account
- Label
- Dwarf
- Stamping form
- Not fresh
- Contrives
- Sandy
- Matures
- Sticky stuff
- Church officials
- Bar legally
- Page
- Belongings
- Small mining car
- Frost
- Round
- Rubber tree

one. Edna always had to play second fiddle until her sister died. Then when she could finally indulge her thirst for power and importance, it was too much for her. Made a tyrant out of her! She stopped and laughed. "My, what an old gossip I am! But you won't be likely to let her get you down if you can see through her."

It was uncanny how this woman seemed to have found this sore spot and healed it with a soothing touch. Anne realized that she felt much better about Edna McDowell now. Why, what Mrs. Lowell had said explained everything so completely! She didn't believe she would ever be intimidated by Wayne's Aunt Edna again. Instead of being formidable she seemed almost pitiable now!

"Well, your engagement need not make any difference between us two, need it?" Catherine asked. "You see, I like you, Anne. You're a nice person. I'd like for us to be friends."

Anne reached for the big, beautiful white hand. "Of course, we'll be friends!"

"Then you must promise to come to see me often, with or without John. I get rather lonesome sometimes, though I wouldn't want John to know. I have few callers—few people want to be bothered with a cranky old invalid anyway!"

Anne promised eagerly that she would come back again, and then John came back. "It's the mare, Nancy, mother," he said. "I don't believe she's going to make it this time."

Mrs. Lowell was genuinely distressed. "Oh, but we mustn't let anything happen to Nancy. She's having a baby, Anne. You've called the vet, John?"

"Of course, mother. Don't get excited."

When John had left her at Mrs. Adams' house and Anne ran up to the apartment, she thought at first that Eve had not yet come home. But when she turned on the lamps she saw her, crouched in the big chair by the window. One look at Eve's white, tortured face and Anne's heart froze in apprehension. She saw that Eve, rising slowly to her feet, held a yellow slip of paper in her quivering fingers.

one. Edna always had to play second fiddle until her sister died. Then when she could finally indulge her thirst for power and importance, it was too much for her. Made a tyrant out of her! She stopped and laughed. "My, what an old gossip I am! But you won't be likely to let her get you down if you can see through her."

It was uncanny how this woman seemed to have found this sore spot and healed it with a soothing touch. Anne realized that she felt much better about Edna McDowell now. Why, what Mrs. Lowell had said explained everything so completely! She didn't believe she would ever be intimidated by Wayne's Aunt Edna again. Instead of being formidable she seemed almost pitiable now!

"Well, your engagement need not make any difference between us two, need it?" Catherine asked. "You see, I like you, Anne. You're a nice person. I'd like for us to be friends."

Anne reached for the big, beautiful white hand. "Of course, we'll be friends!"

"Then you must promise to come to see me often, with or without John. I get rather lonesome sometimes, though I wouldn't want John to know. I have few callers—few people want to be bothered with a cranky old invalid anyway!"

Anne promised eagerly that she would come back again, and then John came back. "It's the mare, Nancy, mother," he said. "I don't believe she's going to make it this time."

Mrs. Lowell was genuinely distressed. "Oh, but we mustn't let anything happen to Nancy. She's having a baby, Anne. You've called the vet, John?"

"Of course, mother. Don't get excited."

When John had left her at Mrs. Adams' house and Anne ran up to the apartment, she thought at first that Eve had not yet come home. But when she turned on the lamps she saw her, crouched in the big chair by the window. One look at Eve's white, tortured face and Anne's heart froze in apprehension. She saw that Eve, rising slowly to her feet, held a yellow slip of paper in her quivering fingers.

Crossword Puzzle

ACROSS

- Knock
- Protest
- Active
- Turkish title
- Queen of the gods
- Set of three
- In favor of
- Mountain in Colorado
- Region
- Efficient
- South Sea islander
- Chief Norse god
- Mountain ridges
- Tower on a mosque
- H. B. Swore character

DOWN

- Log floats
- Greek market place
- Type of perfection
- Discharged
- Chop
- Artistic pain
- Tomorrow
- Section of a steam boiler
- Older proof of a will
- Coin of Morocco
- Time long gone
- Aromatic wood
- Equality
- Disappointed
- Anger
- At any time
- Drops
- Mud
- Entry in an account
- Label
- Dwarf
- Stamping form
- Not fresh
- Contrives
- Sandy
- Matures
- Sticky stuff
- Church officials
- Bar legally
- Page
- Belongings
- Small mining car
- Frost
- Round
- Rubber tree

Crossword Puzzle

ACROSS

- Knock
- Protest
- Active
- Turkish title
- Queen of the gods
- Set of three
- In favor of
- Mountain in Colorado
- Region
- Efficient
- South Sea islander
- Chief Norse god
- Mountain ridges
- Tower on a mosque
- H. B. Swore character

DOWN

- Log floats
- Greek market place
- Type of perfection
- Discharged
- Chop
- Artistic pain
- Tomorrow
- Section of a steam boiler
- Older proof of a will
- Coin of Morocco
- Time long gone
- Aromatic wood
- Equality
- Disappointed
- Anger
- At any time
- Drops
- Mud
- Entry in an account
- Label
- Dwarf
- Stamping form
- Not fresh
- Contrives
- Sandy
- Matures
- Sticky stuff
- Church officials
- Bar legally
- Page
- Belongings
- Small mining car
- Frost
- Round
- Rubber tree

one. Edna always had to play second fiddle until her sister died. Then when she could finally indulge her thirst for power and importance, it was too much for her. Made a tyrant out of her! She stopped and laughed. "My, what an old gossip I am! But you won't be likely to let her get you down if you can see through her."

