

Forum Is Host Silverton FFA

Silverton—Dan Potter, secretary of the local Future Farmers chapter, won the $10 Kiwanis award for outstanding work done during the past year, with the presentation made by Leonard Hudson, faculty advisor, at the annual FFA chamber of commerce program Tuesday evening.

Maurice Buchanan, assistant state supervisor of agricultural education, of Salem, was the speaker, giving a resume of the history and accomplishments of the Future Farmers of America, and exploiting their coming problems and pleasures in their work.

Charles Morley, treasurer of the local chapter, gave his winning essay in the speaker contest at Central Howell recently, and placing fourth in the state later. The subject of the essay was a theme on the importance of agricultural chemistry for the future.

Officers present were Rollin Heater, FFA president, Harold Johnson, vice-president, Dan Potter, secretary, and Charles Morley, treasurer. Melvin Miller was master of ceremonies, introducing the different boys who told of their farm projects, including Dean Mulkey, freshman, Lawrence Fisher, sophomore, and Rollin Heater, senior. Dan Potter appeared in accordion numbers and told of his projects that helped win the award.

Leonard Hudson stressed the need of busy work and play and also strict honesty as qualifications for a successful life work for a Future Farmer.

R. A. Fish, president of the Chamber of Commerce, asked M. G. Gunderson to report on the Portland meeting of the forum executives during the past week where the question of receiving tourists in the state was paramount.

Among Silverton hopes, according to the report of the president of the week's board meeting, is a hotel of sufficient size to accommodate tourists as well as business visitors in town. Preservation of forests near highways was stressed by Mayor George Christenson, Jack Spencer announced the Thursday night meeting at the forum room of the University of Oregon symposium group. Among new members introduced were Harold Larson, presented by his wife, the former Lillie Madsen; Dr. and Mrs. Teeter, Mr. and Mrs. Covell C. Parker and Earl Spencer. Dinner was served by the Christian church women.

Turner Farm Union Offering Benefit

Turner—Plans are rapidly going ahead concerning a benefit carnival-dance sponsored by the local Farmers' Union. Various committees have been appointed and meetings are being held by the general chairman, Mrs. Louis Hennies.

Arrangements are being made to hold this event in the Turner high school gymnasium February 23. The proceeds are to be used for various improvements, especially at the Cloverdale school where the Farmers' Union holds its regular meetings.

Woodburn Infants Receive Baptism

Woodburn—Anton Ray Stravens, infant son of Raymond Stravens and Faye Prinslow, received the sacrament of baptism at St. Luke's church. The Rev. V. L. Mollenbeier administered the sacrament. The godparents are Mr. and Mrs. John Prinslow.

Virginia Lee Erwert was baptized at St. Luke's on last Sunday. She is the infant daughter of Leo J. Erwert and Marguerite Stewart. The Rev. F. J. Hanley administered baptism and William Erwert was godfather by proxy and Florence Aicher was the godmother.

Brooks—The Farmers' Union will give a program and pie social at the school house Friday night at 8 o'clock. The community and all interested persons are invited to attend.

Dallas Lodge Presents Pins

Dallas — Twenty-five-year jewel pins, presented to eleven members of Marmion lodge. Knights of Pythias, featured the annual roll call meeting, at which the 82nd anniversary of the founding of the order and the 41st birthday of the local lodge were observed.

Presentation of the jewels was made by Leif S. Finseth, a past grand chancellor, and responses for the jewel recipients were given by William C. Retzer and Merritt Hart. Those receiving jewels were Carl Swanson, Ellis Miller, C. W. Henkle, Merritt Hart, W. C. Retzer, Earl Burk, Dale Slater, William B. Young, Elwin Craven, Delbert Plaster and Simon Grindheim. Taylor Dunn, unable to be present, was presented with a pin by a lodge delegation at his home Sunday. Others entitled to pins, not present, were Ed Shaw and George King.

