

Crescendo Concerts To Begin

The Crescendo club of Salem high school is again presenting a series of artist concerts to stimulate interest in music.

Four artists of international renown are scheduled to appear this year. All are from the Columbia Concert Bureau in New York, and each is new to the Salem public. Jean Watson, Canada's foremost contralto, will open the series on Monday, November 4. Three weeks later, November 22, Angel Reyes, Cuban violinist, will appear. Solveig Lunde, pianist, and a Juilliard school graduate, will be heard Friday, December 6. The male vocalist for the series will be James Pease, baritone, who sang in the opera "Carmen" at the opening of the 1946 summer season at the Hollywood Bowl, under direction of Leopold Stokowski.

The Crescendo club is entering upon its eleventh year in concert promotion. During this time eminent soloists and ensembles have presented the best in music literature, as well as the highest skills in technical and interpretive attainments. The series is an educational opportunity for students to form the habit of concert attendance. The quality of the programs is such that adults as well avail themselves of the privilege.

Subscriptions for the season may be obtained at local music stores and from club members.

Mrs. Linn C. Smith will preside at luncheon Thursday afternoon for members of the Town and Country club in their first fall meeting. A one o'clock luncheon will be served followed by an afternoon of contract bridge.

The Price of MEAT

As a consumer who is concerned with the supply of meat and the price of meat, you are entitled to know, right now, these inescapable facts:

Meat supplies now are at a record low. Supply lines are empty. People who haven't had much meat lately want it. But it will take time to restore meat to retail counters.

When there is little meat and everybody wants it, the price is bound to rise. But more meat is coming in the months ahead, and as supplies increase and approach the demand, the price is bound to level off. That's the law of supply and demand in operation. Nobody can repeal it.

Nobody in the meat business control prices. Consumers determine prices by what they are willing to pay for meat. That determines what retailers can pay meat packers for it, and finally, in turn, what the meat packers can afford to pay for meat animals.

Right now, of course, there is bound to be stiff competition in the buying of livestock. There are thousands of meat processors, all anxious to restore their businesses. Competitors in the business want all the animals they can buy so they will have meat to sell... and the best price will get the animals. There is also keen competition in the sale of meat because meat processors must have customers, and the lowest prices for meat will get the business.

So... as meat gradually starts to return shortly to the counters of retail stores, we urge consumers:

- 1—Don't insist on only the fanciest kinds and cuts.
- 2—Do shop around for the best buys in meat. There is as much good nutrition in a savory stew as there is in a fancy porterhouse.

It is the earnest desire of the meat packing industry that, as quickly as possible, consumers may again find on retail counters everywhere the kind of meat they want, when they want it, at fair competitive prices... like it used to be just a few years ago. Remember?
