

Crabtree Heads Stayton Forum

Stayton—Choosing this year's officers to serve again during the coming year, Stayton Chamber of Commerce held a regular meeting at the city hall. Dale Crabtree will again head the chamber as president, with Raymond K. Frey, secretary-treasurer; Roy Phillippi, Gilbert Schachtschick and Ken Williams, again serving on the board of directors.

Crabtree gave his annual report and appointed George Keech to serve as legislative chairman with the immediate purpose of keeping in touch with progress of school legislation particularly in the equalization bill as it pertains to the set-up of the method of allocation of funds under the so-called $15,000,000 school fund equalization law.

Lindsey Wright was appointed to investigate sewer systems as set up in communities similar to Stayton.

Raymond Frey gave the secretary-treasurer's report revealing a little over $200 cash on hand. Kenneth Williams, chairman of the budget committee, made report of finances for the coming year. Consensus was that the amount needed will hinge largely on what is needed to publish a booklet on Stayton. After some discussion it was voted that the dues shall be $6 for business houses and $3 for individual memberships.

The chamber voted to petition the county court regarding the possible widening of the inter-county bridge over the North Santiam river, as suggested by the Lions club. It was represented that present piers are sufficient to support a widened structure.

Uniforms Ordered For Jefferson Band

Jefferson—The Jefferson band committee met at the home of W. L. Jones Monday night to make further plans for contacting people of Jefferson and rural communities for donations to the band uniform fund. The committee consists of W. L. Jones, chairman; C. J. Rose and G. A. Robinson. Others present included C. R. Watts, band director; Pat Beal, superintendent of schools; and Clarence Miller as a parent.

The committee authorized an immediate order for 28 uniforms, since sufficient money has already come in to warrant purchase of equipment. Chairman W. L. Jones turned in $400, which has been contributed to date by business firms of Jefferson. The band has a fund of $353.59 already, thus making a grand total of $753.59.

Plans were authorized to canvass the people of Jefferson and surrounding communities for donations in the near future. It is hoped that uniforms will be available for spring programs put on by the band.