It was uncanny how this woman seemed to have found this sore spot and healed it with a soothing touch. Anne realized that she felt much better about Edna McDowell now. Why, what Mrs. Lowell had said explained everything so completely! She didn't believe she would ever be intimidated by Wayne's Aunt Edna again. Instead of being formidable she seemed almost pitiable now!

"Well, your engagement need not make any difference between us two, need it?" Catherine asked. "You see, I like you, Anne. You're a nice person. I'd like for us to be friends."

Anne reached for the big, beautiful white hand. "Of course, we'll be friends!"

"Then you must promise to come to see me often, with or without John. I get rather lonesome sometimes, though I wouldn't want John to know. I have few callers—few people want to be bothered with a cranky old invalid anyway!"

Anne promised eagerly that she would come back again, and then John came back. "It's the mare, Nancy, mother," he said. "I don't believe she's going to make it this time."

Mrs. Lowell was genuinely distressed. "Oh, but we mustn't let anything happen to Nancy. She's having a baby, Anne. You've called the vet, John?"

"Of course, mother. Don't get excited."

When John had left her at Mrs. Adams' house and Anne ran up to the apartment, she thought at first that Eve had not yet come home. But when she turned on the lamps she saw her, crouched in the big chair by the window. One look at Eve's white, tortured face and Anne's heart froze in apprehension. She saw that Eve, rising slowly to her feet, held a yellow slip of paper in her quivering fingers.

one. Edna always had to play second fiddle until her sister died. Then when she could finally indulge her thirst for power and importance, it was too much for her. Made a tyrant out of her! She stopped and laughed. "My, what an old gossip I am! But you won't be likely to let her get you down if you can see through her."

It was uncanny how this woman seemed to have found this sore spot and healed it with a soothing touch. Anne realized that she felt much better about Edna McDowell now. Why, what Mrs. Lowell had said explained everything so completely! She didn't believe she would ever be intimidated by Wayne's Aunt Edna again. Instead of being formidable she seemed almost pitiable now!

"Well, your engagement need not make any difference between us two, need it?" Catherine asked. "You see, I like you, Anne. You're a nice person. I'd like for us to be friends."

Anne reached for the big, beautiful white hand. "Of course, we'll be friends!"

"Then you must promise to come to see me often, with or without John. I get rather lonesome sometimes, though I wouldn't want John to know. I have few callers—few people want to be bothered with a cranky old invalid anyway!"

Anne promised eagerly that she would come back again, and then John came back. "It's the mare, Nancy, mother," he said. "I don't believe she's going to make it this time."

Mrs. Lowell was genuinely distressed. "Oh, but we mustn't let anything happen to Nancy. She's having a baby, Anne. You've called the vet, John?"

"Of course, mother. Don't get excited."

When John had left her at Mrs. Adams' house and Anne ran up to the apartment, she thought at first that Eve had not yet come home. But when she turned on the lamps she saw her, crouched in the big chair by the window. One look at Eve's white, tortured face and Anne's heart froze in apprehension. She saw that Eve, rising slowly to her feet, held a yellow slip of paper in her quivering fingers.

Crossword Puzzle

ACROSS

- Knock
- Protest
- Active
- Turkish title
- Queen of the gods
- Set of three
- In favor of
- Mountain in Colorado
- Region
- Efficient
- South Sea islander
- Chief Norse god
- Mountain ridges
- Tower on a mosque
- H. B. Swore character

DOWN

- Log floats
- Greek market place
- Type of perfection
- Discharged
- Chop
- Artistic pain
- Tomorrow
- Section of a steam boiler
- Older proof of a will
- Coin of Morocco
- Time long gone
- Aromatic wood
- Equality
- Disappointed
- Anger
- At any time
- Drops
- Mud
- Entry in an account
- Label
- Dwarf
- Stamping form
- Not fresh
- Contrives
- Sandy
- Matures
- Sticky stuff
- Church officials
- Bar legally
- Page
- Belongings
- Small mining car
- Frost
- Round
- Rubber tree

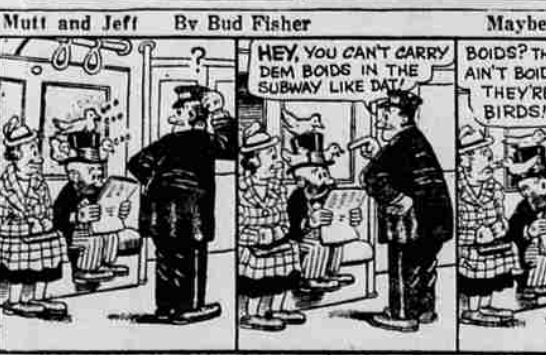

Crossword Puzzle

ACROSS

- Knock
- Protest
- Active
- Turkish title
- Queen of the gods
- Set of three
- In favor of
- Mountain in Colorado
- Region
- Efficient
- South Sea islander
- Chief Norse god
- Mountain ridges
- Tower on a mosque
- H. B. Swore character

