

CHRISTMAS trees and greens are coming down and little by little Salem is settling into its normal, bustling and speed, after one of the busiest holiday seasons yet seen.

But not all social life has disappeared from the scene. Mrs. George Rosman, wife of the supreme court justice, and Mrs. David Eason, are planning a luncheon at the Roseman home in North Capitol for later in the month honoring Mrs. Custer Ross and Mrs. L. G. Lewelling of Albany, who leave in February for the Orient.

And promises of springtime weddings are many, too as we turn the yearly corner.

By Jean Taylor

IN COMPLIMENT to Mrs. L. G. Lewelling of Albany, and Mrs. Custer Ross, who sail February 20 for the Orient, two Salem matrons, Mrs. George Rosman and Mrs. David Eason, will entertain Friday afternoon, January 23, from three o'clock until 5:30, at the Rosman home.

The two plan an indefinite length trip to the Orient, and their first destination is Shanghai, where Mrs. Ross' son, L. Douglas Ross is stationed. From there they will go to Hong Kong, Manila, and perhaps to Australia.

Mrs. Charles E. Wagner presided at luncheon Friday afternoon at the Marlton hotel in compliment to her house-guest, her sister, Mrs. W. W. Eddy of Everett, Wash., who will be spending two weeks at the Wagner home.

Guests for the luncheon were Mrs. Eddy, Mrs. D. H. H. Vandeneynde and the hosts.

Miss Mary Larson has returned from Boise, Idaho, where she spent the New Year's holiday with relatives.

THE DAY FOLLOWING CHRISTMAS St. Joseph's Catholic church was the setting for the marriage of Miss Paula Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Smith of Dayton, and Robert Sullivan, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Sullivan of Salem. A reception at the Salem Golf course. (Jesten-Miller studio)

THE end of the holiday season means no dearth of social activity in the capital. Saturday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Asa Lewelling will be hosts for an informal party honoring John Hughes, whose birthday anniversary was Friday. The event is to be at their Division street home.

Guests for the event are Mr. and Mrs. Hughes, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Hug, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Hobbs, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Graichenhorst, Mr. and Mrs. John H. McCullough, Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Dyer, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Stevenson and the hosts.

Mr. and Mrs. Dyer will also be hosts Saturday evening honoring friends who flew from Seattle, Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Slarr, to visit with them for the week-end.

They have invited a few friends to their West Rural street home to meet their guests. Brides are Mr. and Mrs. Slarr, Mr. and Mrs. G. Wallace Hug, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Hobbs, Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Rejune and the Dyers.

Nuptials to take place at the First Christian church, means a unit in marriage Miss Patricia Jenkins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Jenkins, and Wilbur L. Hickman, son of Mrs. Clara Hickman, Sunday afternoon at four o'clock.

Rev. Dudley Strain will officiate at the rites.

Miss Jenkins attended Turner schools and took music training in Baker from the Eastern Oregon College of Education. Her fiancé served in the navy during the war and is now transport operator for Consolidated Freightways.

Mr. and Mrs. Verne H. Hasbrook will attend the couple at the wedding.

The bride will wear a powder blue crepe afternoon dress and a small black hat trimmed with white veil down the back. She will wear black accessories, a strand of pearls and a corsage of white roses, freesia and gardenias.

Mrs. Hasbrook will wear a blue afternoon dress and black accessories and a corsage of spring flowers.

The reception following the wedding will be held at the West Myers street home of the bridegroom's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Harold D. Dunsmore, for close friends and relatives.

On Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Sawyer will celebrate their 60th wedding anniversary.

Miss Myra M. Haven and Charles W. Sawyer were married in North Eaton, O., January 4, 1888. They lived in Ellettsville, O., 23 years, where Mr. Sawyer was in the retail shoe business during that time.

They came to Oregon in 1910 and purchased a home in Salem Heights. Deceased a home in Columbia street, home they lived since, moving only twice in their 60 years of married life. Mr. Sawyer was 84 December 14 and Mrs. Sawyer, 80, on Christmas day.

They have two sons, Ben Sawyer, who lives at home and Maurice Sawyer, who makes his home in Portland. Grandchildren are Tom Sawyer and Mrs. Ted Yaw in Portland. Their great-grandchild is Ronald Yaw of Portland.

In celebration of the anniversary, the couple will go to the home of Mrs. Sawyer's niece, Mrs. H. R. Woodburn, at Oceanlake, for a family gathering over the week-end.

The AAUW executive board will meet with Mrs. Guy Hickok, 993 North Sumner street, at 7:30 o'clock Tuesday evening.

The Wesleyan Service guild of the First Methodist church will meet Monday at eight o'clock in the evening in the Fellowship room of the church. There will be a plough service.

The first meeting of the Business & Professional Women's club chorus will be held Monday night at 8 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Ralph Cole, 875 South Cherry street, the director, Mrs. Jessie Bush Mickelson, has announced. Mrs. Mickelson is planning a Schubert production for presentation in the spring.

MISS ELAINE WINKLE, bride-elect of Donald F. Dill, is announcing her wedding plans this week-end.

The couple will trade vows Sunday afternoon at three o'clock January 18, at St. Mark's Evangelical Lutheran church, with Rev. Mark A. Getzenander, officiating.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest W. Winkle, will be given in marriage by her father. She has asked to her maid of honor, Miss Charlotte Williams. Bridesmaids will be Miss Norman Cass and Miss Ramona Evans. Flower girl will be Kathryn Kolb and ring bearer, John Winkler. Best man she will be Eric Paul Bergman. Ushers will be Robert Gangware, J. Wesley Sullivan, Winston Taylor, Jerry Stone, Lee Cour and Conrad Prange.

