

East Salem Extension Units Take Part in Annual Affair

East Salem, April 11—All East Salem Home Extension units were well represented among the 23 units displaying at the fourth annual homemakers' festival held at the Veterans of Foreign Wars building in Salem on Wednesday. All the units had exhibits, some took prizes and all four units were awarded certificates of recognition by having met the requirements for awards by 100 percent.

The Edina Lane unit had the exhibit, "Conserve With the Scrap Bag" and in its exhibit were around 40 different articles, including bed quilts, handy useful articles for around the home and featuring some articles of clothing like house slippers, sweaters, gloves for all members of family. The exhibit was prepared by Mrs. Drew Michaels, Mrs. George Kirkpatrick, Mrs. Floyd Thompson and Mrs. A. J. Shea.

Lansing Neighbors unit prepared the exhibit, "Home Canning Equipment." This was a colorful exhibit with many kinds of canned fruits and vegetables and a wall background display that attracted much attention. This exhibit was prepared by Mrs. I. G. Lermon, Mrs. Zina Shrapnack, Mrs. V. E. Fitzgerald and Mrs. I. H. Sion. To top up their exhibit Mrs. Sion displayed a can of pears, canned in 1932, and guesses were recorded and a prize given for the one guessing the right year. Mrs. Dale Jefferies of Auburn received the prize for her right guess. Mrs. Merle Hann made the display cards used for the exhibit.

Lansing Neighbors was also represented in the style show by Mrs. H. C. Otto, Mrs. V. E. Fitzgerald and Mrs. I. C. Lermon, each modeling a dress made at the dress workshop.

East Salem unit's exhibit was "Color in the Home." Two miniature rooms of a home furnished in the same colors, with all necessities from drapes to flower vases in one and glass curtains to tiny throw rugs in the other were used. Even the house cat was present. Little pieces of furniture were upholstered, pictures placed on the walls, floors carpeted and all blended to the color scheme.

Mrs. Ralph Hein, Mrs. Glenn Larkins and Mrs. William Hartley prepared the exhibit. Other East Salem women attending were Mrs. C. A. Salter, president; Mrs. E. Brandt, vice president; Mrs. Charles Jayne, treasurer; Mrs. Homer J. Conklin, Mrs. Menno Dalke, Mrs. Leonard Harms, Mrs. Walter Biggerstaff, Mrs. John Woodburn, Mrs. Earl Halm, Mrs. H. F. Sprick, Mrs. Daniel Scharr and Mrs. Albert Patz.

The Four Corners unit which is made up of both Auburn and Rickey communities made the special corsages for all special guests and beautifully decorated the hall in white flowers.

Women of the committee from Auburn were Mrs. Warren Shrake, Mrs. Jack Scorgie, Mrs. Harold Colgan and Mrs. E. C. Sunderlin. Those from Rickey were Mrs. William Brown, Mrs. Jess McInay, Mrs. E. S. Walker, Mrs. Ralph King, Mrs. A. Pederson and Mrs. L. J. Stewart. Taking part in the style show were Mrs. Jack Scorgie, Mrs. E. C. Sunderlin and Mrs. Lawrence J. Shrake. Mrs. L. J. Stewart was in charge of the music for the program hours, leading the singing, with Mrs. Lloyd Lee of Auburn as the accompanist. Each unit had prepared publicity scrapbooks beginning with the November meeting. Each unit publicity chairman was expected to see that both advance notices of meetings and reports were clipped for scrapbooks from the local newspapers. Mrs. Albert Patz prepared East Salem book, Mrs. Young Gleeson and Mrs. Richard Rosecrans prepared Edina Lane, Mrs. I. G. Lermon, Lansing Neighbors, and Mrs. Dale Jefferies, Four Corners.

The first prize was awarded to Four Corners for their neat, colorful book. One clever idea they used was a small picture of each member busy at some different household task.