DOWN

- Log floats
- Greek market place
- Type of perfection
- Discharged
- Chop
- Artistic pain
- Tomorrow
- Section of a steam boiler
- Older proof of a will
- Coin of Morocco
- Time long gone
- Aromatic wood
- Equality
- Disappointed
- Anger
- At any time
- Drops
- Mud
- Entry in an account
- Label
- Dwarf
- Stamping form
- Not fresh
- Contrives
- Sandy
- Matures
- Sticky stuff
- Church officials
- Bar legally
- Page
- Belongings
- Small mining car
- Frost
- Round
- Rubber tree

Ration Dates

Meat, Fat, Red & Green Stamps, Book 4
R1 through R11 through Nov 30
R12 through R13 through Dec 31
R14 through R15 through Jan 31
R16 through R17 through Feb 28
R18 through R19 through Mar 31
R20 through R21 through Apr 30
R22 through R23 through May 31
R24 through R25 through Jun 30
R26 through R27 through Jul 31
R28 through R29 through Aug 31
R30 through R31 through Sep 30
R32 through R33 through Oct 31
R34 through R35 through Nov 30
R36 through R37 through Dec 31
R38 through R39 through Jan 31
R40 through R41 through Feb 28
R42 through R43 through Mar 31
R44 through R45 through Apr 30
R46 through R47 through May 31
R48 through R49 through Jun 30
R50 through R51 through Jul 31
R52 through R53 through Aug 31
R54 through R55 through Sep 30
R56 through R57 through Oct 31
R58 through R59 through Nov 30
R60 through R61 through Dec 31
R62 through R63 through Jan 31
R64 through R65 through Feb 28
R66 through R67 through Mar 31
R68 through R69 through Apr 30
R70 through R71 through May 31
R72 through R73 through Jun 30
R74 through R75 through Jul 31
R76 through R77 through Aug 31
R78 through R79 through Sep 30
R80 through R81 through Oct 31
R82 through R83 through Nov 30
R84 through R85 through Dec 31
R86 through R87 through Jan 31
R88 through R89 through Feb 28
R90 through R91 through Mar 31
R92 through R93 through Apr 30
R94 through R95 through May 31
R96 through R97 through Jun 30
R98 through R99 through Jul 31
R100 through R101 through Aug 31
R102 through R103 through Sep 30
R104 through R105 through Oct 31
R106 through R107 through Nov 30
R108 through R109 through Dec 31
R110 through R111 through Jan 31
R112 through R113 through Feb 28
R114 through R115 through Mar 31
R116 through R117 through Apr 30
R118 through R119 through May 31
R120 through R121 through Jun 30
R122 through R123 through Jul 31
R124 through R125 through Aug 31
R126 through R127 through Sep 30
R128 through R129 through Oct 31
R130 through R131 through Nov 30
R132 through R133 through Dec 31
R134 through R135 through Jan 31
R136 through R137 through Feb 28
R138 through R139 through Mar 31
R140 through R141 through Apr 30
R142 through R143 through May 31
R144 through R145 through Jun 30
R146 through R147 through Jul 31
R148 through R149 through Aug 31
R150 through R151 through Sep 30
R152 through R153 through Oct 31
R154 through R155 through Nov 30
R156 through R157 through Dec 31
R158 through R159 through Jan 31
R160 through R161 through Feb 28
R162 through R163 through Mar 31
R164 through R165 through Apr 30
R166 through R167 through May 31
R168 through R169 through Jun 30
R170 through R171 through Jul 31
R172 through R173 through Aug 31
R174 through R175 through Sep 30
R176 through R177 through Oct 31
R178 through R179 through Nov 30
R180 through R181 through Dec 31
R182 through R183 through Jan 31
R184 through R185 through Feb 28
R186 through R187 through Mar 31
R188 through R189 through Apr 30
R190 through R191 through May 31
R192 through R193 through Jun 30
R194 through R195 through Jul 31
R196 through R197 through Aug 31
R198 through R199 through Sep 30
R200 through R201 through Oct 31
R202 through R203 through Nov 30
R204 through R205 through Dec 31
R206 through R207 through Jan 31
R208 through R209 through Feb 28
R210 through R211 through Mar 31
R212 through R213 through Apr 30
R214 through R215 through May 31
R216 through R217 through Jun 30
R218 through R219 through Jul 31
R220 through R221 through Aug 31
R222 through R223 through Sep 30
R224 through R225 through Oct 31
R226 through R227 through Nov 30
R228 through R229 through Dec 31
R230 through R231 through Jan 31
R232 through R233 through Feb 28
R234 through R235 through Mar 31
R236 through R237 through Apr 30
R238 through R239 through May 31
R240 through R241 through Jun 30