Freighters Sue Flagg on Order

Asbury Transportation company and nine other freight carriers operating truck lines in the state, have filed complaint against George H. Flagg, public utilities commissioner, in circuit court here seeking to set aside an order of the commissioner which transferred operations of the Cottage Grove-Eugene Freight & Transfer company from Jesse Lansing Sr., to Jesse Lansing, Jr., and allowed the territory covered by the Cottage Grove company to be widened.

The order authorized service between Eugene and Cottage Grove, Cottage Grove and Dis-ton, also general commodities except petroleum products in bulk in tank trucks anywhere in corporate limits of Cottage Grove, and also general commodities within 20 road miles of Cottage Grove or any point in Oregon or from any point in Oregon to Cottage Grove or any point with 20 road miles of that town.

The Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company

toward a permanent forest industry

—AN ENDLESS SUPPLY OF LOGS FROM TREE FARMS.

—IMPROVED UTILIZATION BY DIVERSIFIED MANUFACTURING.

THE year 1948 saw continuing progress in the company's efforts to insure its permanent operation. We are making progress in tree farming, diversified manufacturing, and the integration of different types of processing plants on one millsite. This, together with the development of new products and the creation of permanent markets, becomes more a reality as our plant additions program sees unit after unit being completed: The new hydraulic barkers; the bark products plant; the plywood plant; the sulphate plant; the Springfield lumber division and the container board plant.

In 1947 and 1948 the company spent nearly $50,000,000 for additions to plants, equipment and roads. These new units will provide jobs for approximately 1,100 new employees and an estimated payroll increase of $3,600,000 per year.

Yes, vital steps are being taken to build a permanent and profitable operation—profitable not only to Weyerhaeuser shareholders but also to company employees and the communities in which our mills are located.