Prof. Maurice Brennan will be the organist and singing will be Reid Shelton.

A reception in the church parlors will follow the wedding.

THE Portland Symphony orchestra which makes its Salem debut Wednesday night brings to the capital a reputation for excellence unexcelled by that of any major instrumental ensemble in the entire country.

The concert will be held at the Salem high school auditorium. General admission charges for the single seats which are still available are $1.50. General admission for the series of two concerts, $1.20. Tickets for seats in the reserve section are $2.40 a piece.

That is the enthusiastic opinion of critics, professional and otherwise, who were unanimous in the view that the new organization was after only a fortnight's rehearsing, a more polished and capable group than any previous Portland symphony orchestra.

Hislar Grandaul, music editor of The Oregonian, said of the orchestra's performance of Beethoven's "Eroica" symphony on the same program that it was "more magnificent than this hall has previously heard. Werner Janssen made it abundantly clear that the orchestra for which Portland has been waiting is at hand both in body and spirit. . . Congratulations to Werner Janssen and his ensemble."

Two weeks later Grandaul wrote: "The orchestra has come a long way under Werner Janssen. It is after only a fortnight's rehearsing, a more polished and capable group than any previous Portland symphony orchestra."

JOTTINGS by JEAN

Open House—A wonderful send-off for the old year and beginning for Salem's welcome of the New was the beautifully planned home for which Judge and Mrs. E. M. Page were hosts Wednesday afternoon and evening at their home in Court street. . . . It was the couple's 25th wedding anniversary. . . . Mrs. Page wore a black silk crepe gown with ruffles of black lace down the front and on the sleeves. . . . with it she wore a handsome jeweled pin. . . . receiving with the couple was their son, Richard, who leaves Sunday morning for Palo Alto, Calif., to return to his studies at Stanford following a holiday visit at home. . . .

The Entry Way—Lovely garlands of fir branches and wedding bells over the porch way. . . . tied with a silver bow on the door was a huge wreath of laurel leaves, Port Orford cedar and white comes. . . . by the door was a spotlighted Christmas tree decked with silver straws and over the steps, silver and white bells and the words, "Happy New Year."

The Rooms—The décor combined the holiday and silver anniversary theme. . . . The square mirror over the mantel was decked with crysanthemum and silver fiesta straws and below it was a row of green arched candles with tall twisted branch candelabras, and white tapers twined with similar. . . . just as lovely was the dining table, covered with a white satin cloth scattered with silver bows. . . . the centerpiece was a lovely silver vase of white roses and freesias on a round mirror, flanked with white twisted tapers in silver candelsticks. . . . smiles greeted the tired wedding cake. . . .

Touchees—Everywhere one looked was an attractive picture. . . . sweet cups were combined in table arrangements with silver bouquets. . . . on the piano, a tiny white Christmas tree tied with pink bows and rose bows with festias at the base. . . .

Assisting—Lots of lovely gowns on display by both the guests and those of the hostess. . . . Mrs. Dan J. McLellan, in a simple black dinner gown embellished with a bird of gold sequins on one shoulder. . . . in a black dinner gown with an off-shoulder bertha of gold and fuchsia beading was Mrs. Lester Barr. . . . Mrs. Douglas McKay wore a lovely black crepe gown, inset with lace and in her hair, baby orchids and a shower of silver "star dust". . . . lots of gay gowns on route to the various dancing club parties. . . . they brought their greens, chatted a few moments and then left. . . . Mrs. and Mrs. Stewart Johnson and D. W. Eyrre. . . . she wore a black and white print dinner gown. . . . so many lovely costumes we hardly know where to start. . . . in rich brown satin was Mrs. H. L. Huff. . . . Mrs. Harry Miller chose a bright colored print bodice for a black skirt. . . . Mrs. William J. Busiek's black gown with lace trim was highlighted with a large corsage of scarlet carnations. . . . simple and lovely black skirt with white blouse was Miss Dorothy Steadoff's choice for the affair, while her sister, Mrs. G. Frederick Chambers wore a Chinese blue gown with sequin trim. . . . Visitor warmly welcomed on the guest scene was Miss Edna Sterling, holiday houseguest of the Paul Wallace. . . .

Informal Attire—Not everyone came formally gowned to the event and many and smart were the various informal ensembles on display. . . . Mrs. Fred B. Moxley was smart in a grey cheik, softly tailored dress with a small black hat. . . . her beautifully done up hair, styling sprinkled with rose colored "star dust." Mrs. Wheeler Rilea chose a wool violet-shaded wool dress with a high, round neckline. . . . in a grey dress, its long sheath skirt sprinkled with large rhinestones, was Mrs. C. W. Dyer. . . . over the lovely dress she wore a berry-red suede coat with a gathered waist-line. . . . Mrs. R. H. Ballock wore the perennial favorite, all black. . . .

Change of Address—From now on the Stuart McElhinny address is no longer Nimitz, Idaho. . . . they returned this week-end to the "high country," in Ontario, where they will make their home. . . . in fact, already have an apartment at Stuart avenue, Mrs. Harry W. Scott and Dr. Lucille Fortner are co-hostesses. Dessert will be at 7:30 o'clock.
