"No. At least I did not see him it is any concern of yours." There ifficen. I saw him earlier, at nime was a slight note of belligerency fifteen. He seemed very happy."

"Was he the only one here?

"Yes. No, wait a minute, to.! Bill Griffith. was hinde. I think the life of the hind pictor." Yere typhed. "What he was the wasn't such a tragedy. A sibre? He held out a find out look? Wreek eighed. "What an old man, each?" Good nice.

I Rafferty. We mast come together some time. It will be good to take of research?

"Rafferty. We mast come together some time. It will be good to take of research?"

"Rafferty we mast come together some time. It will be good to take of closest his hand and found he was still clutching the grown Hubbard's chair. It was been the initials "H.F."

"Ah? said Verek, 'you have found Dr. Fenton's pen. He will be most happy. He was looking for it this afternoon."

(Chapter 24)

"Penton's pen. Raff mused, "So this is Fenton's pen. Well, I'm glad that it is what the murder go now?"

"Elen and, "It will just take a minute to get al Vall's address." Ene looked at him soberty." To you suppose it was Fenton?"

"I don't know. Fin going to find out what his pen was doing in a room to which he claimed he had ho key," he said grimly. She copied the address and handed him the silp, in a few minutes they were on their way.

The house where the Fenton's lived was in the middle of a whole blockful of identical two-family residences, all badly in need of a coat of paint.

Raff stopped the car and told Ellen, "I'm going in alone. You stay here, I'm leaving the exp, and if I'm not out in fifteen minutes you go straight to the police station. Understand?"

She nodded and he kissed her briefly.

"Be careful," she whispered.

Raff pressed the bell. The house was dark and quict. After about two minutes of silence he rang again.

A light became visible somewhere in the back of the paintennent, Presently the porch light went on and the curtains on the door was opened a crack and a woman's the door was opened a crack