Speakers on the program included John L. Foote of St. Helens, past grand chancellor, who spoke concerning ritualistic work of the order; Walter Gleason of Portland, grand keeper of the records and seal; F. Newton and A. C. Moore, both of Independence; Doc Patterson of Portland and John B. Eakin of Dallas. Gleason in his talk stated that Marmion lodge was the banner lodge of the state in 1945, ranking fourth in size, and showing an increase of 45 members. Eakin, who received a 25-year-jewel at Harrisburg, Pa., last year while stationed near there as a military police captain, spoke relative to the presentation ceremony conducted by the lodge.

Visitors present were John Foote of St. Helens, Walter Gleason and Fred Gleason, both of Portland; Tom Ritchie, Ralph Seranton, George Fisher, Verd Hill, Francis Newton, Ed Haines, John Holchek and A. C. Moore of Independence.

Telegrams were read from Capt. John Benge, now in Tokyo, and John Friesen, stationed in San Francisco. Letters from the following were read: Kenneth Kliver, South France; Frank Jones, Forest Grove; Robert Cannoy, Klamath Falls; Ed Janzen, Seattle; Ed Campbell, Nelscott; C. C. Coad, San Francisco; Taylor Dunn, Route 1, Dallas, and George King, Oregon City.

At the conclusion of the evening refreshments were served in the dining room.

Pinball Licenses Get Council Okay

Woodburn—At a meeting of the city council Tuesday night non-gambling amusement devices, including pin ball machines and music machines, were licensed to operate within the city limits for revenue purposes. Operators will pay $10 per month for pinball machines and $1 per month for music machines.

The Marion County Amusement company, operated by Marshall McKee, owner of the machines, will pay $200 annually for the privilege of placing the machines in the city. Petitions for street improvement were discussed. Representatives were present from Settler avenue, Gatch street and North Third street and presented petitions for the improvement of these streets.

Unionvale—Visiting at the home of her parents here the past week-end was Miss Thelma Terry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Terry. Miss Terry is employed in Vancouver, Wash.

Initiatory Work Is Held by Lodge

Mill City—Mr. and Mrs. Frank Grolbert of Portland were special guests at the regular meeting of the S. B. A. lodge. Mrs. Grolbert is the district manager. During the evening the initiatory degree was given, with Fern Shuey, presiding, for Wayne Thomas and Reinold Olson. A wedding gift, from the council, was presented to Mr. and Mrs. Reinold Olson. Mrs. Olson (Phyllis Mundt) is a member of the local council. Frank Grolbert showed several reels of moving pictures.

Visiting during the evening from the Portland S. B. A. council besides Mr. and Mrs. Grolbert were Mrs. Feilberg and Mrs. Hayner. Several other special guests had been invited to attend the social part of the meeting. A no-host lunch was served following lodge.

Wheatland — Mrs. Anthony Perzigian of Waukegan, Ill., has arrived to visit her mother, Mrs. W. B. Magness, who is bedfast at her home here. Because of unusually cold weather she did not bring her small son, Anthony, Jr., but left him in care of his father and other relatives. Mrs. Perzigian was Miss Tessie Magness before her marriage.

Lebanon Will Protect Area

Lebanon—Problems confronting the proponents of the Lebanon Rural Fire Protection district were greatly eased by the action of the city council when it voiced unanimous approval of a plan presented by Fire Chief Elmer Fitzgerald to tentatively offer the proposed district, when and if formed, adequate fire protection by the city of Lebanon at a rate of 2 mills tax.

The plan was presented after careful study of the boundaries of the proposed district and was formulated after a pattern set by Albany in its offer to furnish protection by the Albany Fire department for its new district now in the process of formation to the west and north of Lebanon.

The offer was made merely as a suggestion to the residents of the proposed district. The main purpose of the council in making the offer was to give the residents of the proposed district definite information as to the cost of obtaining protection.

Progress in mapping out the boundaries of the proposed district is reported by Joe McPherson who has been active in getting the district started. The map outlining the district is now in the hands of the county surveyor for preparation and will be sent to the state fire marshal's office where petitions will be made up.

The new district, as planned, will border the new Albany Fire Protection district on the west; the Scio district, now in operation, on the north; the Brownsville district, also in operation, on the south and to the east will follow a line about half way to Sweet Home, extending north to include the Berlin and Lacombe areas.
