Over 1000 Ask Jobless Pay

Due to the usual stacking off of seasonal employment, the Salem office of the U. S. employment service is now in the process of taking care of hundreds of men and women who are filing their claims for unemployment compensation. A high mark in this connection was reached one day last week when 685 persons were processed. On the same day 316 were handled at the Woodburn branch, bringing the total to more than 1,000 persons.

January 15 is usually the date when the peak of unemployment is reached, W. H. Baillie, Salem manager stated Monday. Laying off of a number of men, many of whom have been working on a year round basis, is causing the rush for unemployment pay at this time. He added that there is virtually no demand for common labor, although several positions are available for skilled help. Nevertheless there are more persons employed now than at a similar time before the war, due to the fact that there are more industrial plants located here.

The logging industry has held up well since last November's snow caused a temporary shutdown of operations. It is estimated that logging is within 10 per cent of maximum capacity.

The Salem farm labor office reports more men out of work than at any time in the history of its operations. This is due to some extent to the arrival from middle western states of people who would like to settle in the valley. They are arriving almost daily.

The situation is expected to improve materially next month when farmers and orchardists start seasonal operations once more.

Pacific Highway Group Change Name and Re-elect Koozer Head

The Oregon Pacific Highway association met here Monday and voted to change the name to "U. S. 99 Highway association." Explanation given for the change of name was "to get away from provincialism." The association by vote appointed Floyd L. Martin of Portland to be its representative at meetings of the Oregon state highway commission, to attend in person or designate some other person.

The association re-elected Ralph E. Koozer of Ashland as its president, and J. B. Coleman of Medford was made chairman of a committee on nomination of directors who will be elected at the afternoon session. The directors will elect vice president, secretary and treasurer.

In changing the name of the association members said they believed it desirable to eliminate the words "Oregon" and "Pacific," the first to eliminate any hint of provincialism as against Washington and California, and the second to remove confusion with the Coast highway. The change will be filed with the state corporation commissioner. Maps or any other literature bearing the new name will carry an explanatory line showing it is an international highway.

In naming Martin, who is a member of the roads and highways committee of the Portland Chamber of Commerce, as official representative at meetings of the highway commission it was mentioned that he could conveniently attend, while members living a long distance from Portland, where most meetings are held, could not. Martin is keenly interested in the highway, and said that "improvement of Highway 99 is 25 years behind and, if we don't get some action it will stay that way."

Sectional bottlenecks in the highway were discussed, but the association decided not to bring pressure for work in specific spots, preferring to leave it to the judgment of the state commission.

The California wing of the association was represented by O. G. Steele of Yreka.

Twelve Oregon cities are represented in the association. Most were represented.

Basic police subjects will be covered in a training program of regional schools for city policemen sponsored by the Oregon Association of City Police Officers during March and April with officers of nearby towns invited to attend the series here. The program will probably consist of one day of training each week for eight weeks with instructors to be drawn from federal, state and local law enforcement officers and most of the teachers from the FBI and Portland. Salem is one of twelve cities cooperating in the project.

Attending the 10-week course at the Link Instrument Trainer instructors' school at the naval air training base at Corpus Christi, Texas, is S 2-c Emil Urban, son of Mrs. Iva Koenning of Silverton.

Andrew J. Volstead

Volstead, Dry Leader, Dies

Granite Falls, Minn., Jan. 21 (AP)—Andrew J. Volstead, the man who more than any other, personified prohibition in the United States, died Monday at his Granite Falls home after having been in virtual retirement since the federal statute bearing his name was repealed in 1933.

The western Minnesota county lawyer served in congress for 20 years and was chairman of the house judiciary committee where an enforcement act to implement the 18th amendment became necessary in 1918.

How much of that act Volstead himself wrote remained his secret when he died Monday at the age of 87. But in the popular mind that law became known as the Volstead act when it was passed by congress over President Wilson's veto.

After his defeat in 1922, Volstead continued his campaign against liquor—started at the level of his own county—by becoming legal adviser to the St. Paul, Minn., district prohibition enforcement headquarters, a post he held until repeal came in 1933.

Volstead was adamant in refusing interviews and pictures and once hung up the telephone on a London newspaper with the comment: "It was just another wet newspaper."

