Rose Society Exhibit Opens

Salem's second annual rose show opened this afternoon at the YMCA under sponsorship of the Salem Rose society. In spite of the heavy rains of the past week the large gymnasium at the Y is filled with blooms although quality is, admittedly, not of the best. Competition is especially keen in the decorative arrangements division where a class for "men only" has attracted a large number of entries. The class for "advanced amateurs," winners in previous shows, has also attracted some lively competition with several Portland and Corvallis growers here to vie with local growers. The show will remain open until 9:00 o'clock tonight and on Sunday will be open to the public from 10:00 a.m. until 8:00 p.m. 136*

Protest Limitation Of Bulb Imports

Washington, June 7 (AP)—The National Council of State Garden clubs protested today against a senate-approved amendment to the 1912 plant quarantine act that would permit limitations on the imports of flowering bulbs. Mrs. Robert Ash of Bethesda, Md., speaking for the amateur gardeners, told the house agriculture committee "we think the American bulb growers are trying to hide behind this disease myth to place an embargo" on the entry of bulbs. She testified after William H. Tolbert, representing the Oregon State Farmers' association, said the bulb growers ask only that the law require that bulbs brought in from abroad be "as service for both parent and child. Truman Visits

The president answered the greeting of Col. Mahlon Weed with a smile, a wave to his friends, and a word that he was glad to be back home. With Mr. Truman seated beside him, Eisenhower spoke last night at a ceremony in which the World War II battle flags of the 35th, a national guard division, were returned to the states of Missouri, Nebraska and Kansas. The men who hit Normandy on D-Day three years ago heard their former commander warn that their efforts would be in vain unless the United States remains active internationally. "We alone cannot accomplish the world's salvation," Eisenhower said. "We face, moreover, the fact that at least one of the powerful nations does not see eye to eye with us on measures for the stability peace demands. "But another's indifference—or even hostility—must not deflect us from the course we deem right... helping those who seek to live in freedom." The president, in addition to speaking tonight at the division memorial service, will visit his aged mother at her small farm cottage in Grandview, 17 miles away. He spent about an hour at her bedside yesterday. When he returned to his hotel he said, "She's better than when I left her. I found her in good shape."

1000 Berry Pickers Needed

At least 1000 strawberry pickers are needed to harvest what remains of this year's crop and the farm labor office Friday afternoon issued an appeal to townspeople to go into the fields over the week-end. By calling the farm labor office pickers will be informed as to the places closest to their homes. "The growers have not given up completely, and are hopeful that pickers will be available to go over their fields at least once more," Mrs. Gladys Turnbull, of the farm labor office said, as she issued a call for help. In the Silverton Hills country where the berries are particularly fine, there is a demand for helpers because many of the campers moved out during the rain. Forty-six growers appeared at the farm labor office Friday morning and eight returned to their farms without a single helper. One hundred sixty-two men were on hand Friday morning in addition to 45 women and 40 youths. "We could have placed 500," Mr. Turnbull said.