Although it was prohibition that won him fame, Volstead was also credited with drawing up and seeing enacted into law the farmers' cooperative act and the numerous bills to end the broad powers of President Wilson, granted in the emergency of World War I.

Tax Bills

Legislative ways and means committee members estimated today a state budget deficit of at least $13,000,000, instead of $6,000,000 as estimated by State Budget Director George Aiken.

Sen. Dean H. Walker, Independence, chairman of the senate ways and means committee, said a preliminary study showed a $14,000,000 deficit, while Dr. F. H. Dammsch, house ways and means chairman, said the deficit is about $13,000,000.

Both men emphasized that their estimates are only tentative, depending in a large measure on the disputed estimates of liquor profits for the next two years.

Governor Snell's proposal to take up $6,000,000 of the deficit by using corporation income tax surpluses is expected to reach the floor for final action in a few days, but house leaders said they doubt it will pass. They believe the money should continue to be used to reduce property taxes.

Woodburn Fights Freeway Bill

The Woodburn district has joined in the fight against the freeway bill, which is coming into the present session of the legislature, and three Woodburn men were in conference with the Salem Chamber of Commerce, the Marion county delegation and others in opposition to the measure.

Here from Woodburn were Earl H. Mattson, mayor; Pat McLaughlin, secretary of the Woodburn Chamber of Commerce. They said they were representing not only their own community, but business men all along the highway, and farmers whose access to Highway 99E would be affected by the bill if it were enacted into law.

J. H. Fullenwider, of Carlton, was elected president Monday night by the Willamette Production Credit association. Other officers are Claude Buchanan, Corvallis, vice president; P. M. Brand, Jr., Salem, secretary-treasurer, and John G. Bryant, Salem, assistant secretary-treasurer. Other board members are E. M. McIndes, Astoria; R. W. Reed, Eugene, and John Ramage, Woodburn, re-elected for a three-year term.

School Merger of Monmouth And Independence Defeated

Monmouth, Ore., Jan. 21—A record vote of 401 ballots here defeated the proposed merger with the Independence school district and three small adjacent districts at the special election Monday. Monmouth voters rejected the plan 261 to 140 though Independence favored it 150 to 13. The Highland district was unanimously for the merger with 20 ballots cast while Parker voted 9 to 7 for the merger.

Result of the Mistletoe district, not yet available, will not have any effect. The district is smaller than Highland with around half its assessed valuation. If a protest is raised, there may be a revote taken in the Parker district because of the closeness of the vote.

Heavy opposition developed here over the week-end and a determined campaign was launched against the merger. The plan considered sending all senior high school students to Independence and all junior high school students to Monmouth. As a result of the election Highland and Parker will be consolidated with Independence. Mistletoe is in the Monmouth area.

Major objection against the consolidation was the cost of buses to transport pupils the short distance between Monmouth and Independence would be greater than the construction of additional facilities. Monmouth owns its own buses while Independence rents transportation. It was also pointed out that many persons living in the area and employed in Salem, West Salem and Dallas would leave the district when suitable living quarters are available closer to the scene of employment. Some complications also arose from the fact that both the elementary schools at Monmouth and Independence are state-owned training schools for the Oregon College of Education in Monmouth with 295 pupils enrolled at Monmouth and 375 at Independence.

Volstead was adamant in refusing interviews and pictures and once hung up the telephone on a London newspaper with the comment: "It was just another wet newspaper."

Silverton Duplex Home Destroyed

Silverton, Jan. 21—The H. N. Kiev duplex home just off North Water street, was destroyed by fire after midnight this morning. The fire apparently originating in the attic from a gas furnace.

Kiev who has been very ill for many weeks was removed to the Silverton hospital with other members of the two families staying with members of their families and friends. No one was reported injured excepting from shock.

Some furniture was removed from the building. The contents of the home were partially insured.

Mary King, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Timothy King, of Hopewell, graduate with the 1945 class at the Amity union high school, is completing her work at a Salem beauty school and will take her state examinations in April. Until she recently resigned she has been employed at the Salem Indian school at Chemawa.

Proposed state and national veterans' legislation will be discussed at a meeting of the Oregon Federated Veterans' Council of Marion county at the American Legion hall at Aurora Friday night with Aurora post official host. Delegates from 25 veterans' organizations in the country are expected to attend.
